Strike Breaking Cruise?

NANAIMO (CP) — The Prince George, a steamship formerly owned by Canadian National Railways and now owned by Wong Bros. Enterprises, has been chartered to ITT Rayonier, a pulp and paper firm with operations in Washington State.

"The ship has been moved to Port Angeles on charter in the event that we may need to operate the mill with management personnel in view of the strike which has affected the mill operation," said Rayonier spokesman Jay Fredrickson.

A strike by pulp and paper workers has closed about 20 mills in Washington, Oregon and California,

Fredrickson said the ship may be used as a hostel for management staff.

City Turns Cheek On Bathing Issue

The city of Victoria has decided to turn the other cheek when it comes to nude sunbathing at Prior Lake in Thetis Lake Park.

Parks committee chairman Ald. Robin Blencoe said today that after extensive discussions with city hall staff he's decided not to enforce a bylaw that restricts nude sunbathing.

"Trying to enforce it would create far more problems that the situation out at Prior Lake now does," said Blencoe.

The city's decision to look the other way comes about two weeks after Blencoe warned nude bathers that they'd better get their pants back on. He said Victoria had a bylaw that made their naked pastime illegal.

But Blencoe admitted all along that he didn't want to enforce the bylaw and just wished the nudes and non-nudes could stay out of each other's way.

The Prior situation became an issue after a number of people had complained about seeing nude men walking to their cars parked along Highland Road.

Blencoe said today he thinks that if the sunbathers use a little discretion and have some consideration for those who don't approve of nudism then problems can be avoided.

He said Prior Lake is in a relatively isolated area and it should be easy for people who object to nudity to avoid seeing things they don't want to.

Meanwhile, the whole problem of naked swimmers at Prior Lake was rendered somewhat academic by the closure of Thetis Lake Park due to an extreme fire hazard.

The park was closed last week until further notice because of the hot, dry weather.

STRIKE NEXT WEEK?

Last-Ditch Talks For Air Canada

MONTREAL (UPI) — Air Canada negotiators will meet union representatives today in a last minute effort to avert a threatened rotating strike by the company's machinists next week.

The strike action, which threatens to disrupt the peak tourist season and visitors to the Commonwealth Games, was approved Monday by 83 percent of the 7,200 member of the International Association of Machinists after a nationwide ballot.

Barry Shaw said wages are the key to a settlement in contract talks which have been underway since March.

The IAM have demanded an 18 per cent pay increase over an 18 month period and voted by 91 per cent in favor of rejecting the airline's last contract offer of an annual 6 per cent pay increase for two years.

"Statements have been made recently that Air Canada had a $40 million operating profit last year and its best first quarter ever this year, and the statement was made that it was entirely due to the efforts of employees," Shaw said. "But there doesn't seem to be anything coming back to them."

Though the strike action would not be legal until seven days after the receipt of a conciliation board report which is not expected until next week, Shaw said a work stoppage could start before then.

But David Pember, a spokesman for Air Canada, said the company was hopeful a settlement could be reached.

"We're hopeful this round of talks will lead to a settlement in an amicable environment, but we'll just have to wait and see," Pember said.

The strike would coincide with contract talks for 1,500 pilots, 2,700 flight attendants, and 500 employees in the Winnipeg finance center.

The last work stoppages by Air Canada's machinists were rotation strikes in 1971 and 1973.

"When we've gone through this process in the past, Air Canada was able to operate at 80 per cent efficiency but the protest had the effect it was supposed to."

Shaw said another national vote would held should union officials decide a general strike is necessary.

BUBBLY MARKS DATE OF DEATH

BURNABY (CP) — Last month contractor Robert Steeves read his own obituary in a Vancouver newspaper, giving his date of death as July 24, 1978.

Steeves, 53, still doesn't know if the notice was a joke or a warning.

"I had planned to spend the day in bed, but I had too much work to do and decided to ignore what happened and carry on as usual," Steeves said Monday night while drinking champagne to mark the occasion.

Steeves, who is involved in more than $8 million worth of construction business in the Vancouver area, didn't even vary his routine.

"Of course, the death notice was in the back of my mind, but I tried not to let it worry me.

"I'm a hard-line contractor, and I don't make many friends in this business, but I don't think anyone really intended to kill me. It was probably just a scare from someone who was upset with me."

Steeves said dozens of friends and relatives called his home and business with messages of sympathy, and several people went to the funeral home to see his remains.

"Even now, a month later, a few people are shocked when they see me. They thought I was dead. It's certainly an odd feeling."

ICBC Facing Competition From Five Private Firms

VANCOUVER (CP) — At least five major private automobile insurance companies say they will sell collision and comprehensive coverage this fall in competition with the Insurance Corporation of British Columbia (ICBC).

The Crown corporation said it is preparing for the competition, made possible when the provincial government said in 1976 that it would allow private firms to underwrite coverage beyond the compulsory $75,000 public liability insurance.

The firms, Royal Insurance Canada, Zurich Insurance Co., Commercial Union Assurance Co. Ltd., Allstate Insurance Co. of Canada and Fireman's Fund Insurance Co. of Canada say they will sell the coverage non-selectively.

This agreement was designed to forestall charges that the private carriers would cover only drivers with good records and leave ICBC with poorer drivers to cover.

Insurance experts say the stipulation also removes much of the rate advantage private insurers would enjoy were they allowed to be selective.

An insurance monopoly was given to ICBC in 1973 when the NDP government set up the public carrier.

Only Royal has since sold insurance in competition with ICBC. The other four decided to do so this spring.

ICBC spokesman Bob Egby said the corporation plans no rate changes. "We think we're in a competitive position already," he said.

Ken Underhill, Zurich's branch manager in Vancouver, said his firm expects to offer physical damage coverage within 30 to 60 days.

"We plan to keep things as simple as we can to keep our costs down," he said. "Who knows how much private enterprise the public will support?"

Zurich, which did about $8 million worth of auto insurance when ICBC pre-empted it, plans at most a modest advertising campaign, preferring to work through independent insurance agents, Underhill said.

John Chutter, branch manager for Commercial Union, said he expects the company will begin offering coverage by Nov. 1. The company did about $5 million worth of business before ICBC took over.

Chutter said Commercial would offer coverage on private autos, and may expand into commercial vehicles, but will not write liability above the first $75,000 written by ICBC. "Liability is difficult to price," he said, "and we prefer to go one step at a time."

Jack Lewis, a spokesman for insurance agents, said the competition "will open up the market."

GETTING READY for a big beer blitz is Associated Commercial Travellers of Victoria representative Stew Irving, who hoisted a brew or two today to toast the opening of his club's beer garden. With 3,000 cases of canned Olympia on hand, and hot weather ahead, the Travellers seem assured of success — if not a stampede. The beer garden on Wharf St. near the AirWest terminal opened at noon and runs until Sunday or the last beer, whichever comes first. Brew is $1.15 a can and all profits go to charity. NEWS BRIEFS

Body Found

Victoria city police today pulled a body out of the Selkirk Waters near the B.C. Forest Products complex.

A police spokesman said that the body was found at around 11 this morning off the end of David St. and had been sent to the Victoria General Hospital for examination.

At press time neither the identity of the person nor cause of death had been determined.

Message Rejected

CAIRO - Egypt has rejected out of hand a message from Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin on grounds it contained nothing new and was only a rehash of Israel's position, a semi-official Egyptian newspaper says. See story on Page 2.

Moscow Travel Plans Of U.S. Officials Iced

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. state department today slapped a general ban on future visits to the Soviet Union by high-ranking U.S. officials until relations improve between Washington and the Kremlin.

Department spokesman Hodding Carter III said a scheduled trip to the Soviet Union by Lawrence Simons, assistant secretary of housing, had been officially cancelled under terms of the new policy.

The spokesman said all such activities are now under review "and pending the completion of the review, on a case-by-case basis we are deferring all high-level visits." The case-by-case review would presumably leave open the possibility of future trips by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

"We'd hope that as a better atmosphere developed . . . we could allow such exchanges to become more active," Carter said.

The decision to cancel high-level trips does not affect strategic arms negotiations or other disarmament discussions involving the two nations but going on outside the Soviet Union.

Simons' trip was the third high-level American visit cancelled in recent weeks.

The policy decision was reported by State Department officials to have been taken last week, as part of a larger policy review at the White House on possible reprisals for Soviet actions against dissidents and American journalists.

Mediation Slated

Mediator Ken Albertini will meet Wednesday with union and company negotiators in an effort to avert a strike by about 3,000 B.C. supermarket employees.

The members of the Retail Clerks Union (RCU) have voted 60 per cent in favor of walking off the job.

The union has not yet served 72-hour-strike notice.

Union president Rudy Kricken said today everything in the contract is in dispute.

He said it would take too much time to go into any more detail about the issues.

The employees are the third group to vote for strike action against the B.C. Food Industry Labor Relations Council, which represents Safeway, Shop-Easy and Economart outlets.

Both the meatcutters' local of the Canadian Food and Allied Workers and the Bakery and Confectionary Workers International Union voted earlier this month to strike.

The three sectors, representing about 5,000 workers, have been without a contract since March 31.

Tokyo Market Batters Dollar

Times News Services

The U.S. dollar, spurned by money traders and abandoned by Japan's central bank, took another spectacular plunge on the Tokyo foreign exchange market today, and fiscal experts predicted further losses.

The dollar closed the day's trading at 195.50 yen, a sharp drop from Monday's previous record low of 199.10 and nearly five yen below Friday's close.

Meanwhile, the price of gold, at the highest levels in 3½ years, fell slightly.

Pressure on the dollar eased on some European markets, although the currency was still very weak. It fell to another record low in Zurich — 1.7715 Swiss francs, down from Monday's close of 1.77375.

Swiss bankers repeated their view that the Bonn economic summit last week amounted to too many words and not enough action on solving the world's economic crises.

In Tokyo the bank of Japan abandoned efforts to bolster the dollar, which closed at the postwar low of 195.50 yen.

Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda blamed the drop on what he described as the lack of a monetary policy in the U.S. and other foreign countries and to the failure of the U.S. Congress to approve President Carter's energy legislation.

No-Flight Passenger Gets $800

MONTREAL (CP) — Air Canada has been ordered to pay $800 to a doctor who bought a ticket from the airline for a non-existent flight.

Dr. Amine Kanaan bought a ticket for a flight from Montreal to Val d'Or. He was assured there would be a connecting flight with Fecteau Air Service to Matagami, where he was to provide medical services.

When the Air Canada flight reached Val d'Or, about 430 kilometres northwest of here, Kanaan discovered there was no flight to Matagami and had to spend the day there while waiting for a return flight to Montreal.

Provincial court Judge Robert Turgeon said it was grossly negligent of Air Canada to sell a ticket for a non-existent flight.

Dr. Kanaan and his lawyers had originally claimed a total of $2,925 for lost revenues and costs.

'Rollback Attempt' Charge by BCGEU

The B.C. government has been accused of attempting to roll back the wages of 2,000 of its employees by changing their classifications.

In a newsletter to members of local 1201 of the B.C. Government Employees Union, local chairman Ron Richings says the proposal to create the new category of office assistant to replace the clerk, clerk-steno, typist and similar groups at levels one and two "threatens to become a full-scale storm."

"The office assistant series appears to be our employer's attempt to roll back wages won at the bargaining table by manipulating the classification process," Richings says.

"There are some aspects which are not yet clear but the more we learn about this series, the worse it looks."

A government spokesman said the proposal is an attempt to "rationalize the salary range" for 15 classifications which are separated by a maximum of $15 to $20.

John Mochrie, director of personnel policy for the Government Employee Relations Bureau, said in an interview this would involve dividing the junior and entry level jobs into two new categories — office assistants one and two.

"No present employees will have their salary reduced," he said. "If anything, in the conversion they will be going up instead of down."

He said the starting salaries for new employees in these categories would be lower, in keeping with market conditions for these jobs.

But the maximum for each category would be higher, he said, because "we're taking the long range and trying to get some reasonable intervals between each level."

"There was some concern that we're down-grading a bunch of jobs which is not true. We're not down-grading jobs at all — we're changing salary structure.

"We are not looking at changes in salary as much as a rationalization of salary range in the interval steps between the minimum and the maximum."

He said the proposal was presented to the BCGEU last August.

Marg Arthur, administrative assistant to the union's secretary general, refused comment "because the matter is under discussion with the employer."

Forests Potential Infernos, 10,000 Workers Now Idled

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than 10,000 workers in B.C. logging industry have now been laid off as hot, dry weather continues to make forests in the province potential infernos, a Council of Forest Industries official said Monday.

"It's not a disaster yet, but if it stays dry for some time longer it could be," said Mike Painter, the council's forestry vice-president. He said an estimated 20,000 persons are directly involved in logging in B.C.

"Most camps are down now. That includes Prince Rupert, even though that is one of the dampest areas," Painter said.

The long-range weather forecast was for continued high temperatures and low rainfall in most parts of the province where 150 forest fires now are burning — of which 92 began this past weekend.

Forecasters say conditions will not change for about 30 days. The threat of lightning strikes in that time could make this summer the worst fire season in 20 years, they say.

The general manager of a province-wide forest companies' association said all 97 of the group's members have shut their operations.

"Even the night fogs on the west coast of Vancouver Island are not what they used to be. Usually the fog makes the forest wet enough so we can get in an early-morning shift," said Don Mackenzie.

A spokesman for MacMillan Bloedel Ltd., B.C.'s largest forest company, said only two of the company's 17 divisions were operating Monday.

Tom Williams said about 2,780 regular employees and 670 contract workers have been laid off for the duration of the heat wave.

In the Upper Fraser Valley, east of here, three forest companies have laid off about 200 workers, a spokesman for one of them said.

Bill Johnston of Canadian Forest Products' Harrison operation estimated 10 per cent of logging operations in the area have not closed down. He said at least one inch of rain, followed by cloudy weather is needed before logging can resume.

John Sturgeon, spokesman for B.C. Forest Products, said Monday that about 1,000 of the firm's employees have been laid off.

"Practically every one of our operations is down or is about to go down," he said.

In Victoria, Arnold Ginnever of the B.C. Forest Service said the situation is steadily deteriorating and is especially bad in the Prince Rupert area where five major fires were burning.

The Prince Rupert forest service said a 7,000-acre fire in the extreme northwest corner of B.C. near Atlin had stopped spreading Monday.

Forester Glen Moore said two other major blazes were contained and another three new fires were under control.

New Begin Plan Scorned

Times News Services

CAIRO — Egypt has refused to accept a message from Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin because it contained no new proposals for Middle East peace talks, the semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram said today.

The news report followed statements by Egyptian officials that talks between leaders of the two countries could not be resumed until Israel altered its policy.

Al-Ahram said the message to President Anwar Sadat, which was received Sunday night, was rejected because it contained nothing but a repetition of Israel's position.

Begin announced after a Sunday cabinet meeting that he would send Sadat a proposal for further meetings.

Sadat summoned his National Security Council for a meeting Wednesday to discuss the latest developments and to prepare for the forthcoming visit by U.S. State Secretary Cyrus Vance, the newspaper said.

"Israel's intransigent position made it necessary to convene the council," it said.

Meanwhile in Jerusalem, during a raucus and occasionally ear-splitting debate in the parliament, Begin's government Monday withstood by a two-to-one margin a resolution of no confidence in Israel's peace policy.

The Labor alignment shelved, for the time being, a no-confidence vote in Begin's administration. Instead, it offered a five-point indictment of Israel's foreign policy that Begin's Likud coalition defeated by 64 to 32 votes.

The resolution declared that Begin's cabinet is conducting negotiations in a way that is certain to result in a deadlock with Israel's Arab adversaries, and that peace in the Middle East will never be advanced without Israel's readiness to accept territorial compromise in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip.

Begin was elected last year on a promise to retain the West Bank as Israel's "eternal" right, and his peace proposal, while offering Egypt the return of virtually all of the Sinai desert, rejects the concept of withdrawal from the West Bank and Gaza.

The Knesset (parliament) floor erupted into a cacophony of heckling and shouted insults as Knesset members repeatedly interrupted the prime minister in the course of his rambling, 50-minute speech in defence of Israel's foreign policy. The debate lasted seven hours.

From time to time Begin engaged individual Knesset members in heated arguments, and at one point he complained, "I can't finish a sentence. It is not fair. But never mind, I will speak. I have all my phrases."

THE OUTCASTS by Ben Wicks

Weddings Down, Births Up

OTTAWA (CP) — There were fewer marriages but more births in Canada during 1976 than a year earlier, Statistics Canada reports.

The number of marriages solemnized in 1976 totalled 193,343, a 2.2-per-cent decline from the previous year. Every province except Prince Edward Island and Quebec had fewer marriages. The rate was up in Prince Edward Island and unchanged from 1975 in Quebec.

The federal agency also said that the number of births to Canadian residents in 1976 totalled 359,987, a slight two-tenths of one per cent increase from 1975.

On a province-by-province basis, the number of births was up in four provinces—led by Saskatchewan with 4.2-per-cent more births—and down in six.

Luxury Cruises. . .More Than You Bargain For

OTTAWA (CP) - Sail the seven seas in luxury cruise liners and enjoy cockroaches, dirty water and improperly handled foods says the latest edition of the Canadian Medican Association Journal.

The warning about some the cruise ships which touch Canadian ports, quoting reports of U.S. health inspections done last year and early this year, says:

"Revelations in some cases have been enough to send many passengers hustling either to the medicine cabinet or the rail."

Meanwhile, federal health officials said in Ottawa Monday there is nothing they can do about the situation, despite many of the ships docking in Canada and picking up passengers.

"My advise is to fly," said one official who asked that his name not be used. "Taking a cruise is the last thing I'd do, but it's really a question of taste."

Among examples cited in the Journal article:

—Veendam, a Holland America Line ship which cruises from Vancouver to Alaska, failed 10 out 14 inspections last year, passed in January and failed again in March. Problems included roaches in the bakery shop, butcher shop, coffee pantry and garbage room — located about six feet from the kitchen ranges.

—Angelina Lauro, a Costa Line ship, inspected following a seven-day cruise in Caribbean in February, 1978. Problems included coliform organisms in water samples and cooked meat left uncovered on a kitchen table where many roaches were observed.

—Kingsholm, of Flagship Line, failed inspection January, 1978. Problems included leaking water in the milk room filling the gutter which was already littered with cigarette butts.

Other cases included the Mardi Gras, formerly Canadian Pacific's Empress of Canada, which had one of the better records. It passed seven of 10 inspections in 1977 and its last one in February, 1978.

The U.S. health inspectors can board a ship at any time to check sanitary conditions. But U.S. and Canadian officials have no authority to enforce regulations and prevent a ship from docking or sailing because of these conditions.

Said one health department spokesman: "If a ship comes in from somewhere else, there is nothing we can do."

Federal officials say Canadian inspectors can only use their authority under the Quarantine Act where communicable diseases are involved.

"Under international rules we cannot stop ships from sailing for not meeting health requirements," a spokesman said.

3 Cons Nabbed After Robbery

MONTREAL (CP) — Police recaptured three prisoners late Monday who had only hours earlier escaped from the federal medium-security Leclerc Institute in nearby Laval.

Jean Jalbert, 25, his brother Roch, 21, and Michel Drouin, 18, were arrested following a $60 robbery at a grocery store in nearby St. Hubert, police said.

Police said the three prisoners were driving a car stolen from a used-car-lot and were armed with a .22-calibre rifle at the time of their arrest.

They had escaped from the penitentiary earlier in the day by cutting through the barred window of a third-floor cell and scaling two high fences surrounding the prison yard. The penitentiary service has launched an inquiry into the escape.

Their capture leaves only three of eight convicts who have escaped from Quebec prisons in the past week still at large.

Higher Beef Price Forecast In U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The overall increase in U.S. food prices is nearly double the rate for other consumer items this year and prices for beef and sugar are running even ahead of that rate, White House inflation counselor Barry Bosworth said today.

But Bosworth said despite gloomy developments immediately ahead for beef and sugar, American consumers can expect lower food prices.

"Fortunately, the rapid rate of food price inflation which we have experienced thus far is not expected to continue and the worst seems behind us," Bosworth told Congress.

Bosworth said beef prices have soared at an annual rate of 54 per cent so far this year to account for most of the inflation in consumer food prices. Food prices have been rising at an annual rate exceeding 17 per cent compared with an overall cost-of-living rise of about 10 per cent.

"The higher cattle prices (received by farmers) have not yet been fully reflected at the retail level," Bosworth said. "Hence, further increases in retail beef prices can be expected."

Although food processors and supermarkets receive two-thirds of the consumer food dollar, Bosworth said raw prices received by farmers have accounted for most of the food inflation this year.

It accounts for about $1 of every $6 spent at supermarkets and restaurants.

Nobody Admits To Making All The Profits

TORONTO (CP) — Farmers, wholesalers and retailers say they are not profiting from beef prices that have risen 40 per cent in the last year.

Industry spokesmen say prices will continue to rise for the next three or four years, but any profit is consumed by rising production costs.

"I like cows, always have," Bob King, owner of a 250-acre beef farm near London, Ont., said in a recent interview.

"But cows and money are two different things. I've made no profit in the last four years. I'm sure the city folks wouldn't believe me when they're at the meat counter."

Chester Wilcox, corporate meat manager for Dominion Stores Ltd., said no one is making a huge profit off beef increases.

And Fred Marshall, assistant general sales manager of the Ontario food division of the Oshawa Group, said there is no profit on beef.

"We lose about seven per cent on the beef we sell," Marshall said. "We're in the supermarket business — not the beef business — or we wouldn't stock it.

"We have to carry it because it's the single most-powerful drawing card for customers. We can't afford to be without it.

"But there's no profit, not for us, not for our competitors. And there won't be until farmers can produce carcass that's 100-per-cent steak."

McCarthy Gets New Stay of Deportation

The reprieve came when lawyers for McCarthy and the federal immigration department announced they would make an immediate application to the Federal Court of Appeal to set a date to review the deportation order.

The appeal court had agreed to hear McCarthy's appeal several weeks ago but no date had been set and the government has tried to forcibly remove him twice.

Lawyers said this latest legal battle was a victory in McCarthy's four-month long attempt to resist deportation to Ireland. They say he is willing to go elsewhere but the government has not granted that right.

McCarthy has been detained in jail since March 24 in Vancouver, and in Montreal after he was found working illegally in Vancouver. The discovery came when he was arrested for jaywalking.

He has denied reports by immigration officials that he is wanted in connection with a 1977 Dublin bank robbery, saying it is a case of mistaken identity. Canada and Ireland have no extradition treaty.

However, Irish police said earlier today that McCarthy will be charged with involvement in the robbery if he is deported.

The McCarthy case came before Federal Court trial Judge Patrick Mahoney today for the second time. The judge said there were no legal grounds to forbid the deportation. But he advised the government to follow normal practice by letting McCarthy stay until the appeal court reviews his case. The court in Vancouver quashed an earlier deportation order against him.

Drop Drugs, Carter Warns Staffers

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter served notice on his White House staff Monday that his aides must avoid marijuana and other illegal drugs or "seek employment elsewhere."

Carter's directive followed a statement last week by Dr. Peter Bourne, who resigned as his drug policy adviser, that there was a "high incidence" of marijuana use among White House employees and occasional use of cocaine.

Jody Powell, the White House press secretary, told reporters:

"The president has made it quite clear to members of the senior staff, and has asked that we in turn make it clear directly to those who work for us, that he does not care whether people agree with laws or not . . . but those of us who work in the White House are expected to obey them, and if we cannot then we should seek employment elsewhere."

Powell said Carter's order was relayed to a senior staff meeting Monday morning by Hamilton Jordan, the president's principal assistant.

Asked whether Carter is disturbed, Powell responded: "I think you can draw your own conclusions by what I've just said."

Powell said the president's move stemmed from "reports that some people in the White House may consider it to be acceptable to violate the law." Powell repeated that such people will "either obey the law or work somewhere else."

Asked whether an inquiry was conducted to ascertain whether Bourne's statement was well-founded, Powell said: "I know of no reasonable way to conduct an investigation."

In response to another question, Powell said Carter's attitude toward observance of the law applies to all federal employees, although "he would be inclined to be most strict about members of his own staff."

Carter is on record as favoring the repeal by states of criminal penalties for the possession of small amounts of marijuana for personal use. He does not favor legalization of the drug, however.

Asked whether he has ever smoked marijuana or used illicit drugs, Powell said he would, as a matter of principle, not respond although his silence "could be misinterpreted."

Remarkable Taste Achievement

The age of taste without harshness is here. Fine, full-flavoured tobaccos, gentled and blended as never before, give Export 'A' Lights flavour-and-lightness levels never thought possible in one cigarette.

With the development of this breakthrough cigarette, the long-standing belief that harshness must accompany full taste has been shattered.

Until Export 'A' Lights you had to make a choice between flavour and lightness. Now both are yours in one cigarette. Full flavour with a light smoke.

KING SIZE AND REGULAR

Export 'A' Lights.
The first just right cigarette.

Try Talking to Each Other

Residents of Vancouver Island should be extremely grateful that the Labor Relations Board exists today, or else they might be fuming and trying to get off the Island with the government ferry fleet tied up in a wildcat work stoppage.

We are lucky that the LRB is an independent body with a reputation for integrity and impartiality, that it was able to avert trouble over the weekend by promising to investigate the dispute between the militant Ferry and Marine Workers Union and the highhanded management of the B.C. Ferries Corp.

It was apparently a management official's criticism of a union member's work that precipitated a four-hour shutdown ("study session" if you prefer the union's euphemism) a week ago at Horseshoe Bay terminal. Management suspended 32 workers for three days each — however, one shop steward got three months, plus transfer to Tsawwassen terminal 40 miles away as further punishment, which seems to be an overly harsh reaction.

The details hardly matter, though. It could have happened any time. Reports in this newspaper and others have stated that labor-management relations at the B.C. Ferries Corp. were in an abysmal state. We have problems communicating with the ferry corporation top brass and the union leadership to find out what goes on.

Which is so much tough beans in our business. But we wouldn't mind so much if at least they talked to each other once in a while, but it seems communications are limited to the filing of grievance procedures and issuance of telegrams at times of crisis.

They don't communicate with the public or the press — except to issue ultimatums to the other side — or with each other.

Even someone as well placed as Graeme Roberts, a member of the corporation's board of directors, blames pigheadedness and plugged-up ears.

"Both sides seem to have a lack of respect for each other's actions and thinking," he said Friday. Forward movement might be possible if the union stopped acting irresponsibly and if the company tried to listen to its employees.

"We've got lots of room to be able to communicate more with those who actually work in the day-to-day operation of the service."

While the LRB has the immediate task of trying to stamp out the most recent fire afloat, it might try in the longer term to devise some mechanism of communication which would prevent flare-ups before they occur.

" . . . I asked him what he planned to do for the summer holidays and he said he was already doing it . . . "

Flattening an Anthill

In the past few years one of the programs that has done the most in preserving the character of Victoria has been the federal Residential Rehabilitation Assistance Program (RRAP, for short) which has provided low-interest loans for owners of older homes to improve their premises. The loans have been offered only in areas designated as neighborhood improvement areas and have complemented well the public works undertaken under the neighborhood improvement program.

In neighborhoods such as James Bay, Victoria West and Fernwood, the RRAP funds have meant that many of the older houses were spruced up right alongside the new community centres and malls that were put in with NIP funding.

But it seems this is coming to an end, as the federal government has drastically tightened up on eligibility requirements for RRAP loans. Before, owners could get loans for such items as exterior painting, installing of insulation and repairing of eaves and gutters.

No more. Now the only people who will be eligible are those owning houses that are substandard in such basic areas as structural soundness, heating, plumbing, electrical installations, or fire safety — in other words, houses that are unsafe fire traps and about to fall down. Nothing will be offered to the owner who has kept his property in reasonably liveable condition but wants to improve it a bit more so that it will remain liveable for many years into the future.

The most likely effect of this, it would seem, is to virtually eliminate the program. First, there are few houses that are still standing that are in bad enough shape to qualify; most of those that are stand on land that is already zoned for some other type of development and merely await the wrecker's hammer.

Moreover, the owner whose property is derelict enough is unlikely to want to spend the time or effort to upgrade it, even with a little help from the government. If he had had any feeling for the property at all, he surely would have struggled to try to keep it in at least reasonable shape.

At the same time, many owners of older homes who would like to improve them further in order to keep them liveable will be unable to do so because no help will be forthcoming.

The Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, which administers RRAP says the regulations have been changed because the program was being abused in some cases by people using money on "cosmetic" repairs that didn't really improve the property.

It may well be that the rules before were loose enough to allow some abuse to slip through. It may well be that some changes were needed, perhaps by allowing more flexibility in dealing with individual cases.

But to effectively scuttle an excellent program to correct a few unfortunate abuses is surely the equivalent of using a bulldozer to flatten an anthill.

Confession from the Editor

All right, Grace McCarthy. You win. I know when I'm beaten.

And I was beaten last Thursday when I joined almost 10,000 people who lined the Dallas Road waterfront and the Inner Harbor to watch the magnificent spectacle of the tall ship Eagle sail past Ogden Point against a backdrop of the snow-covered Olympic mountains.

For the last six months I — along with many other B.C. residents — have been filled with doubts about the way the travel industry ministry was approaching the 1978 tourist season — the hype that has blown the Captain Cook Bicentennial into an event as big as Canada's centennial, the expensive revival of the campaign of Smile buttons and placemats, the public dollars being poured into massive advertising programs.

Things Went Wrong

The doubts increased as more than a few things went wrong with the planning during the spring — the native people of Vancouver Island wouldn't participate in the celebrations and even said they would try to disrupt them, the race of the tall ships became a visit from a tall ship or two during the year, the B.C. government's own tall ship ended up plundered on a reef off Panama before it even got close to B.C.

Many of the criticisms still stand. The government could have done a lot to improve its planning and its local public image as it got ready for the bicentennial.

But any over-all negativism must surely have been dispelled by the immense success of the Captain Cook festivities during the past weekend. It might not have been as much as McCarthy and others once dreamed of, but it was certainly enough.

The festivities were, it was clear, a great success from an economic point of view. For the first time in years every hotel and motel room in Greater Victoria was booked for a couple of days last week, and the tourist authorities were finding tourists rooms in private homes. Tour buses jammed into the Empress Hotel parking lot. It was hard to find room to move on Government Street or the Causeway.

Although the tourists will not give much back directly to the government, the costs should be well repaid by the thousands of dollars they were pouring into the tourist economy that is so vital to Victoria's economic health.

Yes, it was an easy year to attract tourists to Canada. The U.S. was not running any major celebrations of its own, and, even more important, every American traveller knew he was going to get a 10 per cent bonus on every dollar he spent. The Captain Cook celebrations might not have been such a success in attracting tourists if they had been held two years ago when the Americans had to pay a 10 per cent premium on the dollar and had all sorts of their own bicentennial events to attend.

Yet there was much more to the success of the festivities than the economic aspect. Despite — note: not "because of", "despite" — all the tourist promotions, undoubtedly written by the same fellows who write ads for used cars and laundry soap, despite all the exaggerations, despite all the hype, an essential spirit of celebration managed to shine through.

More Than Money

The crowd that gathered along the waterfront was not a crowd whose prime interest was in spending money themselves nor in trying to persuade others to spend it. It was a crowd who had come, some a few blocks, some thousands of miles, to see an all-too-rare sight of man-made beauty and grace. As the Eagle glided past Ogden Point, sails taut in the wind, Olympic mountains purple-and-white cardboard cutouts in the background, it is doubtful that one onlooker — not even the executive of the chamber of commerce — was thinking about how many dollars each of the 158 cadets aboard would spend on each of their three days in Victoria.

It was the best of all possible worlds — the local economy being greatly stimulated by an event that transcended economic considerations.

It's been a long time since I was so pleased to be wrong about anything.

Don Jamieson at the Wall

BERLIN — Don Jamieson peered across the Berlin Wall and an East German soldier peered back through the viewfinder of a camera.

Click, click. The East Germans calmly shot film of the Canadian external affairs minister when he visited the Brandenburg Gate. They had set up a tripod to make sure the pictures were good ones.

"They always seem to know exactly who is coming and when," said one of the British officers responsible for policing the border area between West and East Berlin.

The wall had been freshly painted. This, however, did not make it any the sweeter.

"No Canadian, no westerner, no democrat can see the wall without regarding it as an obscenity," Jamieson said at a press conference afterwards on Tuesday in West Berlin's town hall.

"It is a shocking example of the failure of our system in the last thirty odd years to make even an appropriate amount of progress on the matter of detente and human rights," Jamieson added.

Jamieson was moved — and he said so — as is any first-time visitor to the 160 kilometres of wall three metres thick and 10 metres high which divides this city.

Shocking, Moving

The wall had been painted by the East Germans last Friday so that it would look nice and clean and innocently white in front of the world's television cameras filming the visit Saturday of U.S. President Jimmy Carter.

But during the night someone — said to be from the east — decorated the fresh paint with even fresher graffiti. "DDR — KZ" means the East German Republic — concentration camp. In English there was "Iwan (sic) go home." In German: "Freedom for all political prisoners."

The East Germans like their wall to look nice and they are frequently to be seen fixing it up. During Jamieson's visit a group of troops could be seen renewing the concrete blocks cutting off tramlines leading to the border.

The East Germans do not call it "the wall." They say it is "the anti-fascist rampart."

There are a lot of rabbits in the park on the western side near the Brandenburg Gate. But no one is allowed to shoot them. The only shooting is from the east.

People still escape from the east, but not very often these days. "The most recent one was six weeks ago in north Berlin," said an official at the Reichstag, the official home of the Berlin parliament, right on the white borderline.

He pointed out the layers of fortification: the wall, anti-tank blockades, an electric fence, lines of tripwires and sensors, a sort of bed of nails, and finally another wall, all separating east from west.

About 200 metres to the east Jamieson could see East Germans lined up, just kibitzing, behind a police barrier. They do not cross to the west except in coffins, or if they escape. But westerners can go into the east zone quite easily, even by underground. They are charged five marks ($1.30) for a "visa" and have to return by nightfall unless they have an approved invitation to stay.

It is very important, in Berlin, for visiting diplomats to affirm their dedication to detente — so that things will not get tougher — and to human rights — so that freedom will triumph. This Jamieson managed to do at his press conference.

"Detente is essential to the future well-being and progress of Berlin," he said.

"There is nowhere surely where the human rights issue in all its ramifications is more important than Berlin."

Yet, he added, it would be "unwise" to pursue human rights issues to the point where detente would be broken. "We must continue to try to go along both those paths."

Berlin is the most exposed area of East-West confrontation anywhere in the world, Jamieson said.

95,000 Russians

Like most who come here, he returned, rhetorically, again and again to the wall.

He asked what happened to people who crossed it.

"You're not under any obligation to send anyone back," he was told. But if the East Germans see you crossing: "They shoot."

There are about 14,000 East German police, according to a British officer backed up by as many as 95,000 Soviet troops within 20 miles of the wall.

Fact and Fiction

Re your editorial Grants for Writers (July 15):

What is fiction? Is something fiction if you belive it to be untrue? Or is it fiction if the law proves it to be false? Is nonfiction then something that society accepts even if you may not? Or does it depend on what the majority thinks? Or what the law claims to be fact? Cannot one person's fact be another person's fiction in certain matters, such as opinions? And vice-versa? Are my opinions of the government non-fiction if I believe them, or fiction because the government doesn't agree with me?

Could a person write a book concerning their personal opinions of the government and have it published as non-fiction in order to receive a larger grant? Or would the government consider the book fiction if it wasn't flattering to them?

If my opinion is someone else's fiction, who makes the final and deciding decision? Why should their decision not be considered fictitious? Just wondering. — Joan Bittorf, 1073 Davie Street.

A Fine Hotel

Please may I bear witness as a permanent resident of "Victoria's Family Hotel" as to the truth of your recent reporting concerning the service. I have never received more kindly, willing, competent attention anywhere. After travelling all round the world I am very happy to have settled in beautiful Victoria at the Hotel Yates. — Mrs. Georgina G. Harrison, 512-712 Yates Street.

Phoney CBC Show

I would like to commend Mrs. R. Bowie for voicing in these columns what many citizens of Victoria felt about the CBC teleision show staged in Centennial Square on July 1. I for one made a special visit to the square to see something of Folkfest televised and was amazed to see this festival manipulated and contorted in such a way as to serve only the interests of the CBC and their professionalism.

How did the CBC happen to be in Centennial Square at this particular time with a show of their own? Perhaps some of your readers, the Inter-Cultural Association, or the City of Victoria could provide an answer. Or maybe the CBC itself could offer some explanation.

Folkfest is a spirit (of togetherness) not a show of professionalism, and I think the CBC missed a golden opportunity to try to catch something of that spirit. Certainly the interests of Canadian unity would have been much better served if they had. — H. Whiteman, Victoria.

Needs New Name

It appears there is strong support among Victorians that Canada's west coast national park should be renamed Wickaninnish National Park.

The recently formed Wickaninnish National Park Committee is pleased to learn from Hugh Faulkner, minister of Indian Affairs, that the proposed interpretive centre (old Wickaninnish Inn) is to keep the name Wickaninnish and contain a display depicting the history and culture of the West Coast native people including that of Chief Wickaninnish and his tribe. The committee still fears, however, that the beautiful native name may disappear from common usage unless efforts are made to retain it in renaming the park. The old Wickaninnish Beach provincial park was absorbed into the national park, and some people now associate the name only with the old inn (though there is a bay and somewhere there is an island so named). Based on eye-witness accounts, however, Chief Wickaninnish (roughly 1740-1820) held sway from Estevan Point to Carmanah Point, so his name is historically associated with the general park region. He was an impressive figure on the west coast.

The committee does not share the minister's concern that renaming the park after seven years would confuse the public. Indications are that the current name if known at all, is disliked by many. The minister has conceded that "if it is demonstrated that there is widespread disagreement with the name Pacific Rim" he would be prepared to review the name.

This proposal is already supported by 11 organizations, nearly all of them associated with the Outdoor Recreation Council of British Columbia. If readers wish to comment, please write to "Wickaninnish," P.O. Box 1875, Victoria, B.C. V8W 2Y3. Written responses are all forwarded to the minister. — Jane Waddell, Chairman, Wickaninnish National Park Committee.

Give It Back

We are a group of the least-monied old people in what is known as the poorest district in Victoria. We are settling in to an old city-owned house at 1325 Pembroke Street which we plan to make a centre, open each day, for the aged of the district.

After having lived in Canada through two world wars, the great depression, and other depressions, our defences are down. We cannot stand with the same fortitude the miseries we accepted in our younger days. When someone steals our only precious piece of furniture, an antique escritoire, it seems a monstrous thing.

Could it be that one of your readers is the rip-off artist who took our antique and believes that treasures on earth are better than treasures up in heaven?

I was taught that there is more joy up in heaven when one sinner repents, than one hundred just persons who need no such repentance. Could this person who ripped off our antique treasure please repent, bring a lot of joy up in heaven, and also to old people on earth? — Joseph Haegert, President, Fernwood Autumn Glow Society, 1516 Pembroke Street.

Re: Mrs. R. Bowie's letter in regard to the CBC Canada Day television show: I couldn't have said it better. Where was all our talent here on the coast and why wasn't it used?

I hope more people write to Al Johnson of the CBC and see if we can't have much better programming. — H. Hawes, Victoria.

New Social Welfare Era?

By LEONARD SHIFRIN

OTTAWA — Three years ago, when the provinces were in a race to see which could provide the most generous supplements for its senior citizens, Ontario changed its levels twice in a matter of months to avoid being leapfrogged by Alberta and British Columbia.

Although inflation has subsequently eroded the value of all those provincial supplements by 25 per cent, no one has moved to increase them since.

Three years ago Saskatchewan was proudly pioneering the country's first income-tested family allowance supplement, paying up to $40 per child each month to the province's working poor.

Today that supplement still stands at $40, inflation having not only eroded its value, but cut in half the number of families with incomes low enough to receive it.

While government's contribution to inflation-fighting — holding the line on social expenditures — doesn't appear to have had much effect on the inflation rate, it has certainly had an impact on those who are dependent on social programs.

The recent spectacle of police scuffling at the Ontario legislature with angry demonstrators protesting in wheelchairs and on crutches against Workmen's Compensation rates that hadn't been increased since 1975, testifies eloquently to that impact.

VANDER ZALM . . . rearguard fight

Has the pendulum now swung as far as it is going to go?

There is some evidence that argues yes and some that says no.

The Ontario government's hurried announcement of compensation rate increases in the wake of the injured workers' demonstration certainly suggests that some sort of message has gotten through.

Likewise, the confession to the Manitoba legislature by Conservative Welfare Minister Bud Sherman that he has found no evidence of the welfare abuse his party condemned so vociferously in its opposition days indicates that the welfare-bashing era may be over in that province.

On the other hand, it clearly isn't over in British Columbia, where Human Resources Minister Bill Vander Zalm talks about shipping welfare recipients out of Vancouver (to internment camps in the interior, perhaps?) and cutting off those who refuse to be carted away.

* * *

Whatever the pendulum's future course, these past three years have left their mark on the supporters of social programs, and the scars of battles fought and lost were much in evidence at the recent Canadian Conference on Social Development.

In the decade that I have been attending these conferences (they are held every second year), I have come to expect a maddening lack of realism from them.

But not this time.

Where resolutions on income security in previous years have been of the "Utopia now" variety, this year's statement began by noting that "current economic and fiscal conditions discourage major new expenditures aimed at reducing income inequality."

Achieving that goal, the statement said, would therefore require "restructuring social programs and tax provisions now in place" — even though that meant carving up some very sacred cows.

What, for example, is the great virtue of retaining universality in family allowances when, combined with the children's deduction in the Income Tax Act, it results in total benefits that are 60 per cent higher for a family with $25,000 income than for one with only $7,000?

* * *

Provided the benefits from such tax expenditure provisions are included in the process, even the staunchest supporters of universality were willing to see the social benefit pie reapportioned on a selective basis.

The remarkable thing about that is not the choice that was made — reducing income inequalities rather than preserving the principle of universality — but that the need to make such a choice was recognized.

Clearly there is a new realism on the left and, if Bud Sherman rather than Bill Vander Zalm is representative, perhaps a new reasonableness on the right as well.

If so, then the next few years could see the emergence of a major accommodation between the two sides, with dispassionate pragmatism replacing the shrill clash of ideologies on social security issues.

I know optimism hasn't been the order of the day lately, but possibly — just possibly — there may be some warrant for a bit of it.

Korchnoi and Karpov . . . dissident versus the conformist

Politics at the Chess Board

By DAVID SPANIER
Times of London

How fascinating that the struggle of Soviet dissidents to achieve freedom as individual citizens should extend to the quintessential Soviet game of chess.

The challenger in the world chess championship match, which began last week in the resort of Baguio City in the Philippines, is a grandmaster dissident — Victor Korchnoi.

By contrast, the holder, Anatoly Karpov, is, in the good sense of the word, a conformist. Ever since his talents for chess were revealed as a youngster he has been cared for and coached to become the superstar he is today. He represents the successful end product which Soviet society seeks to produce in conferring so many advantages on its sportsmen.

Korchnoi, no less talented and until his defection two years ago almost as celebrated a figure in Soviet chess, is the rebel. As he made clear in his recently published account of his chess career, his resentment at petty restrictions, at the KGB presence lurking at foreign tournaments, at the constant feeling of being under supervision from chess authorities, grew so intense he decided to leave for good.

This was quite a different kind of decision from that of Soviet Jews, who seek to emigrate to Israel, because as a chess player and former Soviet champion Korchnoi enjoyed all the privileges Soviet life can offer. Admittedly, he has what would be described in the West as an artistic temperament, of the kind that makes creative people difficult to deal with, so it might have been hard for him to settle down in any country. In the Soviet Union the strain was too much.

* * *

The question now is whether Korchnoi can keep his strong feelings under control for the extended duration of a world championship match. The winner will be the first to score six victories, which, allowing for draws and other holdups, means the match may last for two months or more.

Enormous presitge attaches to the outcome. It is no longer simply a matter of being the best chess player in the world, which in Soviet eyes is a signal honor indeed. The match is bound to be seen in Moscow as a struggle between the established Soviet way of sport and the dissident who has dared to answer back and reject the glittering prizes. For Korchnoi's name now is hardly to be uttered aloud in Soviet chess.

It must be emphasized that Karpov, for his part, seems an extremely likeable as well as greatly gifted young man and has showed in his powerful play over successive tournaments that he is a worthy champion. Moreover, he has the advantage at 27 of being 20 years younger than his challenger.

A whole battery of advisers and analysts will be available to back him up in a match. Korchnoi will have the benefit of two English grandmasters, Keene and Stean.

Although the chess experts rank Karpov as the favorite to win, the outcome is open. If Korchnoi can avoid the kind of over-excited and almost pure paranoiac reactions he suffered in the final qualifying match against his compatriot Boris Spassky — when he claimed that secret "rays" were being directed at him from the auditorium and then blundered away his queen — he could well win.

Karpov, with the full weight of Soviet sport upon his young shoulders, will need all his undoubted mastery to withstand the attack.

Bored Japan Wives Turn to Drugs

By MARK MURRAY

TOKYO — Police have issued a nationwide warning that Japan is experiencing a second post-war explosion in drug addiction encouraged by Mafia-style gangs.

The biggest increase in addiction has been among bored housewives and school students, particularly girls.

The use of narcotics and stimulant drugs had been in decline since the early 1950s when the nation finally beat the menace of Philopon, a pep pill that was widely used during the period of harsh post-war austerity.

Drug-related arrests began to surge again in 1975. Last year 14,471 people were arrested for violations of the drug control law and almost 70 kilograms of various stimulants were seized by customs officers and police. The arrest figure was 35 per cent up on 1976 and drug seizure doubled. Another big jump is predicted this year.

Nearly all the drugs are imported, 90 per cent of them produced in clandestine factories set up with Japanese gangster capital in South Korea.

Marijuana arrests in 1977 reached a record 1,096 (a 14.2 per cent increase) but there is now almost no interest in LSD and "hard" drugs, such as heroin. The bulk of the trade is in the so-called "uppers and downers" pills, peddled mainly through bars and coffee shops.

The National Police Agency says: "Stimulant drugs are now the biggest source of income for the big gangs." One 11-man group arrested recently in Kochi, southern Japan, had made $500,000 from drug sales in the small town in the previous three months.

Economically hard-pressed small business operators, bus, taxi and truck drivers are the steadiest customers for stimulants, but police are most concerned about the surge in use among housewives and schoolgirls.

Last year, 237 housewives were arrested, against 167 in 1976. One expert explained: "They're bored at home. The housework doesn't take so long, and all they have to do is watch television."

Schoolchildren represented 5.6 per cent of those arrested. Double the figure of the previous year. The expert said: "It's a way of escaping the harsh pressures of our education system and bringing a little imagined glamor into their lives, as well as an act of rebellion against a sterile society."

A national education campaign, harsher penalties for trafficking — several unprecedented 10-year jail terms have been handed out recently — and a crackdown on the gangs are among the steps being adopted by police to meet the threat.

Cow'rin, Tim'rous Beasties

This is no time to be a mouse. Scarcely a day goes by without another newspaper report that some poor mouse has been press-ganged into a laboratory and subjected to deadly experiments.

Last week there was the story of the mouse who had been stuffed with well-done hamburger until he developed cancer. If it isn't hamburger a mouse is being stuffed with, it's saccharine, red-dye No. 2, pork treated with nitrites, cigarette smoke. You name it and some scientist will try it out on a mouse.

Not long ago a scientist planted coins in mice and, after getting the usual results, announced that money causes cancer. He was reprimanded by the medical profession for lack of seriousness, which was not startling. The medical profession's interest in upholding the good reputation of money is comparable to the tobacco industry's stake in maintaining the harmlessness of cigarettes.

So many mice are having so many afflictions imposed on them in the laboratory that it's hard to find a mouse these days who isn't in dreadful physical condition. There is a mouse in the office here, for example, who has a cauliflower ear.

This results from an experiment conducted by a research team to test a theory that the telephone leads to high blood pressure. This particular mouse was shanghaied on Eighth Avenue and taken to a laboratory in which he was required to keep a telephone receiver pressed to his ear 18 hours a day.

After six weeks his ear looked like the ear of an old boxer mouse who had stayed on in the ring 10 years after he should have hung up the gloves.

The scientists' conclusion that the telephone causes cauliflower ear hasn't been published yet. It is being held back for release some dull week when there is no grimmer news from the laboratories to keep public anxiety at desperate heights.

A household mouse of whom we are rather fond disappeared last winter and turned up the other day after a long absence, looking 10 years older. The bags under her eyes suggested she had been held by scientists and injected with three fifths of bourbon daily to test a theory that alcohol leads to bloodshot eyes.

This was incorrect, as it turned out. When she arrived among the scientific researchers she became the subject of a violent dispute. One group wanted to inject her with tennis-ball fuzz to test whether tennis players run an inordinate risk of cancer. The other wanted to make her jog 16 miles a day to test whether joggers are less likely than strolling pedestrians to be run down by motorists with New Jersey licence plates.

During the squabbling, a third group of scientists snatched her for an experiment involving R.N.: The Memoirs of Richard Nixon. They were testing a theory that the book may cause glazed eyeballs, stertorous breathing and, eventually, irreversible coma.

After three weeks during which the Nixon memoirs were read to her 16 hours a day, the mouse became lachrymose and developed an intense hostility toward everyone involved in the former president's downfall. By then, however, the scientists who had been reading to her had each entered irreversible coma, which made her easy prey for another group of researchers who wanted to test the theory that, at $5 a pound, the book was just as economical a buy as beef.

During the experiment she was fed three and a half pounds of Nixon memoirs, both raw and cooked. After two weeks of the diet, she developed an acute case of soporific prose, which so maddened the scientists that they uncaged her and let her run free around the laboratory while throwing copies of the book at her.

It was like trying to swat a fly with the 16-pound shot. Next month the research team will publish its findings: R.N.: The Memoirs of Richard Nixon is no good for killing mice.

It is good to have the poor creature back, but she disdains the $1.39 cheese we put out for her nightly. Hooked on the quality stuff, I suppose.

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — After a brief decline, the stock market was again fractionally higher in active mid-afternoon trading.

Advances led declines 193 to 172, with 228 issues unchanged.

Among industrials, Pennington's rose 1⅜ to $14, Travelways 1⅛ to $12½, Trimac A ⅝ to $19⅝, Canadian Occidental ½ to $23¾ and Leon's Furniture ½ to $14.

Husky Oil dropped ¾ to $41½, Reader's Digest ½ to $12, Loeb ⅜ to $6⅛, Bell ⅛ to $57⅞ and Alberta Gas Trunk A ¼ to $15½.

In mines, Dome was up one to $94, Placer ⅝ to $23⅝ and Ego ½ to $7½. Sigma fell 1⅛ to $38 and Campbell Red Lake ½ to $42½.

Among oils, Canadian Reserve climbed 1¼ to $13, Total Pete ½ to $12⅝ and United Canso ½ to $10⅝. Siebens slipped ¼ to $33⅞ and Numac ¼ to $34½.

Trading halts were called shortly after the opening in shares of Canada Tungsten Mining Corp. Ltd., which last traded at $16⅜, pending an expected announcement, and in Silverwood Industries Ltd., which last traded at $10⅛.

Silverwood, which remained at $10⅛ after trading in its shares resumed at 2 p.m., said its management is discussing with the Silverwood family the possibility of acquiring controlling interest in the company.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was little changed in a session dominated by heavy activity in airline issues.

Five of the 10 most active NYSE issues were airline issues, which opened strong and then ran into some scattered selling by traders seeing to cash in on the group's sharp rise in the past several months.

American Airlines rose ⅜ to $14¾; TWA was up 1⅝ to $24; Pan Am rose ⅛ to $7⅝; Braniff was unchanged at $15⅝, and Eastern slipped ⅛ to $13⅞.

The air transport companies have been enjoying heavy traffic recently, and second-quarter earnings reports from the industry have come in wellahead of earlier projections by analysts.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were mixed in moderate afternoon trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange. Volume at 2:30 p.m. EDT was 223,200 shares, compared with 441,800 shares traded up to the same time Monday. FCA International was up 10 cents at $2.95, Unigesco A 25 cents at $3.25 and Dofasco A ⅛ at $28. Massey-Ferguson was off ⅛ at $11⅞, Shell Canada ⅜ at $13⅞ and Bell Canada ¼ at $57¾.

London

LONDON (Reuter) — The stock market was firm near the close of moderate trading today. The Financial Times index was up 1.3 at 485.2 about an hour before the close. Analysts attributed the firmer trend to investor hopes that the government's dividend bill will be defeated in Parliament. Government bonds were ⅛ higher in medium and longer maturities while short-dated issues were 1-16 easier. Canadian issues were mixed.

Business Briefs

Burlington

Burlington Industries Inc, a leading manufacturer of textiles, said its third-quarter profit dipped to $20.3 million (72 cents a share) from $25.5 million (90 cents a share) a year ago. The New York-based company said its sales for the period ended July 1 eased to $614.4 million from $621.9 million. For the six-month period, the company profit fell to $51.6 million ($1.83 a share) from $69.2 million ($2.44 a share). Sales, however, rose to $1.81 billion from $1.77 billion.

St. Regis Paper

St. Regis Paper Co. said its second quarter profit rose 38.3 per cent to $39.9 million, or $1.25 a share, from $28.9 million, or 91 cents a share during the same year-ago period.

The New York-based forest-based products company said its revenues for the period increased to $609.8 million from $518.7 million a year ago.

For the six months, St. Regis showed an 11.4 per cent rise in its profit to $55.4 million, or $1.73 dollars a share, from $49.8 million, or $1.57 a share.

Eli Lilly

Eli Lilly and Co., Indianapolis, a leader in the pharmaceutical field, posted a profit of $70.0 million for the second quarter, up from last year's $55.2 million on sales of $444.5 million compared with $375 million.

Six-month net rose to $149 million from $119.4 million, equivalent to $2.11 a share compared with $1.69 a share. Sales were $927.0 million, up from $780.4 million.

Detroit Edison

Detroit Edison Co. reports quarterly earnings of more than double those during the same period last year. A financial statement for the quarter ended June 30 put Edison's earnings on common stok at $43.4 million, or 73 cents a share. During the same period last year, Edison earned $20.1 million, or 37 cents a share, on the stock. Edison officials said the increase in earnings was due in part to increased power sales. Edison is currently awaiting word from the state public service commission on a request for a $123 million rate increase. Company officials said the increase, needed to make up for the effects of inflation on its income, could be decided within the next few weeks.

Cominco

Cominco Ltd. reports earnings of $26,100,000, or $1.37 a share, for the first six months of 1978, compared with $37,800,000, or $2.11 a share, in the same period last year. Revenue was $463,200,000, compared with $411,200,000. "The continuing weakness in the world zinc market contributed significantly to the decrease in earnings," said M. N. Anderson, president and chief operating officer. Fertilizer sales volume increased, however. Potash sales and prices also improved, and there were growing signs of a turnaround in the zinc market, he said. "World inventories are decreasing, zinc consumption shows some improvement, and prices are strengthening," said Anderson. "Demand for lead is good," he added.

Northerm Telecom

Northern Telecom Ltd. reports consolidated net earnings of $27.3 million, or 99 cents a share, for the second quarter ended June 30, 1978, compared with $24.8 million, or 93 cents a share, for the corresponding period in 1977. Consolidated net earnings for the first six months of 1978, after an extraordinary gain of $4.7 million, were $48.4 million, or $1.79 a share, compared with $45.1 million, or $1.70 a share, in the first half of 1977, after an extraordinary gain of $1.2 million. Robert C. Scrivener, chairman and chief executive officer of Northern Telecom, said sales and earnings in the first half of 1978, before recognizing the recent effects of acquisitions and extraordinary earnings gains, were comparable to the company's performance in 1977. But, he added, "the brightest spot in our operations remains the U.S. market, where the growth of our established operations and our acquisitions have resulted in sales and earnings being well ahead of last year." Northern Telecom, the largest manufacturer of telecommunications equipment in Canada, acquired Danray Inc. on Jan. 5, 1978, and Sycor Inc. on May 26, 1978. The two companies contributed about $24 million to the company's consolidated sales in the first half of 1978.

R.J. Reynolds

R. J. Reynolds Industries Inc., Winston-Salem, N.C., posted a nearly 12 per cent gain in its second quarter profit to a record $111.8 million ($2.28 a share) from $100 million ($2.05 a share) for the same year-ago quarter. The cigarette manufacturer also reported sales of $1.70 billion for the period, up from $1.67 billion a year ago. For the six-month period, profit rose 10 per cent to $206.8 million ($4.22 a share) from $188.1 million ($3.89 a share) on revenues of $3.26 billion compared with $3.22 billion.

Texaco Canada

Texaco Canada reports net income of $77.2 million or $2.20 a share for the six months ended June 30, up from $70.2 million or $1.97 for the corresponding period a year ago. Texaco Canada Ltd. and Texaco Exploration Canada Ltd. were recently amalgamated into Texaco Canada Inc. and earnings have been calculated on a consolidated basis. Gross income for the six months totalled $948.2 million, up from $189.7 million in the first half of 1977. Net income for the second quarter was $35.6 million or $1 a share compared with $33.3 million or 92 cents in the first three months last year. Gross income for the quarter was $437.6 million, up from $390.8 million in the corresponding period in 1977. The company declared a quarterly dividend of 39 cents a share payable Aug. 31, 1978, to shareholders of record Aug. 17.

Monsanto

Monsanto Co. said its profit fell to $76.1 million ($2.09 a share) from $81.5 million ($2.21 a share). Sales came to $1.18 billion, up slightly from last year's $1.12 billion. For the six months, Monsanto's profit dipped to $211.8 million ($5.80 a share) from $229.4 million ($6.22 a share). Revenues came to $2.53 billion compared with $2.43 billion.

Rockwell

Rockwell International Corp., the giant aerospace concern, had a 42 per cent gain in its profit for the fiscal third quarter and a 33 per cent rise for the nine month period. The Pittsburgh-based company said its net income climbed to a record $55.5 million ($1.50 a share) from $37.0 million ($1.07 a share) during the third quarter ended June 30. Sales came to $1.52 billion compared with $1.47 billion. For the nine months, Rockwell reported a profit of $136.1 million ($3.88 a share) compared with $102.5 million ($2.97 a share) for last year's nine months. Sales were $4.29 billion compared with $4.27 million.

Inco

Inco Ltd., which made drastic cuts in its work force last year, reports lower profits for the second quarter of this year but declared a dividend of 20 cents a common share. The nickel giant had profits of $23 million or 24 cents a share compared with $32.6 million or 42 cents a share for the second quarter of 1977. Earnings for the first six months were $57.9 million or 64 cents a share compared with $73.6 million or 97 cents a share for the same period last year. In a report to shareholders, the company blamed the second quarter dip on continuing low copper and nickel prices and currency adjustments. However, these were offset, in part, by higher sales and higher prices for the platinum-group metals. In the first six months, deliveries of nickel came to 195 million pounds compared with 161 million pounds in the same period of 1977. ESB Ray-O-Vac, the company's principle subsidiary, accunted for 35 per cent of Inco's sales in the first half of the year. With the layoffs, Inco's production for the first half was 17 per cent lower than in the same period in 1977. As well, the company has started to cut into its heavy inventories, reducing them by 10 million pounds of finished nickel since March 31.

Argus Bid Cost $19M?

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says Conrad M. Black and his brother, G. Montegu Black, paid $19 million for majority control of Argus Corp. Ltd. of Toronto.

The newspaper says the two men paid that amount for 47-per-cent interest in Ravelston Corp. Ltd., the privately-owned investment company that owns 62 per cent of Argus.

The price was based on the Argus shares owned by Ravelston, valued at $38.50 each. These shares are Ravelston's only assets.

The newspaper said the Black brothers bought the Ravelston shares from the estates of two former Argus principals, J. A. (Bud) McDougald and Eric Phillips, both deceased.

The widows, Maude McDougald and Doris Phillips, who are sisters, supported the Blacks at the height of the power struggle for Argus that started earlier this year after the death of McDougald.

The Globe and Mail says that since the acquisition of Ravelston shares, Conrad Black, 33, has become president of Argus and former chairman Maxwell Meighen has resigned his post as board chairman.

TROUSER TAKEOVER

TORONTO (CP) — Elks Stores Ltd. of Toronto says its offer of $1.5 million to acquire the assets of Pant City Ltd. of Montreal has been accepted by the company. The deal is expected to be completed by Aug. 1., although the purchase price will be subject to adjustments following final inventory, Elks said.

OPENLY CRYING, New York Yankee manager Billy Martin announces his resignation from team. He has been replaced by Bob Lemon.

JACKSON DEAL, SNIPE AT OWNER SET CHARGE

Billy Loaded His Own Gun

KANSAS CITY (AP) — When he suspended Reggie Jackson last Monday, Billy Martin cocked the gun. When he sharply criticized the outfielder, Martin in fact aimed it right at his own head.

And when he sniped at owner George Steinbrenner last Sunday night, Martin pulled the trigger on his career as manager of New York Yankees.

"I knew it would be just a matter of time," said pitcher Larry Gura, member of Kansas City Royals, who "escaped" the Yankees in 1976. "You just knew, knowing Billy. He never sticks around one team very long."

There had been one American League baseball season with Minnesota, three with Detroit, two with Texas, and nine days less than three years—three tumultuous, tension-wracked years—with the Yankees before what's left of Martin resigned Monday.

Tearful, trembling, ultimately unable to speak, Martin said he resigned to salvage, as he put it, "my health and mental well-being."

He was replaced by former Yankees pitching coach Bob Lemon.

"It was just a matter of time," said first baseman Jim Spencer of the Yankees.

"It's a complete shock," said utilityman Paul Blair of the Yankees.

"It's the best thing," said Whitey Herzog, manager of the Royals. "I feel life's too short to put up with all he's been putting up with. I don't think he's been looking too good lately. I noticed when I was with him during the all-star break and in New York last week."

But everyone seemed to know that no other option existed after Martin told two reporters travelling with the team that Jackson and Steinbrenner "deserve each other."

Steinbrenner was convicted in 1974 of making an illegal campaign contribution.

But he had a clause written into Martin's contract that prohibited public criticism of the owner. When that clause was defied, Martin was finished.

"I couldn't let any employee of the New York Yankees say things like that about the front office," said Rosen.

"You never really know how hot the kitchen is until you get in it," said Lemon, who is expected to start checking his thermometre tonight.

"It was Billy's decision to make, but I guess one of them (Martin or Jackson) was going to have to go somewhere," said Guidry.

"The differences between Reggie, Billy and George probably cost him his job," added outfielder Lou Piniella.

If it did, nobody would say it. Steinbrenner, accepting Martin's apology for the "other guy's convicted" quotation, said, "I am grateful to Billy for his contributions as manager of the Yankees. He brought us a championship. I think Billy knows of our concern for the well-being of his family and himself. We wish him luck."

Monday, in his final words to the public, Martin denied the words attributed to him.

"I am very sorry there were things written about George Steinbrenner. He did not deserve them, nor did I say them. George and I have had our differences, and in most cases, we have been able to resolve them."

Crying the tears he couldn't force back, he held his statement in unsteady hands.

"I want to thank the Yankee office management, the press, the news media, my coaches and players ."

The final sentence was ". . . and most of all, the fans, for their undying support." Then he had to be led away.

Canadians Starting To Push CFL Imports

The reason the game is called Canadian football is that without 10 good Canadians you can't play. The bread lines are full of hotshot American coaches who didn't believe it.

B.C. Lions turned things around last year because they found a quarterback named Jerry Tagge and a burner named Leon Bright. It says so in all the history books. But a Canadian kid named Al Charuk turned up to give Tagge a clutch target more vital as the season wore on. If another Canadian named Tom Kudaba hadn't scrapped and made it as a starting guard, Bright's only records might have been set with room service.

What import would have been cut opening day last season if Frank Landy hadn't moved in from Saskatchewan and claimed a defensive tackle slot as his own? Where would Frank Oliver be playing tonight if John Blain hadn't joined Kudaba and given the Lions two Canadian starting guards? And will another import offensive lineman go down the road in a week or two if John Blake is as good as they say he can be?

All of which is to point out that there is great similarity between the Calgary Stampeders and B.C. Lions as they play the second half of their home-and-home series tonight.

Vic Rapp came here from Edmonton and won because among other things he was able to turn the Canadian situation around and come up with 10 quality starters. Jack Gotta came to Calgary from Birmingham and started to win a few because by the time the year was out he had a handful of non-imports who were out there for more than roll call.

Whatever other problems he may have, Rapp can be fairly certain that the Canadian content has improved even further with the maturation of Doug Carlson at defensive back, the improvement of Blain, the backup experience of John Beaton. It could well turn out that to make it as a starter Blake would have to beat out one of the two Canadian incumbents at guard.

And Jack Gotta? When he looks at his depth chart these days he can actually see Canadians pushing starting imports for position — Canadians who may soon push them clear off the roster.

Gotta could justifiably spend a lot of time wondering how last season might have gone if two players had been around as scheduled. One was import receiver Willie Armstead, who didn't play a down in '77. His loss hurt, but the crippling one came when Lloyd Fairbanks, his large and talented Canadian offensive tackle, went down in training camp and didn't make it back until the last game of the season. One Canadian starter can make that much difference.

Now Fairbanks, is back, and when Gotta picks up that depth chart and stares at his non-import strength his hand hardly shakes at all.

"Look," he said, scribbling notes on the side of the chart so the reporter would get it right, "these two guys (circling backup offensive linemen Bob Lubig and UBC grad Dave Kirziner) are good enough to be starters — not right away, maybe, but before the year is out or next year at the latest.

"Miles Gorrell has been backing up John Helton at defensive tackle but we play him a lot and he can start somewhere. Rob Kochel is in the same boat, a backup defensive back who's a cinch to be a starter — if not right away, soon. And on the injured list we've got another Vancouver kid, John Malinosky; and we know he can play. These guys are all first-year players and they're all Canadians.

"Then you look at next year's Canadian college draft. We've got our two protecteds, plus two first rounders and one second rounder we got in trades — not draft choices, protecteds. These are all Canadian kids in American colleges who we think can come in and play. So I've got to be optimistic. I may not be around to coach it — who knows? — but if I go I'll be leaving this club in good shape."

Since he is beginning the second season of a five-year contract as both coach and general manager ("Having both jobs cuts down on meetings," he explained last year. "The GM meets the coach every morning when I shaved.") it's unlikely Gott's going anywhere. At least, not until he compares the western view from the top with the one he had in Ottawa before jumping to the World Football League in Birmingham.

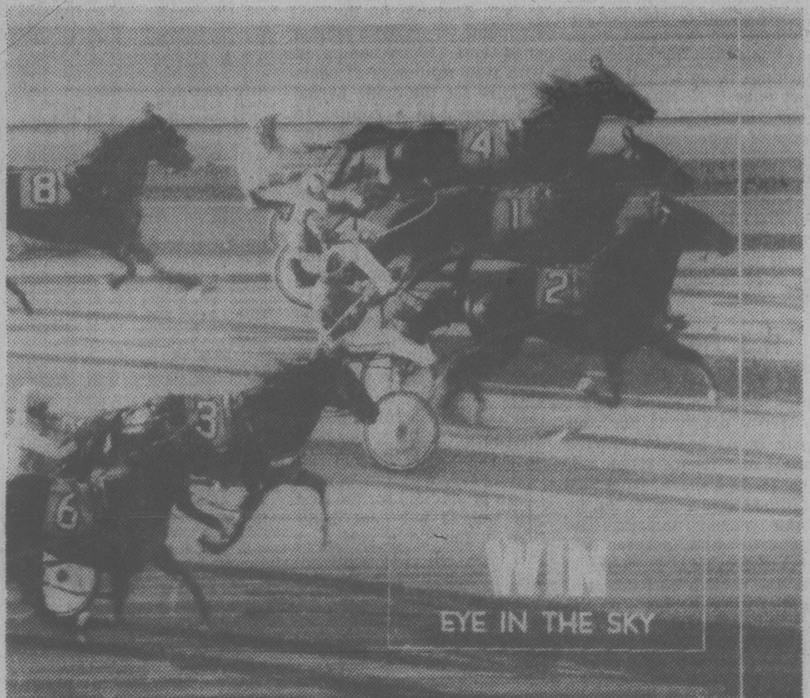
That's a piece down the road yet, but at least there's a trace of a road. When he got to Calgary there were people like Helton and Tom Forzani and Willie Burden. After that it was all crab grass. Now the Stamps are 1-1 just like the Lions, a team they beat last week. They have Burden and another speed merchant to go with him in James Sykes, a running back who caught 76 passes in his senior year at Rice. Armstead is back — although he may not be by tonight if there's any truth in persistent rumors that he still has a bad leg — and that alone takes some pressure off Burden and Forzani, who looked at double coverage all last season. In short, the Stampeder joke is over.

No one realizes it more than Rapp, who watched his team fall apart defensively in the first half and offensively in the final quarter of a game it might well have won. He's not sure which failure irked him most.

"I think you'll find we'll start sooner this time," he said icily. "We've been rubbing salt into them all week.

'Y'know, when you don't know whether you're a good football team or not you maybe come roaring out and start fast. We did that last year. Then you find out you're maybe not that bad, maybe even pretty good, and you don't get at it the same way any more.

"Well, we're not a good football team until we prove it. If they don't know that now they never will. We don't sell Calgary short, but we've got some proving to do. We'll be better tonight. You count on it."



CLOSE FINISHES were order of the evening at Sandown Raceway, Monday, especially in the sixth race. Charmin Dusty, No. 2, driven by Joe Hudon, was the winner wih Claybrook Barry, No. 1, second and Moon Girl, No. 4, third. Three other horses are within two lengths of the winner. Story, results are on page 10.

Rose Hits Twice To Equal Record

NEW YORK (AP) — Responding to the chants of a once-hostile Shea Stadium crowd, Cincinnati's Pete Rose tied the modern National League baseball record hitting streak of 37 consecutive games Monday night, stroking a pair of singles in the Reds 5-3 victory over New York Mets.

Hitless in his first three at-bats, Rose came to the plate with one out in the seventh inning.

"I hit the ball solidly two times, but straight in the air," he said. "I thought I'd have one more at bat after that. I wasn't worried."

After a crowd of more than 30,000, including commissioner Bowie Kuhn, gave him a standing ovation and chanted, "Let's Go Pete," Rose bunted foul on the first pitch.

"After that bunt, Lenny (Randle, New York's third baseman) was close enough to shake my hand," Rose said.

The next pitch was wide. Then Rose slashed a single to left, tying the record set 33 years ago by Tommy Holmes with the old Boston Braves.

The crowd cheered loudly for the Cincinnati star.

"I couldn't believe that chanting," said Rose. "It was quite a feeling inside. I wish I could have called time and shaken hands with each one of them."

After Rose's streak-tying single, the ball was returned to Met first baseman Willie Montanez, who flipped it to the Cincinnati star. Rose turned it over to first base coach Ron Plaza as the fans continued to roar.

"Willie told me to take off my hat or 'we'll be here all day'. When I did, they just cheered louder."

TIPPING HIS HAT to the crowd at Shea Stadium is Pete Rose of Cincinnati Reds after getting a seventh-inning single Monday night to tie Tommy Holmes National League hitting streak of 37 consecutive games. Umpire is Joe West.

Rose added a second hit in the ninth, smacking a first-pitch single into left field off reliever Skip Lockwood. A moment later, he trotted home in front of Mike Lum, whose two-run homer provided the winning runs in the Reds' 5-3 victory.

Rose said he changed bats after making outs his first three times at bat against Zachry—two of them fly balls to centre fielder Lee Mazzilli and the other one a force play grounder to shortstop Tim Foli.

Rose goes for No. 38 tonight against Mets right-hander Craig Swan. If he makes it, he will have the fifth longest hit streak in major league baseball history. The next target will be the 40-game streak of Ty Cobb set in 1911.

Along with joining the elite 3,000-hit club, Rose has moved into 10th place on the all-time hit list, surpassing Cap Anson's total of 3,081 earlier this month. Paul Wagner is ninth with 3,152 hits. Ty Cobb holds the major league mark of 4,191.

Other National League hitting streaks Rose has surpassed include 33 games by Rogers Hornsby in 1922 and 31-game spurts by Willie Davis in 1969 and Rico Carty in 1970.

He went into Monday night's game with the Mets batting .371 in the 36 games. For the season he was hitting .305 and had a .311 lifetime batting average going into the 1978 season.

Rose was named the National League's Rookie of the Year in 1963, the league's Most Valuable Player in 1973 and the World Series MVP in 1975. He has won three batting championships and has been named to the NL's All-Star team 11 times, starting at four different positions.

Mussels Lose On Field And Off

GRAYS HARBOR, Wash. — Victoria Mussels had an earlier victory plucked from their grasp and then suffered a 6-2 loss at the hands of Grays Harbor Loggers in Northwest League baseball action here Monday night.

Mussels, who snatched a 6-4 advantage over Walla Walla Padres at home Sunday before the game was called in accordance with an 8:30 p.m. league curfew designed to give teams enough time to make the last ferry from Vancouver Island to the Mainland, learned Monday that league president Bob Richmond had ruled in favor of a Walla Walla protest.

The game will be completed July 27 when the Mussels visit Walla Walla.

Meanwhile, Fran Hirschy of Loggers notched his sixth win in nine starts this season, by scattering nine hits. Lefthander Matt Reeves, one of four recent Victoria aquisitions from the Los Angeles Dodgers' Lethbridge affiliate, absorbed his first loss while going the distance.

Reeves walked the first two batters in the first inning and Jim Gattis followed to drive in three runs with his seventh home run of the season.

Loggers scored two more in the second inning, one coming on a balk and the other on a single by Alex Ortiz. In the eighth, Gattis doubled and scored on a sacrifice fly.

In other league games Monday, Tim Tveit's 12th-inning home run helped lift Bellingham to within two and a half games of Northern Division leader Walla Walla by driving in three runs in a five-run Mariner outburst that produced a 10-5 victory over the leaders, Boise edged Salem 6-5 and Bend stopped Eugene, 4-2.

Padres scored four runs against Bellingham in the eighth, sending the game into extra innings. All of Bellingham's 12th-inning scoring came after two outs — four of the runs were unearned.

Rick Gonzales paced Boise hitters against Salem with three hits, including a double. Teammate Bo McConaughy rapped a triple.

Bend's victory over the Emeralds moved the Timber Hawks to one and a half games of Eugene, the league's Southern Division leader. Bend designated-hitter Eric Attaway drove in three runs.

Vistas Deadlock Match To Gain Share of Lead

Vancouver Island Vistas kept an unbeaten record alive and moved into a share of first place in the Pacific Northwest Soccer League by playing to a 1-1 deadlock with Vancouver Whitecaps Reserves before about 300 fans Monday night at Royal Athletic Park.

Vistas are now 5-0-4 and finish out their inaugural season by visiting Sounders Reserves in Seattle on Friday.

The Island side is tied with North Vancouver Pegasus with 14 points, four ahead of Whitecaps Reserves, who also have one game remaining.

Pegaus finishes off by playing host to Seattle this week and there are no playoffs.

Forslund drew Humphries out, then slipped the ball to Rob Williams, who blasted it into the empty net.

Humphries made a great stop on Forslund 10 minutes later and Vistas hit the post on two more scoring attempts before the break.

Vancouver rallied in the second half and Drew Ferguson, a former Powell River Villas star in the Island League, figured in the tying goal at 72 minutes after being moved up to a midfield slot.

Ferguson crossed the ball to Carl Shearer, who captured Soccer Boy of the Year laurels during the B.C. juvenile finals here in May, for a scoring header.

Derek Possee, a speedy Whitecaps regular, got a break in the final minute but Victoria netminder Ted Van Waes made an excellent save to preserve the tie.

New Name Macs Meet Coquitlam

NEW WESTMINSTER — New Westminster Salmonbellies, capitalizing on some key turnovers, dominated play in the third period and came up with a 17-13 victory over Victoria McDonalds in Western Canada Lacrosse League action Monday at Queen's Park Arena.

It was the sixth straight loss for the Victoria club and third straight under new coach Steve Buckley.

McDonalds, who face Coquitlam J-Hawks under a new name tonight at 8 in the final home game of the season at Esquimalt Sports Centre, were ahead 5-3 after the first period but Salmonbellies had equallized the count 10-10 at the end of the second frame.

Rob Dalziel set the comeback pace for New Westminster with three goals and four assists, Mark Tuura also scored three times, double tallies were added by Ross Angelucci and Tery Miller while goaltender Ron McIsaac, Dean Malcolm, Shane Spring, Shawn Cahill, Greg Steeden, Dave Thornhill and Paul Kilpatrick chipped in singles.

Doug Angrove led Victoria with five goals and two assists, Murray McLaren added three tallies and singles were fired by Mark Roberts, Ron Sage, Ken Murray, Tarey Pollock and Greg McInnes.

Bill Thomas blocked 43 shots on the Victoria goal while Leo Parolini and McIsaac made 35 saves for New Westminster.

George Nagy: Took Advice From Mother

Nagy, a 21-year-old native of Toronto who now trains in Thunder Bay, Ont., was not all that serious about competitive swimming when he first started, but received some encouragement from home.

"My mother was a competitive swimmer and so was my sister," Nagy explained.

"I started after my sister quit. It kept me out of trouble.

"It's a great way to meet people. I've been in several countries around the world and it got me a scholarship in school.

"When I was younger, about 13 to 15, I didn't see any of the benefits. My mother kept on me. She told me I would regret it later if I gave it up.

"I fooled around then. I went to workouts, but I wasn't so intense."

The elder Nagy, who attends University of Southern California, won the men's 200-metre butterfly at the Canadian Commonwealth Games and world aquatic swimming trials in Regina earlier this month.

"You know today they are piling the yardage on the kids," said Nagy, who holds the Canadian record for the 200 fly. "I don't know if I could handle it.

"I'm used to it at my age because I know I need it.

"I notice a lot of swimmers here are 14 and 15 and they are blossoming. A couple of years later and they are burned out. I think a swimmer should work into it."

Nagy noted that the peak was different for individual swimmers.

"Men are from 17 up to what I am now, 21. Girls mature somewhat earlier."

Nagy does not seem to mind that the Games follow closely on the heels of the Canadian trials and precede the world aquatic championships by less than three weeks.

"It gets you racing fit," he noted. "First you have the trials, then the Games and three weeks after that, the world championships.

"I know the Russians this year swam against the East Germans first, then the U.S., and then us in about the same way we are doing it with the trials, the Games and the worlds.

"It will help us."

Nagy, who says racing against is brother has some positiive points and some negative points, admitted it was difficult at times.

"It is hard to swim against somebody you have been with all your life. We do a lot of things together.

"There is a little incentive to go out there against each other, but swimming really doesn't get in our way."

Nagy was attracted to USC by the excellent program and the fact there is nothing comparable in Canada.

"It is attractive to go to the States. In the programs here, they don't combine the athletics and academics.

"They have great academic programs, but the athletic side is not that great."

He wants to do well in the Games of course, but his main goal is the 1980 Olympics in Moscow.

"I graduate from school in '80 and that will be the end of my college eligibility. I'll go to the Olympics and that porbably will be it.

Stapleton Signs To Coach Racers

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Former all-star defenceman Pat Stapleton has signed a one-year contract to become coach and general manager of Indianapolis Racers, the World Hockey Association club announced today.

Stapleton, 38, an all-star in both the National Hockey League and the WHA, played for the Racers two years ago but moved to the rival Cincinnati Stingers last season after he was unable to agree with Racers owner Nelson Skalbania on a new contract.

It is uncertain if Stapleton will be a player-coach this year, but he told reporters he hopes he can devote full time to coaching and being general manager.

He replaces Bill Goldsworthy, player-coach last year who has been traded to Edmonton Oilers of the WHA.

City Club Takes Title

QUESNEL (CP) — Victoria Firefighters defeated East Vancouver All-Stars 9-8 Monday to win the British Columbia senior Babe Ruth baseball championship.

It was the second consecutive title for Victoria which advanced to the Pacific Northwest championships next week in Hermiston, Ore.

IOC Prepares To Consider Other Sites

HAMBURG, West Germany (Reuter) — Willi Daume, vice-president of the International Olympic Committee, says the committee's executive will meet in Lausanne in August to decide what to do if Los Angeles withdraws its bid for the 1984 Olympic Games.

Daume, a West German, told a news conference that three possibilities of other sites existed for the IOC if Los Angeles decided to step down as host.

Hodges Hurls Sidney To Key Playoff Win

Sidney continued to battle back through the losers' bracket by ousting Gordon Head 5-3 Monday in the Greater Victoria Little League district championship tournament at Lambrick Park.

The comeback club, which eliminated American 17-4 and Layritz 9-0 in weekend action, now advances to face unbeaten Layritz in the final tonight at 6:30. If Sidney wins, another game will be played Wednesday at the same time.

Steven Hodges struck out 10 batters for the pitching decision and drove in what proved to be the winning run.

With the bases loaded and Sidney behind 3-2 in the fourth inning, Butch Chad drove in the tying run with a fielder's choice and Hodges plated the winner with a single. Damian Guilbault supplied the insurance run with another single.

"You're not making any sense! First you say your wife ran off with your best friend and then you tell us you never actually met the guy."

Combos Bring Skylarks Down

Esquimalt Combos grabbed an early lead with five runs in the first inning and finished off with four in the final sixth frame to upset Victoria Skylarks 9-3 in Victoria Senior Women's League play at Hyacinth Park.

In the other game, Victoria Athletics trounced Hygrade Radio, 14-2.

Skylarks, the only senior "A" team in the league, committed three errors in the first inning and two more in the sixth.

Sharleen Eden had two hits for Skylarks.

Kay Thorne threw a two-hitter to lead Athletics to victory.

Lynn Phillips drove in three runs on two hits for Athletics while Noni Maruca bashed out three hits, including two triples. Penny Clough and Cherly Linn gave good support with two hits each.

Barnett Keeps Capitals in Check

Ross Barnett struck out seven batters and walked only two Monday while pitching a four-hitter to pace Capital Radiators to a 9-3 Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League victory over Dairy Queen at Lambrick Park.

Designated-hitter Paul McLeod led the Capital attack with two hits to score twice and drive in one run while Dale Aune also had two hits to drive in two runs.

Murdoch Suspended Year By Zeigler on Drug Count

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Rangers right winger Don Murdoch, who pleaded guilty in court last April 24 to possession of cocaine, says his future in the National Hockey League is uncertain after being slapped with one of the stiffest suspensions in recent league history.

NHL president John Ziegler said Monday the 21-year-old Murdoch will be suspended for the entire 1978-79 season, but that the punishment may be reduced to 40 games upon application by the Rangers if his conduct is proper during the period on the sidelines.

Murdoch said he will be meeting with his legal and athletic representatives within the week to determine what his future holds. He said, however, that he may have an escape clause in his contract that might allow him to offer his services to the World Hockey Association. Cincinnati Stingers own the draft rights to Murdoch.

Except for the lifetime bans placed on Billy Taylor and Don Gallinger in 1946 for alleged gambling activities, Murdoch's suspension is the longest in NHL history.

"This has sunk in hard and I hope I will be able to handle it," Murdoch said.

"I feel I have been made the fall guy, but Mr. Ziegler had the final decision and this was it."

The suspension of Murdoch, a native of Cranbrook, B.C., was the first handed out by the NHL involving illicit drugs. It came one week after Murdoch appeared before Ziegler at a hearing.

Along with the suspension, Murdoch was fined $500.

"It hit hard," Murdoch said. "My family and friends stuck by me all through this. I learned my lesson. I made a mistake. I knew the league would do something, but not this. It's more than I expected."

Murdoch was detained at Toronto International Airport on Aug. 12, 1977, and charged with trafficking cocaine. He faced up to seven years in prison for possessing 4.8 grams of cocaine. But he pleaded guilty to a reduced charged of possession and was fined $400.

"Mr. Murdoch has admitted that he had this illegal drug in his possession," Ziegler said. "He has constantly denied that it was for his use and has maintained that it was by accident that he came by sameand that it was his intention to throw it away but that he forgot and it got placed in his baggage by the act of another. Mr. Murdoch's statement in this regard has been corraborated and is accepted for the purposes of my determination."

Texas Owner Lectures Club

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — A storming mad Brad Corbett chased the press out of manager Billy Hunter's office late Saturday after kicking open the door, then lectured his slumping Texas Rangers players behind closed doors.

Corbett, owner of the American League baseball club, became irate after the Rangers committed two errors in the top of the 10th inning to give Milwaukee Brewers a 2-1 victory.

The loss dropped Texas 6½ games behind Kansas City in the American League West Division.

Corbett said he was angry at the team "because they've got to stop talking about being the best and go out and prove we're the best."

The free-spending Corbett said: "I told the guys that I'll go broke with them . . . I'll fire 'til I'm dry."

He added: "It's incredible that this team has scored 153 runs less than Kansas City and it's certainly not because they're not well paid. We've got to start playing for pride and I believe we've got some guys who will."

It took Corbett two kicks to get through the door into Hunter's office where he was being interviewed by writers.

"Everybody out," said Corbett, who later could be heard shouting even though the steel door was closed.

Later, Corbett said: "I apologize if I was rude."

Corbett, who last July 4 claimed he was going to sell the team because "they're dogs on the field and dogs off the field," said he didn't intend to sell the team.

"We're going to have a winner in Texas—if not this year then next year and I'm certainly not writing off this year."

Corbett said that he had asked Hunter if he would like a five-year contract. "Billy told me he just wanted one year at a time."

Minus Show Pool A Sandown Oddity

By BILL WALKER
Times Staff

People have peculiar betting habits at any race track and the Sandown Raceway folk fit that mold perfectly.

Already this year in the first summer season for the standardbreds, various records, some of them of the unusual variety, have been set.

Previously there had been a Vancouver Island record of $1,258.80 for an exactor when Nechako Kate and Mss Hazel got together.

Nechako Kate also paid a meet high of $100.10 to win.

Before that, Holridge Dakota had paid $26.60 to show, Baron Romero had returned $108.30 to place and Paul Bruiser had returned the all-time low of $2.10 to win. Quite a contrast.

So variety is the spice of life.

Monday, there was the smallest exactor of the meeting and also the first minus pool.

The exactor is not really that peculiar, but the oddity is that the minus pool for show wagering occurred in a seven-horse race, the fourth, as the first three finishers returned $2.10 to show.

General manager Jim Keeling Jr. said he couldn't ever remember this happening before. In a four-horse race, yes, where the bettor is limited, but not in a seven-horse race.

The amount of $2.10 is the minimum payoff for a $2 wager on B.C. tracks and the Raceway had to make up the difference. In this case it wasn't much, only $19, and it means simply that nearly all the money wagered was on those three horses and only about $1,000 on the rest of the field.

The fact that it came in a meeting where the specialty exactor pool predominates and also that it came in a race of non-winners of two, lifetime, raises other rarities.

A race of this type is not regarded as a bettor's paradise. Secretariat, yes, but non-winners of two—not usually likely.

However, it happened, nearly everyone shared in the mutuels, and the exactor, B.C. Arden to Sava Dominion, paid a modest $5.80.

The third horse in the race was Wallace Crooks.

Otherwise, Nechako Alice, with Willie Urquhart in the sulky, won the featured one-mile pace and paid $5.00, $3.70 and $3.10 with a narrow decision over the lightly-regarded Mark Doc, the exactor returning $126.40.

But that wasn't the best of the night. Glen Crooks, with veteran Bill Haining Sr. driving, won the third and combined with Brontosaurus for $298.60.

Joe Hudon drove two winners, March Stream ($6.60) in the second and Charmin Dusty ($19.70) in the sixth.

Racing resumes Wednesday at 5:55 p.m. and the speed championship of the trak is about to be decided. The three co-holders of the track record of 2:04, Fort Tilden, Gingers Dustie and Deacon Brodie are matched in the feature.

'Never Better', Charlie Decides to Keep A's

TORONTO (CP) — Charlie Finley, boasting he has "never felt better," said Sunday the Oakland A's are not for sale now, nor will they be at the end of the season.

The flamboyant owner of the A's, who tried unsuccessfully to sell the American League baseball team to Denver oil magnate Marvin Davis prior to the season, said his declining health was the sole reason for attempting to sell the club.

"I have had successful open-heart surgery and now have no intention of selling the team," he said.

"I wish those people in Oakland who say they want to buy the team and who keep calling me would stop.

"The only thing that will drive me out of baseball is financial conditions."

Finley admitted there is "one too many teams in the Bay area" and said he would not object to moving the team to a new location, although he is not actively pursuing a new site.

When asked why he had moved the A's to Oakland from Kansas City in 1968, knowing the size of the Bay Area market, Finley replied: "Did you ever make a mistake in your life?"

Under questioning, Finley was hesitant to name the best manager he has had with the A's.

"It would be unfair to name one man because there have been several. But, no, I'll answer that anyway.

"I sold him for $100,000 and got a catcher named Manny Sanguillen thrown in. His name is Mr. Chuck Tanner."

Finley, 63, making his first trip here since the the Blue Jays started play last year, said that unless baseball owners get wise and "stop paying these ridiculous salaries to free agents, four to six teams will be out of business in the next three to five years."

He said the same thing is happening to professional hockey and basketball.

"You saw what happened to the California Golden Seals. I saw the handwriting on the wall and got the hell out while I could."

White South African New Miss Universe

Gardiner

ACAPULCO (AP) — The black winner of the 1977's Miss Universe title put the 1978 crown on the head of a white South African model Monday night, but there was none of the unpleasantness that usually accompanies South Africa's participation in international competitions.

Margaret Gardiner, a 5-foot-10, 135-pound 18-year-old from Cape Town succeeded Janelle Commissiong of Trinidad-Tobago on the beauty throne. Miss U.S.A., 20-year-old Judi Andersen of Honolulu, was second.

The other finalists were Miss Spain, Guillermina Ruiz, 21; Miss Colombia, Shirley Sawnz, 18, and Miss Sweden, Cecilia Rodhe, 17.

Officials of the competition said the Mexican government, which opposes the South African government's white-supremacy policy, made a special concession allowing Miss Gardiner to participate.

The 75 entrants in the month-long contest included one black African, Joan Libuseng Khoali of Lesotho, and several blacks from the Caribbean and Pacific islands. There was also one black among the 11 judges, American singer Melba Moore.

Although black athletes usually boycott competitions in which South Africans take part, Miss Khoali said she "saw nothing wrong" in Miss Gardiner's presence.

"This is supposed to be a beauty contest and politics should not be involved," she said.

"We've had a winner from Israel, a black girl and now a girl from South Africa," said an organizer of the event. "That shows this pageant has no politics."

PROFESSIONAL PRISONER, CLAIMS PATTY HEARST

CHICAGO (UPI) — Patty Hearst says she feels as if she has become a professional prisoner since she was kidnapped by members of the Symbionese Liberation Army four years ago.

"The people who run this prison keep telling me this is such a nice place. Like I'm lucky to be here," she told columnist Bob Greene in a copyrighted article in Monday's Chicago Tribune.

Greene recently interviewed Hearst at the Pleasanton, Calif., prison she re-entered in May to complete a seven-year bank robbery sentence.

"I feel like saying to them, 'You're no better than the SLA,'" she said of the prison employees. "I mean, I'm their prisoner. I'm not here because I'm their friend."

Miss Hearst said she has received thousands of letters since she was imprisoned.

"I might get 30 letters a day, and then on a high day I might get 100 letters," she said. "And of all the letters, only two have been negative."

She said she works as a cook in the prison during the day.

"I'm paid $10 a month," she said. "I think that comes out to around two cents an hour, but I'm not sure, my math's so bad."

Mother Teresa Gets OBE

NEW DELHI (AP) — Mother Teresa, Calcutta's "saint of the gutters" and founder of a Roman Catholic missionary order, has been made an officer in the Order of the British Empire in an informal ceremony at the Australian high commission here.

Peter Curtis, Australia's high commissioner to India, said Mother Teresa, 67, was honored for her "services to humanity."

'Shopping for Judge' Denied by Lawyer

A Vancouver lawyer disagreed in provincial court Monday with what he said was an earlier judge's suggestion that he was attempting to "judgeshop" for his client.

Josiah Wood made the comment to Judge William Ostler, who came into Courtroom No. 1 after the mid-morning recess to take over from Judge Fred Green.

The case was called earlier in the morning before Green but he ordered it stood down to later in the list of court matters.

Wood represents Neil Maxwell Kennedy, 26, of Toronto, one of 15 men accused of conspiracy to import marijuana after RCMP and armed forces personnel seized 13 tons of marijuana said to be worth $20.8 million wholesale 10 days ago at Obstruction Island in Shelter Inlet north of Tofino.

Kennedy had been scheduled to appear in provincial court later this week for bail hearing but the date was brought forward by the defence to last Wednesday when Judge Blake Allan was presiding and was then adjourned to Friday when Allan was again presiding and adjourned to Monday.

Wood said he wanted Judge Green to hear the bail application because he was familiar with the case, having spent the best part of one day dealing with a number of applications arising from the same charge.

Wood repeated his argument before Judge Ostler Monday and said Judge Allan had disagreed with his position "and suggested I was attempting to judgeshop. I disagreed with that."

He then said it appeared the matter would not come before Judge Green Monday and Judge Ostler commented "you have come to the correct conclusion. The matter will proceed. Go ahead."

Last week, Judge Green granted bail, in amounts ranging from $3,000 to $10,000, for five persons and detained three in custody.

Some or all of the remaining six men were to appear for bail hearing and possibly election of trial method today in provincial court.

Defence counsel for the accused men have exercised their right to a no-publication order which means the evidence from submissions of the prosecution and defence at the bail applications and the reasons by the presiding judge for granting or denying bail cannot be published.

Before The Judge

Two men arrested in connection with the Friday holdup of Cheung's Low Cost Grocery, 811 Craigflower, in which about $100 was taken, made a brief appearance before being remanded in custody until today.

William Robert Lowe is charged with being unlawfully at large from Jordan River forestry camp and jointly with 24-year-old Roland Alexander Clermont, 2825 Shelbourne, with robbery with violence. They were remanded one day for election and, in Clermont's case, possible bail hearing.

Green handed out concurrent sentences of three and 21 days to a 21-year-old who pleaded guilty to two counts of driving while suspended.

Raymond Peter Kapfer, 619 Jolly Place, admitted driving while under suspension on June 25 and July 11.

Crown counsel Nicholas Lang said Kapfer was stopped on a speeding motorcycle June 25 and said he thought the suspension was for cars only. On July 11, Lang said, Kapfer was stopped as he was heading south on Douglas. Lang informed the court Kapfer's driver's licence had been suspended as of May 11, 1978.

Defence lawyer Gary Casillio asked Green to take into consideration that Kapfer had already spent 12 days in custody awaiting disposition of the charges.

Green also put Kapfer on four months' probation.

Probation For Pair

Two persons were given suspended sentences and placed on probation in county court Monday for separate offences.

Katheryn Houlahan, 20, of Victoria pleaded guilty to trafficking in MDA in St. Albert, Alta., Sept. 7 and was placed on probation for one year.

It was her first offence.

Kenneth Edward Roberts, 21, of Victoria pleaded guilty to possession of stolen property worth more than $200 which, court was told, consisted of stereo equipment for which he paid $300 in a beer parlor deal.

"You are out $300, that seems punishment enough," said Judge Alan Cowan in placing Roberts on probation for three months.

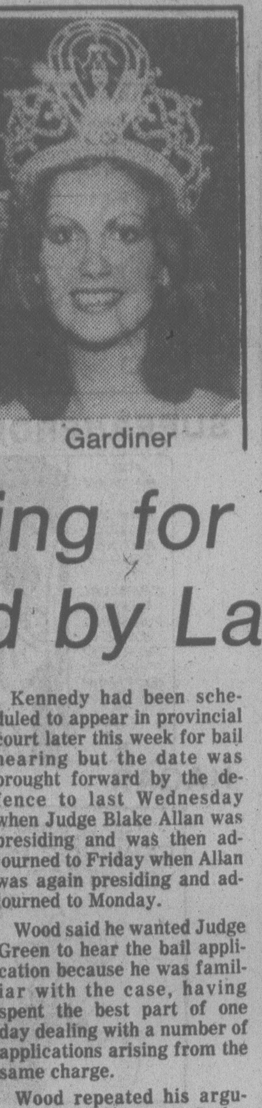
White South African New Miss Universe



Gardiner

ACAPULCO (AP) — The black winner of the 1977's Miss Universe title put the 1978 crown on the head of a white South African model Monday night, but there was none of the unpleasantness that usually accompanies South Africa's participation in international competitions.

Margaret Gardiner, a 5-foot-10, 135-pound 18-year-old from Cape Town succeeded Janelle Commissiong of Trinidad-Tobago on the beauty throne. Miss U.S.A., 20-year-old Judi Andersen of Honolulu, was second.

The other finalists were Miss Spain, Guillermina Ruiz, 21; Miss Colombia, Shirley Sawnz, 18, and Miss Sweden, Cecilia Rodhe, 17.

Officials of the competition said the Mexican government, which opposes the South African government's white-supremacy policy, made a special concession allowing Miss Gardiner to participate.

The 75 entrants in the month-long contest included one black African, Joan Libuseng Khoali of Lesotho, and several blacks from the Caribbean and Pacific islands. There was also one black among the 11 judges, American singer Melba Moore.

Although black athletes usually boycott competitions in which South Africans take part, Miss Khoali said she "saw nothing wrong" in Miss Gardiner's presence.

"This is supposed to be a beauty contest and politics should not be involved," she said.

"We've had a winner from Israel, a black girl and now a girl from South Africa," said an organizer of the event. "That shows this pageant has no politics."

Peter Curtis, Australia's high commissioner to India, said Mother Teresa, 67, was honored for her "services to humanity."

PROFESSIONAL PRISONER, CLAIMS PATTY HEARST

CHICAGO (UPI) — Patty Hearst says she feels as if she has become a professional prisoner since she was kidnapped by members of the Symbionese Liberation Army four years ago.

"The people who run this prison keep telling me this is such a nice place. Like I'm lucky to be here," she told columnist Bob Greene in a copyrighted article in Monday's Chicago Tribune.

'Shopping for Judge' Denied by Lawyer

A Vancouver lawyer disagreed in provincial court Monday with what he said was an earlier judge's suggestion that he was attempting to "judgeshop" for his client.

Josiah Wood made the comment to Judge William Ostler, who came into Courtroom No. 1 after the mid-morning recess to take over from Judge Fred Green.

The case was called earlier in the morning before Green but he ordered it stood down to later in the list of court matters.

Wood represents Neil Maxwell Kennedy, 26, of Toronto, one of 15 men accused of conspiracy to import marijuana after RCMP and armed forces personnel seized 13 tons of marijuana said to be worth $20.8 million wholesale 10 days ago at Obstruction Island in Shelter Inlet north of Tofino.

Kennedy had been scheduled to appear in provincial court later this week for bail hearing but the date was brought forward by the defence to last Wednesday when Judge Blake Allan was presiding and was then adjourned to Friday when Allan was again presiding and adjourned to Monday.

Wood said he wanted Judge Green to hear the bail application because he was familiar with the case, having spent the best part of one day dealing with a number of applications arising from the same charge.

Wood repeated his argument before Judge Ostler Monday and said Judge Allan had disagreed with his position "and suggested I was attempting to judgeshop. I disagreed with that."

He then said it appeared the matter would not come before Judge Green Monday and Judge Ostler commented "you have come to the correct conclusion. The matter will proceed. Go ahead."

Last week, Judge Green granted bail, in amounts ranging from $3,000 to $10,000, for five persons and detained three in custody.

Some or all of the remaining six men were to appear for bail hearing and possibly election of trial method today in provincial court.

Defence counsel for the accused men have exercised their right to a no-publication order which means the evidence from submissions of the prosecution and defence at the bail applications and the reasons by the presiding judge for granting or denying bail cannot be published.

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

In today's deal the key question was which deuce the West defender should discard. He came up with the wrong one, enabling declarer to fulfill a slam contract. The hand was played in a rubber-bridge game.

East-West vulnerable.
South deals.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 ♡	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	4 ♡	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ◇	Pass
6 ♡	Pass	Pass	Dble.
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Two of ♠.

East's "sporting" double of South's six-heart bid was a book bid: it commanded West to lead spades, the first suit bid by dummy. So West dutifully opened the two of spades.

When the dummy came into view, it was quite obvious that West was leading the only spade he possessed. And if the queen were finessed, East, upon winning with his king, would return a spade for West to ruff. So declarer really had no option but to put up the board's ace of spades.

The contract appeared to be a hopeless one, but South thought he might have a chance to make it. He cashed all of his five trumps, discarding dummy's three remaining spades on the last three trump leads. West followed suit to the first four leads, but he had to make a discard on the fifth trump. He chose the deuce of diamonds.

Next came the ace and king of clubs, after which the ace and king of diamonds were cashed. This was followed by the diamond jack, which was overtaken by the queen. Now the jack of clubs was led, South tossing away a spade as West won the trick with the queen. West's last card was a club, so he had to lead it, and dummy's ten of clubs became declarer's slam-going trick.

Without any doubt declarer played the hand well, and was entitled to his victory. But, as was stated, West could have defeated the contract.

When West had to make a discard on South's last trump lead, if he had guessed to toss away the club deuce (instead of the diamond deuce), South would have gone down. When West would subsequently obtain the lead via the club queen, his 13th card would now be a diamond, rather than a club. And that diamond would have produced the setting trick.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological Forecast for Wednesday, July 26
By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent on analyzing chnages, checking costs. Member of opposite sex lends spice tolife — and also could make it more expensive. Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius — and the number 5 — all figure in scenario. Written material can give you advantage over competitors.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Take lead, pioneer a project. Stress originality, individuality. Judgement, timing are honed to razor-sharpness. Cycle is high — popularity zooms. Make personal appearances, wear bright colors. Make contacts, assert views in dynamic, confident manner.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Much needs clarification — you require a view that is not obscured. What occurs behind the scenes takes on added importance. Illusion, fear, romance, doubt all combine as part of your personal scenario. If patient, you make signficant discovery. Don't jump at shadows.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Relationship is intensified. Business dealings, investments are accelerated. You get more responsibility. Be sure you also have added authority and financial consideration. Cancer, Capricorn persons — and the number 8 — figure prominently.

LEO (July 23-Aug.. 22): Accent on achievement, activity connected with civic honor. You gain wider recognition — and you'll be rid of a burden, a losing proposition. Promotion due — prestige is elevated. Aries, Libra persons figure in picture.

VIRGO (Aug: 23-Sept. 22): Good Moon aspect coincides now with journey, study, spiritual insights, reading, publishing. Distance is bridged — language and age barriers cease to be obstacles. You are stimulated by "discovery," Leo, Aquarius figure prominently.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Spotlight on puzzle, lost object, the occult, budget related to one close to you. Legal affairs should be reviewed — by a professional. Follow through on hunch — heed inner voice. Aquarius, Cancer, Leo persons play key roles..

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Diversify, display adaptability; expand horizons. Valuable contacts can be made at social gathering. Leave details for another time — gain perception of picture as a whole. Accent on commitment, legal maneuver, dealing with public.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Stress foundation, facts, support from persons with knowledge and financial responsibility. Check medical, dental appointments. Keep resolutions concerning nutrition, health. Aquarius, Scorpio persons figure prominently.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Check trends, cycles; you have marvelous chance to imprint style, to express and to inaugurate your own policy. Be ready for questions, skeptical inquiries. Have pertinent material at hand.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Check home, domestic situation. Make concession to family member. Highlight safety, security. Purchase of art object or luxury item could be on agenda. Taurus, Libra, Scorpio could figure prominently — and so does the number 6.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Ideas are plentiful; key is to be selective. Steer away from scheme which hints at something for nothing. Short trips, significant calls and messages are highlighted. Relative admits "state of confusion."

IF JULY 26 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are an organizer, capable of handling responsibility and money. Capricorn, Cancer persons play important roles in your life. Travel and conviviality featured for you in August. You are aggressive, not easy to know — you can be counted on to finish what you start. You arouse envy, you are attractive, dedicated, stubborn, intense and you draw to you those who are in positions of authority.

WEEKEND ART FAIR

Pssssst . . . wanna take part in a Mid-Summer Affair?

Two University of Victoria students will be glad to show you how.

Derrek Rozdeba and Andrew Best are sponsoring the event, which is actually a weekend art fair complete with food and music taking place near Duncan.

Artists from Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands are invited to display and sell their works at rented booths from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Aug. 19 and 20, at Simon Charlie's, an artist himself, who lives about three kilometres south of Duncan.

It's billed as a rendezvous with art, but there will also be demonstrations on how to cook Japanese and Asian delicacies and the menu includes a salmon barbecue, beef, salads, noodles and cabbage rolls.

From 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., music will be provided by home-grown bands Ember, Excalibur, Manfrog Ensemble, Monty Nordstrom, Bogwater, Island, Jeremey Sager and Company, Nature Theatre Puppets and Punch.

Admission is $3.

Artists wishing to diplay their works must register by phoning 748-8218 or 746-6772 (Duncan) or 754-6214 (Nanaimo) or by writing to Mid-Summer Affair, General Delivery, Cowichan Station, B.C. V0R 1P0.

Crop Called Boon To Farmers' Welfare

VANCOUVER (CP) — A rich crop of berries and plenty of pickers in the Fraser Valley and Okanagan could mean winter vacations for most British Columbia fruit farmers, farm and labor officials say.

"There are considerably more pickers out this year than previous years despite . . charges from farmers that people pick welfare, not berries," said Elmer Butler, field man for the Canada Farm Labor Pool.

"Raspberry and blueberry prices are the highest they've ever been. All in all, it's a great year for the farmers," he said.

Officials say in a few isolated cases farmers may have trouble getting pickers out on the field but it's usually because of poor working conditions or a sparse crop, making it unprofitable for the picker.

"If the crop is good you have no trouble getting pickers," says Langley farmer John Reger. "I haven't had any trouble getting pickers for my 10½ acres and the other farmers say the same.

"Every year there's a bit of a problem finding pickers before the end of school or, say, a holiday weekend," he said. "But that's to be expected."

Earlier this month, a handful of Fraser Valley farmers complained about labor shortages and some claimed they faced bankruptcy. They blamed the lack of interest on high unemployment and welfare payments.

Leo Trent, Canada Manpower's farm labor co-ordinator for the region, says farmers have increased their acreage, which he doubts they would do if they were going broke.

He says he knows of no one having labor problems and says some farmers overemphasize the need for workers because they are anxious about crops.

"If a few are having trouble it's because they're either not providing transportation or they weren't prepared for the sudden ripening of crops," he said.

Richard Bullock, president of the B.C. Fruit Growers Association in Kelowna, says employers facing shortages are probably not the pick of the crop.

"There are a few employers who are constantly needing help and those who get the same pickers coming back year after year," he said.

"Those who have trouble may bring it on themselves," he said. "Up our way the labor situation is good."

Budworm Decline Observed

The ministry of forests said Monday preliminary surveys show a reduction in the population of the western spruce budworm in the Fraser Canyon and Kamloops areas.

The ministry said in a news release this is the first time the population has shown a significant drop in the present nine-year infestation cycle.

"However, new outbreaks of budworm attack have been reported in several areas including Sayona, west of Kamloops, Prospect Creek, north of Princeton, and Anarchist Mountain, near Osoyoos," the ministry said.

"In 1977, budworm attacks on Douglas fir in the Fraser and Kamloops areas covered 246,000 hectares."

Howard Trip, of the Canadian Forestry Service, said the estimates are based on ground examinations and the complete assessment of the 1978 defoliation and predictions for 1979 will not be known until later this year.

Forests Minister Tom Waterland had intended last summer to use chemical pesticides to control the budworm, but was overruled by cabinet. Earlier this year, Waterland announced that he was dropping his backing of pesticides, saying studies showed they weren't necessary.

The ministry said Monday it will continue trials of non-chemical control methods.

90% Milfoil Kill from 2,4-D

Applications of the controversial herbicide 2,4-D have been 90 per cent effective in combating Eurasian milfoil weed in the Okanagan lakes system, a government official said Monday.

Steve Phillips, an environment ministry research officer, said in an interview that 2,4-D is doing an extremely efficient job in fighting milfoil and the government is pleased with the results of the chemical.

Phillips said the ministry is expecting the same 90 per cent kill rate on a 13-acre plot in Okanagan Lake which was treated with 2,4-D in June.

He also said water investigations branch officials planned another applicaton of 2,4-D Monday in Kalamalka Lake, near Vernon.

RCMP were called in earlier this month to prevent protesters from blocking the application of 2,4-D in the lake. However, ministry officials said Monday they are hopeful there will be no further trouble.

Meanwhile, the environment ministry is distributing a pamphlet explaining that it uses 2,4-D because it is the most widely-used organic herbicide in the world and is extremely effective in fighting milfoil.

The ministry said only about one per cent of the total area of all the major Okanagan lakes is infested with milfoil, and only a portion of this will be treated with 2,4-D. The balance will be treated by mechanical methods.

BCIT Governors

Three new members have been appointed to the board of governors of the B.C. Institute of Technology.

Education Minister Pat McGeer said Monday in a news release they are Donald B. Rix of Vancouver, Wayne W. Allen of Vancouver, and Marcel Lowndes of Kamloops.

WOMAN FACES DEATH CHARGE

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 22-year-old city woman was charged with second degree murder following the rooming-house stabbing death of a man early Monday, one of two violent deaths in the city within 24 hours.

Police said Janet Montgrond, a native of Laloette, Sask., was charged in the death of Paul Saumure, 29, who was found fatally stabbed in a room the couple shared.

Meanwhile, police released one man and took another into custody Monday as they continued to probe the Sunday morning death of Diane Strohmaier, 27.

The woman's nude body, with a sleeping bag twisted loosely around the ankles, was discovered on the sidewalk at the rear of a rooming house in the city's downtown core.

The deaths bring to 16 the number of murders in the city so far this year.

CPR Agrees To Land Deal

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian Pacific Railway has agreed to turn over 334 acres of land to the St. Mary's Indian band as partial compensation for damage to reserve property caused by the diversion of the St. Mary's River in 1969, federal government sources said Monday.

The sources said that CP Rail and the federal Indian Affairs department have agreed to share equally the cost of the band's claim to a total of 2,800 acres.

Railway traffic in southeastern British Columbia returned to normal Friday night after the band removed its barricade from the CP Railway line near Cranbrook.

The action followed an agreement-in-principle between the band and CP Rail earlier Friday in Vancouver for compensation for reserve land eroded by construction of a 30-metre section of rail line.

About 150 band members halted almost all east-west rail traffic over the Crowsnest Pass by erecting the plywood barrier July 7. The band had blocked the line periodically since February.

Band officials say between 80 and 100 acres have been eroded by the St. Mary's River since CP Rail diverted the river's course northward to protect the line from erosion.

Band administrator Lloyd Lezard said last week that the band wanted 2,800 acres in compensation for land which he said will be eroded in the future.

The stoppage of rail traffic threatened massive layoffs in area industries, including Cominco Ltd. in Kimberley and Cresbrook Forest Industries in Cranbrook and Creston.

NIGHT AFLOAT FOR 200

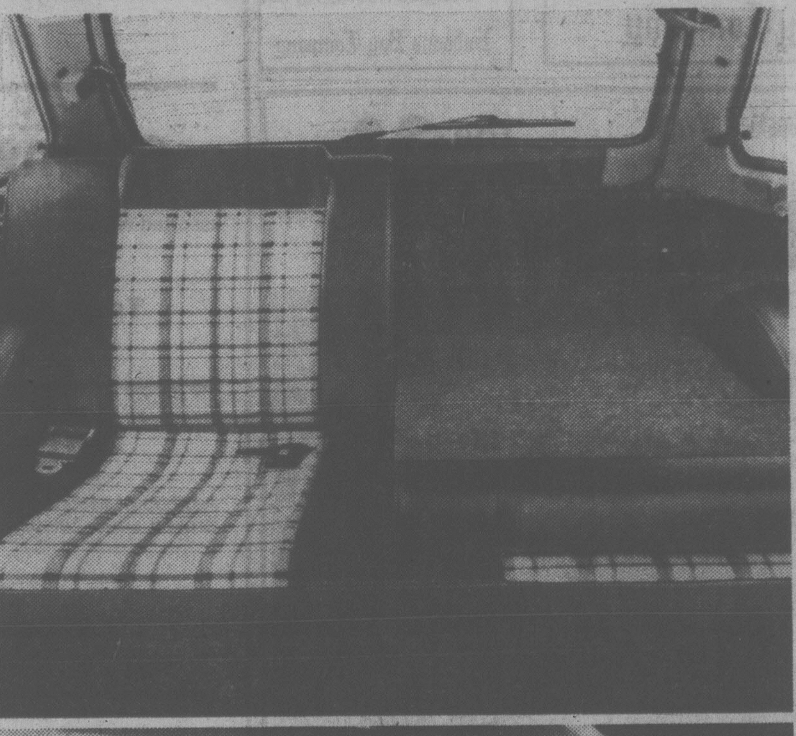
KELOWNA (CP) — About 200 people, mostly tourists, spent an extra three hours aboard the sternwheeler Fintry Queen Sunday night after workmen were unable to repair a bridge span over Okanagan Lake.

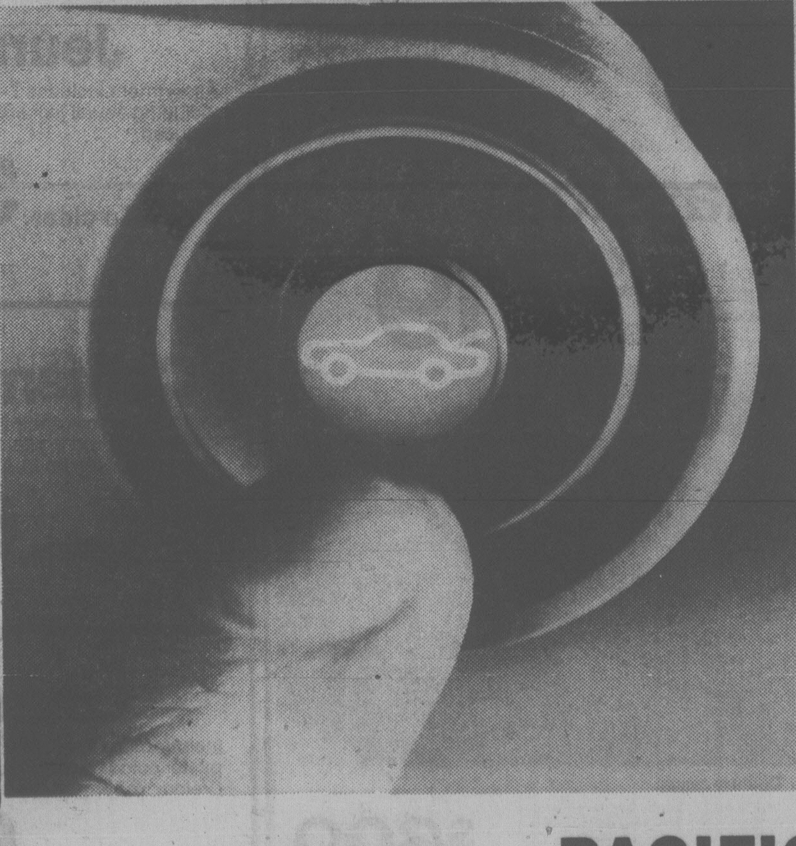
The span which allows traffic across the lake into the city, was jammed in the up postion Sunday, causing traffic to be backed up for about two kilometres on Highway 97.

The span was finally lowered more than an hour later. After attempts to fix the lifting mechanism were unsuccessful, bridge officials decided to keep the span down, stranding the Fintry Queen on the south side.

Shortly after midnight the vessel docked at the Westbank Yacht Club, 22 kilometres south of here. The passengers disembarked and were brought by bus back to the ctiy.

YOU GET STANDARD FEATURES ON A MAZDA GLC YOU CAN'T GET ON MOST SMALL CARS. EVEN AS OPTIONS.





There's no other hatchback at this price that has split rear seats. But, it's a standard feature on a GLC Deluxe. And it's a thoughtful idea.

You can fold the complete rear seat down for cargo space. Or fold either half. And leave an extra seat in the back for a third person.

Suppose it's raining. You're in the car. Your husband has just come out of the supermarket with an armful of groceries. He dashes to the car and tries to open the hatch, but it's locked. He's getting soaked. And you don't want to. What do you do?

Well, if you were in a GLC, you'd push the electric hatch release. And bingo, the hatch would unlock. It's a nice thoughtful touch. In fact, there are a lot of other thoughtful features built into a GLC when you look at it.

Like a thoughtful 1300cc overhead cam piston engine that never forgets to give you great gas economy. Mileage of 78 km/gal. on the highway and 63 km/gal. in the city.*

For rust protection, there are many thoughtful rust protection features. Like galvanized front fenders with plastic inner fender liners, anti-corrosion primer inside the doors and plastic sealers in body joints.

Inside, the GLC probably has one of the most thoughtfully laid out interiors. The outstanding thing you'll notice is the excellent visibility. (People have told us the GLC makes them feel a lot safer, because they can see a lot more all around.)

Another thing is space. There's lots of it. In fact, the GLC gives you more shoulder room than a Honda Civic, VW Rabbit and Chevette. And instead of giving you a long list of options, the GLC Deluxe gives you a long list of standard features you'll find hard to believe.

There's a rear window washer and wiper. Electric rear window defogger. Tinted glass on all windows. Locking gas cover. Trip odometer. Day/night interior mirror. Walk-in device in the front seat. Wall-to-wall cut-pile carpeting in both passenger compartment and cargo area. Fully reclining front bucket seats. Power assisted front disc brakes. Protective body side moulding. Rubber impact strips on front and rear bumpers. And finally big 13" whitewall tires. All standard.

Of course, with so many standards on the GLC Deluxe you may be wondering whether there are any factory options.

There are. Just two. Metallic paint. And three-speed automatic transmission. Which brings us to ask: What option do you have left, other than to come and shop one of the best equipped and lowest priced economy cars on the market today? Available in 2 or 4 door models and a 5-speed Sport.

MAZDA GLC
We thought of it.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Accountant Tom Horsley told the Small Claims Court judge that waitress Alyn Chesslet owed him $32 because she reneged on a date with him.

Horsley, 30, told the court Monday night that Miss Chesslet agreed to go to the theater with him earlier this year. But when he arrived at the agreed-upon meeting place, she told him something else had come up — and no date.

The accountant said Miss Chesslet owed him $15 because he drove to San Francisco from his home in Campbell and back, a distance of 100 miles. He said she owed him $17, computed at $8.50 an hour, for his time.

After the hearing Miss Chesslet told reporters in City Hall that the judge should turn down Horsley because "that happens to everybody and the person should accept it with good grace."

She said she was sorry he had to travel so far, "it's unfortunate, but he took a chance when he asked me out."

Judge Richard P. Figone said after the 20-minute hearing he would notify the couple of his decision by mail.

Horsley said what burned him up was that Miss Chesslet failed to make "a sincere attempt" to call him to cancel their date.

He told the court she telephoned his answering service collect when she knew it would not take such calls.

Miss Chesslet, 31, said Horsley has been harassing her by writing letters to her father asking for money.

She said she did not plan to take legal action to prevent him from bothering her "because I feel sorry for the man, but if he pushes me any further, I will."

Miss Chesslet said an adverse ruling could cause concern among people about dating.

Pension Fight Taken Directly to Britain

At today's prices for food and shelter, try living on about $12 per week total income. Most people would say it's impossible.

But that's the problem facing an elderly British woman living in Canada whose British pension has been "frozen" at about six pounds sterling per week and who receives no Canadian pension of any kind because she has lived here only seven years, three years short of the residence qualification.

Now in her 80s, she came to live with her son and his family. But her son died two years ago and her daughter-in-law can't afford to support her. Meanwhile, the old lady has used up all the capital she has.

Retired squadron leader Bill Stringer, 500 Whiteside, says there are hundreds of such distress cases among the 22,000 British old age pensioners living in Canada, and he's determined to keep fighting for them until the British government recognizes their plight.

He wants the government to guarantee that increases in the British pension will automatically be paid to pensioners living in Canada, as they are to about 64,000 other expatriate British pensioners resident elsewhere.

As of Nov. 1 this year the pension for a married couple in Britain will be increased to 31 pounds per week, says Stringer.

He recently took his fight to Britain, where he presented a 400-name petition to Eric Deakins, under-secretary for health and social security.

Stringer said he was told by Deakins that the government could not pay British pensioners in Canada the current rate because the cost would be prohibitive — 49 million pounds a year.

But he said he queried the minister's figures, adding: "I just don't believe them."

Although he ran into some bureaucratic stone walls, and came away believing there would be little action before this year's elections in Canada and Britain, Stringer says he was encouraged at the support he received.

The story was covered in the national press, he was interviewed on the BBC and invited to address the annual convention of the powerful British Pensioners and Trade Unions Action Committee.

"They gave me a standing ovation and assured me they would assist," he said.

A Gold Rush In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Beer drinkers in the Greater Vancouver area got their first taste of Pacific Gold last weekend, but they will have to wait at least 10 days for the second shipment of the new light brew.

Robert Naismith, manager of Prince George Breweries which took over the bankrupt Uncle Ben's Industries Ltd. last month, said Monday it could take that long before the next truckload arrives. The next shipment will likely be split between liquor stores and hotels, he said.

One truckload—2,880 cases—of the beer arrived here last Friday and by Monday had been distributed to 10 hotels.

Liquor Control Branch (LCB) officials have decided that the new light (five-percent alcohol) beer will be distributed first to beer outlets and liquor stores within a 200-mile radius of Prince George. Only then will Lower Mainland outlets get supplies.

In addition, the LCB wants half of the brewery's production to go to liquor outlets. The brewery had planned to give priority to hotel outlets, which meant some 21,000 cases of brew designated for Prince George hotels had to be rerouted this week to local liquor stores.

Executive director Lloyd Manuel of the B.C. Hotels Association said the association interpreted the LCB decisions to mean that no beer at all would get outside the 200-mile radius.

Naismith, however, denied such a ban, saying the scare campaign was a rumor circulated by the brewery's competitors.

Under the agreement reached Friday, Naismith said, the brewery will use its own trucks to distribute Pacific Gold within 200 miles and Pacific Brewers Distributors Ltd. will transport the beer to the rest of the province.

He said even the smallest amount of beer which heads south upsets people in the Prince George area.

"We've made a lot of enemies by sending our beer to Vancouver. You know, it's not share and share alike up here when it comes to beer."

Vancouver's Rembrandt Hotel received 420 cases of beer Friday, but Gordy Robson, general manager and part owner, said he was far from happy with the delivery.

Ill Health Linked to Building Materials

More Insulation, Less Ventilation a Potential Hazard: Expert

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

Got a headache? Your eyes smart? Periodically have a sore throat, bouts of nausea or dizziness?

According to studies in the United States, toxic gases emanating from urea-formaldehyde products are capable of causing such symptoms.

The ramifications are vast. Urea-formaldehyde is used in foam insulations and is a common bonding agent for plywoods and particleboards. Virtually every home in Canada includes some materials containing the substance.

While the degree of danger isn't known, Peter Breysse, an industrial hygienist with the University of Washington in Seattle, says the problem is potentially serious, particularly for persons living in mobile homes which are more tightly constructed than conventional dwellings, use more plywood and are not so readily ventilated.

Breysse said he's examined 330 residences, the bulk of them mobile homes, over the past three years after homeowners complained of periodic lapses of ill health.

In each case he found traces of formaldehyde vapors in the living space of the homes. The concentrations ranged from .05 to 2.5 parts per million, with an average of .06. The maximum exposure recommended by the U.S. National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health is 2 parts per million, with half that amount considered safe for homes.

He said more than 80 per cent of the people complained of irritation to their eyes and throat. Some also had headaches, nauseau and dizziness, and a few reported temporary loss of memory, drowsiness and even difficulty breathing. The symptoms disappeared when the people left their homes.

Bill White, head of the federal consumer services product safety branch in Vancouver, said the toxicity of formaldehyde has long been recognized.

But he doubts there is anything unduly toxic about urea-formaldehyde products as such.

He said he's received no complaints in B.C., but added that may be because people who develop symptoms of formaldehyde poisoning probably wouldn't suspect the cause.

Breysse, who has been studying the problems associated with formaldehyde emissions for more than 17 years, said the vapor emanates from urea-formaldehyde building materials as a natural process. Most evaporates during production and storage, but the little that's left continues to break down and escape even after five or six years.

"There's no solution as far as I can tell, except ventilation."

The energy conservation movement isn't helping matters, he said.

On one hand people are being told to make their homes more airtight to cut heat loss. The result — less ventilation.

And on the other they are being advised to improve the insulation in their homes. The result — more and more people turning to foam products, regarded as one of the best insulations on the market. Some foam products contain urea-formaldehyde.

"By trying to solve one problem, we may be creating another indoors," he said.

White said his branch in Ottawa is aware of a problems of fumes being emitted by unreacted formaldehyde in foam insulations. That, he said, happens when the applicator prepares an improper mix, normally done at the building site. But the government has set standards and tests that applicators are required to follow to ensure the mix is correct. Unfortunately, he added, there is no legislation making the tests mandatory.

One local applicator said he dropped the product a year ago after about 25 installations, not for health reasons but because the euipment was too expensive and the mixing process unreliable.

Breysse feels agencies such as B.C. Hydro and Washington Natural Gas should not promote urea-formaldehyde foam insulations until more is known about the possible side effects.

In B.C. the product has been slower in gaining acceptance.

"We aren't promoting it," a Hydro spokesman said. "We tell people if they want to use it they use it at their own risk. We acknowledge it's a good insulator but warn people they may have problems, particularly with insulation shrinkage.

But, he added, "If this stuff is bad, then it should be taken up by the governments and banned."

The implications are enormous. There are more than 18,000 mobile homes in B.C. Formaldehyde is found in thousands of products, from auto-seats to drapery to permanent-pressed fabrics to subflooring in houses.

CONCRETE HITS GIRL

Pedestrian Deborah Beal, 17, suffered a gashed leg when hit by a flying barrel of wet concrete near Swan Lake Monday evening.

Police said a truck driven by Roderick Gordon Henson, 3903 Saanich Road, was proceeding on Saanich Road near Taine when the barrel fell off, striking the girl as she walked to a friend's home from her residence at 959 Woodhall.

Beer Smugglers Each Fined $200

Three Chemainus men who smuggled more than 140 cases of beer from the United States to Vancouver Island were each fined $200 in provincial court Monday.

Robert Beadle, 26, Ronald Samoleski, 26, and Edward Samoleski, 22, all pleaded guilty to a charge of smuggling under the Canada Customs Act and Crown counsel Brian Smith entered a stay of proceedings on a charge of possession of illegally imported goods.

Court was told that the three were apprehended at a road block at Island View and Pat Bay Highway July 14 following a 10-hour surveillance at Island View Beach by RCMP and Central Saanich police.

Smith said 122 cases of beer, purchased in the San Juan Islands, were confiscated from Beadle's truck. The beer had been shuttled from Roche Harbor to D'Arcy Island on the Canadian side before coming over to Island View Beach in two loads aboard Beadle's 12-foot fibreglass boat.

Smith said another 19½ cases were recovered a few days later. The beer had a total value of $680.50, he said.

Beadle's truck, boat and trailer were confiscated, and Smith said it will cost him $700 in penalties and duty to recover his property.

Defence lawyer William McElmoyle told the court the beer was intended for a salmon barbecue in Crofton and that the operation was not carried out for profit.

LONGER TRAIN READY FRIDAY?

The E&N Dayliner's new 90-passenger Budd car for the Victoria-to-Courtenay run will arrive in Victoria Wednesday and is expected to be ready for the 8:15 a.m. run Friday.

The car was promised by CP Rail last weekend after the popularity of the ride increased and people were left behind.

The run was scheduled for abandonment Dec. 13, but committees to save the service sprang up, fares were lowered and politicians entered the battle.

With the additional 90 seats, the Dayliner will be able to carry 161 passengers.

Sidney Vetoes Building Delay

Sidney council Monday night voted down a proposal to delay development for six months until the community plan could be revised.

The motion by Ald. Peter Grant, seconded by Ald. Ross Martin, was rejected 3-1.

Grant said council should not issue any further subdivision permits or land-use contracts until the community plan has been revised.

He said Sidney is entering an era of massive development.

Opponents said pressure to expand is so great the community could not afford to hold up projects.

A development proposal by Island View Marina Ltd. will be resubmitted to council Monday.

A condominium proposal will also go before council next Monday. It is by Ker Priestman and Associates Ltd. of behalf of Picadilly Apts. for rezoning and a land-use contract to build 100 condominium units on 3.34 acres, about 30 units per acre.

Bogus 20s Circulating

Counterfeit U.S. $20 bills are circulating in Greater Victoria, part of $40,000 worth of fake currency police believe was earmarked since mid-month for passing in B.C.

Sgt. Ken Horsman of Victoria city police fraud section said the bills had shown up at hotels, bars and department stores in this area, but not in as large number as on the Lower Mainland where at least 20 of the worthless 20s have been turned in.

A flood of counterfeits was dumped into B.C. and Alberta, police say, coinciding with the Calgary stampede and Edmonton Klondike days, and in time for the upcoming Pacific National Exhibition and Commonwealth Games.

In Edmonton, $18,000 in counterfeit cash was recovered in a weekend raid that netted a ring of eight men and three women. Burnaby RCMP have charged a Vancouver woman, Veronica Laroque, 31, with possessing and uttering counterfeit money.

The bills are described as new-looking but washed out - a paler green than a genuine $20 bill - and with important differences in the type and engraving.

Horsman recommends storekeepers and others likely to receive the bills keep a genuine specimen on hand for comparison, making sure it is from the same Federal Reserve Bank shown on the face.

The counterfeits are purported to be drawn on the San Francisco Federal Reserve and some lack the FRB face number that should appear in the upper right corner.

Horsman said clerks should look for the differences between genuine and suspected bills, rather than for similarities.

On a genuine bill the printing should be sharp and clear; the paper should be bluish with red and blue fibres; it should be possible to feel the numerals by passing a finger over them; the fine screen of lines surrounding the face portrait should be clean.

The seized bills bear only seven serial numbers and those found here are of the B-F series: B22658323F, B71721175F, B1721175B, B85982758F, L36326444D, L45157026B, and L82309080D.

Those found on the mainland bear a front plate number E94 and back plate number 242. The Victoria bills passed in the last few days show a front plate number D142 and back 286. Three weeks ago a phoney bill showed here with the plate numbers C102 and 230.

CITY PUPILS DOING WELL

The average elementary school pupil in Greater Victoria is doing at least as well as his counterpart of the early 1960s, according to a study done by University of Victoria education professor Dr. Walter Muir.

Muir says that "relatively modest changes in curriculum and instruction could result in substantial gains in learning."

The study of pupils in Grades 3, 5 and 7 was conducted over three years.

TOTAL BAN ON FIRES EXPECTED TONIGHT

A total ban on campfires in southern Vancouver Island was expected to go into effect at midnight tonight as a month-long heat wave continues with only slightly lower temperature forecast by week's end.

A high of 27 degrees was anticipated today, 24 near the waterfront, falling to about 12 overnight, said forecaster Norman Dressler.

B.C. Forest Service reported no new fires in the island district but with the hazard remaining high most regional parks have been closed, including wooded parts of the University of Victoria campus.

Meanwhile, industrial haze from local mills and across Juan de Fuca Strait has been noticeable in the last few days, coinciding with early-morning temperature inversions.

Dressler said inversions are normal with clear skies and light winds, dissipating with surface heating during the day and reforming overnight.

Bans were announced by North Saanich and Sidney while Central Saanich continues to allow incinerator fires, at least for the time being.

On Monday Saanich announced a ban on all fires because of the continuing heatwave.

The Oak Bay fire department said an incinerator ban will come into effect by the weekend. Oak Bay also announced a number of municipal parks have been closed, including Uplands, Anderson Hill and Walbran.

Esquimalt is still allowing incinerator burning but a fire depart,ment officials said that "this may be the last week."

The Dominion Astrophyisical Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain also has been closed to the public because of the hazard. The observatory, however, will be open to the public from 9 p.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday.

Mill Bay Shelter for Quebec Cats

TOWN TALK

Six stray alley cats plucked from the streets of downtown Montreal are ending their days in the cosy confines of the Good Samaritan shelter at Mill Bay.

And they have a 23-year-old receptionist to thank for it.

Elizabeth Ruhry put up $200 to ship the cats air freight because she couldn't bear the thought of having the animals put down at the Montreal pound.

One of the passengers on the plane was so impressed with what Elizabeth was doing she gave $10 towards the animals' care.

Doris said she handed over the money to the shelter, together with another $70 raised by Elizabeth and friends in Montreal.

She said the sisters at the shelter told her they don't normally accept animals from so far away, but relented in this case because "it was a life-or-death thing."

Victoria glass artist Jerry Eversole has been invited to participate in a Toronto master glass workshop in the last two weeks in August.

Sponsored by the Artists in Stained Glass, an Ontario organization, and partly funded by the British Government, the workshop will be attended by 16 of Canada's top glass artists.

Lawrence Lee, head of the Stained Glass Department of the Royal College of Art, London, will be the instructor.

The workshop will concentrate on design approaches to large commissions and kiln fired glass and techniques.

The unifying theme will be a theoretical design for the forty eight windows to be constructed for the senate Clerestory in Ottawa.

A common complaint of many citizen groups, teachers and researchers involved in environmental matters is that they don't know how and where they can find detailed sources of information on the environment.

The federal department of environment in Ottawa has finally come to their rescue. It has just published a book — a guide telling them how to get information and current literature on the subject.

It also provides a brief listing of national, provincial, territorial and regional citizen groups active in Canada, plus summaries of the work of key federal, provincial and international agencies on the environment.

A heavy demand for books is expected. Copies can be obtained by writing to Inquiry Centre, Information Services Directorate Fisheries and Environment Canada, Ottawa, Ont. K1A OH3.

HICCUPS GO ON FOR 56 YEARS

ANTHON, Iowa (AP) — Charles Osborne has had hiccups for 56 of his 84 years, but he hasn't given up hope of finding a cure.

"I'd give everything I got in the world if I could get rid of them," says Osborne.

His dilemma brought him notoriety following a 1936 appearance on Robert Ripley's Believe It or Not radio show. He has since been logged in the Guinness Book of World Records.

"I was butchering hogs and hauling a 350-pound hog. While I was hanging the hog up I started to hiccup," he said.

He was taken to Omaha, Neb., for treatment by his employer. They stopped only to start again once he got home.

"I made four trips to Omaha. But every time I got back home they would start again. I've had them ever since," Osborne said.

He said the longest he has gone without hiccups was for 50 hours several weeks ago. But except for brief reprieves, the hiccups are with him day and night at the rate of 40 times a minute, interrupting his sleep and ruining his taste for solid food.

Successful Woman's Profile Given

elizabeth forbes

A recent issue of Interaction, published by the office of Equal Opportunities for Women (EOW), through the Public Service Commission of Canada, deals with the prevalence of certain attitudes that affect equal employment and promotion opportunities for women.

Johanna Hickey, director of EOW, says in an editorial that she believes "by looking closely at the attitudes we are taking yet another step in the long process of achieving equality."

On the front page, in bold letters you find the question, "What does it take for a woman to make it in management?"

Women have made substantial progress during the past several years in moving into management positions, but they still have a long way to go, Interaction says.

So, with this in mind, staff members did a series of interviews with women who have made it and men who work with them, and came up with what is described as "an overview of what their attitudes are about each other."

They were also able, from information gathered, to present a "profile of the successful woman."

It makes thought-provoking reading. So much so I'm going to pass it on to you here.

The successful business woman is well groomed, soft-spoken, slim, youthful, and probably has a degree, if she is under 35.

With or without a degree, at any age, she began at a low entry level.

She is just as apt to be married as not married. If not married, she is just as apt to be divorced as single.

Those who were married professed during the interviews to be happily so and felt strongly that it is quite possible to do both jobs efficiently.

Of the unmarrieds, there were just as many who consider singleness an asset, as claimed marriage would be welcome and would not interfere with career plans.

Interaction discovered the divorced working woman usually has children, and her motive for seeking more responsible work is probably financial rather than a need for independence (though it candidly concedes it is difficult to say which is the stronger motive).

Finally, no matter what her marital status, the woman over 35 is likely to have specific, established goals.

If she's over 35, she "never dreamed" she would become a career woman and manager. She knows from experience that progress has been slow, with advances accelerating only during the past five years.

Interaction then presents two pages of attitudes — of men toward women, women toward women and women toward men — written by a University of Southern California assistant woman professor and adapted and abridged "to suit Canadian readers' interests and our publication's format."

Here you get the views and opinions of both men and women. Briefly, some of them are as follows:

Competence and Education — A female department head says, "In spite of the law, we can't assume right now that we're equal to men. We still must approach with tact and discretion. Men need to be assured we are intelligent; we aren't after their jobs; there's room for all of us."

Both men and women agree that when it comes to assessing potentiality, at this stage of history, requirements appear to be tougher for the women.

"She has to work twice as hard as a man to prove herself," is a typical male opinion.

Realism — "Recent developments have made it easier for us, but it's a hard, cold fact . . . you've got to be better than a man or you may not get it (the job)," said a female engineer in middle management.

"We have to be sharper than the average man in order to progress."

Men in a position to effect the promotion of women concede that the above is true. What's more, a male executive responsible for finding women candidates for management said, "I hate to say it, but it's true that some women in managment are working twice as hard as the men, and getting half as much."

Aggressiveness — Just as crucial to a woman's success is her aggressiveness and in particular, her ability to disguise it as self-initiative.

"It takes an aggressive woman to get ahead," said a male executive. "A passive woman doesn't have a chance."

Self-Confidence — Never let it show if your self-confidence weakens at times, say the winners. Don't let yourself be put on the defensive; that leads to defeat.

Their determination has to be stronger than men's . . . they have to work on self-confidence.

"Convince yourself first and see yourself as the person you want to be. Once you have your own self-image established, you can sell it to someone else."

Career-Mindness — An offshoot of making men believe that women believe in themselves is for women to convince men they really want a career. This is not easy, they report.

"Convincing yourself of your capability and making a commitment are not enough; you have to make the men believe you are serious about a career."

Strategy — To put all the advice contained in Interaction, to the most effective use, the smart woman must work out a strategy. A woman needs a set of goals and a plan and, according to most of the women interviewed, women would do well to use men as their model for these techniques.

"We have to learn from men at the same time as competing with them," admitted a young ambitious manager.

"Until I reached the supervisory level, I was not competing with men. When I went up to manager I was."

And that, she said, was when she discovered how much could — and had — to be learned from men.

Uniqueness — How women feel about their uniqueness is summarized by one woman in top management:

"The answer is going to come from individual women who are able to open doors because they are qualified. Women who do a job on a professional basis. Women who are low-key, who sell themselves and their abilities first and then their product.

"It is important that women develop the same bond that men feel for one another. They must also look and act professional and not try to emulate men."

"Women have a special something to offer in addition to a fine mind and ability — intuitiveness, sensitivity, understanding, fairness, enthusiasm and a fresh new approach."

Youth Clinic

Young readers' questions on human relations and sex are answered by a panel of experts: Marion Powell, medical doctor; Blair Shaw, psychologist; Graham Cotter, clergyman; and Bruce Vichert, social worker. Send questions to Youth Clinic, The Victoria Times, 2621 Douglas St., Victoria, B.C., V8W 2N4.

I am 14 years old and my boyfriend is 20. He is married and has a baby but he is separated from his wife.

He would like me to move in with him and I have stayed at his apartment nights lots of times. My mother would be mad but she wouldn't do anything. We love each other very much and want to be together but he is afraid his wife would try to send him to jail because of my age. Could you tell me if she could do anything?

ANSWER: Stay away from this married man. Decide on one person with whom you can have an honest talk (a clergyman, wise relative or family friend, counsellor, etc.). Try to get your life sorted out before you add any more problems and unhappiness ready to explode.

The question of "what could she do?" can be answered: Plenty — both involving you and this married man. But the real point is that you are trying to get on with the business of learning to be a woman and find out how to make "adult life" work. This is where you need the help of a person who will talk with you — especially listen to you — who will let you explain what you want, what you fear and where the next few years may take you — from your point of view.

You may want to see a professional counsellor. If so, phone any community mental health centre, family services centre or go to your family physician (or any other doctor in general or family practice) and explain that you want a referral to get help with a lot of worries and problems.

Dear Mr. Vichert:

I am 17 years old and have liked Steve (not his real name) for two years steady. In the beginning we worked together and became good friends. Steve knew I liked him and he told me that the feeling was mutual. He asked me out about four times but in the end he had to cancel for personal reasons which I believe.

The problem is that at school Steve ignores me. We never talk and I am especially shy to do so at school. On the phone he is friendly enough. He is more popular than I am, yet I still can't believe that he would hurt my feelings by ignoring me in this way.

We graduate in June and maybe our relationship will change when Steve is out of his crowd of friends. Do you think so? Or do you think that I should just forget about him for a while? When I think of losing him altogether, the hurt is hard to bear.

ANSWER: I know that you may have already thought of talking with Steve about his behavior, which may be the best solution for understanding why he treats you the way that he does.

It may be that Steve feels self-conscious at school. If you feel shy at times you would understand this aspect of Steve's nature. He may feel that if he makes it obvious at school that he likes you, his friends may tease him.

I do think that it is legitimate for you to talk with him about his problem, though. You have a right to know what he feels about you. You need to make some decisions for yourself and it will be hard to make these decisions until you know better what Steve is thinking and feeling.

I would suggest that the next time you talk on the phone, or in person, let him know that you are wlling to date him, but that you have other opportunities and need to make some decisions, so you would like to understand better what the relationship between the two of you is. Before you decide to forget him give him a chance to let you know whether that will be necessary.

Dear Dr. Cotter: I'm a 17-year-old girl with problems I just can't handle. I was going out with a guy for over six months and we were really in love. We had planned to get married next year when I turned 18. Everything was just the way any girl ever dreamed of.

Two days ago we were having a little problem and yesterday when he called me he told me he's breaking off. I know there's something wrong and he's being influenced by one of his friends. I want to find out what it is, but I need help and don't know how to go about it.

If I don't get him back I'll kill myself. I've already got 32 stitches in my arm from cutting myself with a razor blade.

ANSWER: As to killing yourself, I can only remind you of the words of Hamlet: "In that sleep of death what dreams may come must give us pause."

As to threatening to kill yourself as a way of getting your boy back, it's not very good. If he gives in, then either he hasn't the courage of his convictions, or in any case, he will throw it back in your face when your marriage breaks up that you forced him into it, and you will go through the pain all over again.

You do not talk about parents or brothers and sisters, or your friends, or what you do, whether you go to school or to work. Do none of these things mean anything to you? Most people find a large part of the satisfaction of living comes from an assortment of things, and the love they bring to their marriage partners is the richer because it is from a varied experience of life.

You talk about this guy as though you worshipped him and at the same time you wish to possess him exclusively. If you love him, rather than just yourself, you will wish him free to choose.

If none of this helps you, try the Distress Centre 598-1121 in Toronto; elsewhere, look up Distress or Suicide in the phone book.

Dear Dr. Powell: I hope you can help me. I am a boy nearly 17 years old and I cannot talk to my parents about this. About one year ago I began to masturbate. I now do this every day, sometimes more than once. I do not feel any bad effects but one of my friends tells me that it is dangerous if done so often. Is this true? I have also had intercourse on two occasions but I did not enjoy it so much. Is this abnormal? I do not feel that I am a homosexual but I am worried that I might be later.

ANSWER: Masturbation is an activity that almost all males do at some time in their lives. The usual time for it to begin is in the early and mid-teenage years. There have been many myths about the effects of masturbation, which were all thought to be very serious and long-lasting until recently.

We understand more about sexual behavior and now know that masturbation is not harmful and does not have serious side-effects. The one myth that still remains is that masturbation does not have harmful effects if it is not done too much.

The term "too much" is difficult to define. We know that there is not any evidence that an individual can harm himself or stop his physical development through masturbation. But there are many who still believe that it can interfere with the development of relationships and that sexuality ideally is a relationship with another person.

So if you are comfortable with it and find that masturbating daily is satisfying a need you have, forget or ignore the advice from your friends.

COLLECTOR'S CORNER BY TOM BATESON

DEAR ABBY: I don't know which way to turn. My husband started having a cocktail before dinner every night. Then it was two. Then doubles. Now, he sometimes gets so drunk, he falls asleep at the table. (Thank God our children are grown and gone.)

Now he has taken to drinking on weekends, and if I say anything to him about it, he becomes hostile and even abusive. He never used to be this way, Abby. When he sobers up and I tell him what he has said and done, he can't believe it. Then he begs me to forgive him and promises it won't ever happen again. But it does.

I've suggested Alcoholics Anonymous, but he insists he isn't an alcoholic. It's a mystery to me how he can function so well in his business.

When he's not drinking I couldn't want a more wonderful, loving, caring, considerate husband, but his personality changes completely when he drinks.

How can I help him, Abby? He's getting worse. — DESPERATE WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I recently came upon a wonderful little booklet titled Alcohol. A Family Affair, by John E. Keller. It's written in plain, everyday language and is by far the best thing I've ever read about how to deal with a drinking problem (yours, or that of someone you care for).

Write to:
OPERATION CORK,
P.O. Box 9550,
SAN DIEGO, CALIF. 92109

Ask for the booklet, and please enclose $1 to help defray the cost of publishing and mailing. If you can't afford $1, they will send you the booklet anyway. (They are a nonprofit organization.)

Good luck and God bless. And please let me hear from you again. I care.

DEAR ABBY: We have received an invitation to an anniversary celebration for 25 years of marriage — to three different wives! The first is deceased, the second divorced and the third is the present wife. The invitation reads: "Don't try to understand me — just love me."

What is your opinion of this type of celebration? — PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: If your friend wants to celebrate the total number of years he has been married, that's his privilege. But it can't be properly considered a "25th wedding anniversary" unless all the 25 years of marriage were spent with the same spouse.

If you love him, don't try to understand him; he's just doing his own thing.

BIRDS GIVEN LOTS OF LOVE

MISSISSAUGA, Ont. (CP) — Bernice Inman stops to give some loving to the sparrows in her oven, the most vulnerable of more than 50 baby birds she cares for at Roy Ivor's bird sanctuary in this city just west of Toronto.

"I do it for the little ones who haven't got their feathers yet," she said as she opened the oven door to reveal tiny nude sparrows wrapped in little woollen blankets and nested in the soft grass which lines a china bowl.

"Their body temperature isn't regulated yet. So they have to be heated."

The sparrows, recently found in a nest taken down by children, are fed through an eyedropper and warmed by the oven light. If it gets cold, she turns the stove on, counts to 20 and shuts it off.

It's the season for birds, said Mrs. Inman. Every evening about six persons come to the sanctuary with baby or injured birds.

Some Advice Given On Varicose Veins

By L. L. COLEMAN, M.D.

I have large varicose veins. They came on suddenly after I gave birth to my third child. I'm 43 years old and would like to do something about them, preferably without surgery. Are there any new methods to do this? — Mrs. S.S.

Dear Mrs.S.:

Your varicose veins did not come on suddenly. They probably were present, but became worse after the birth of your third child. This is not uncommon. True, they can be unsightly, but more important they can be responsible for chronic fatigue and a general lack of energy.

Treatment for varicose veins depends on whether or not they are superficial or deep. There now are very exact methods by which the circulation in the veins can be studied.

If the varicose veins are small, special solutions can be injected into the veins to relieve the problem. This procedure is simple, safe and painless; it can be done in the doctor's office.

When the veins are large and tortuous, and when discomforting symptoms are present, surgery is the only way to solve the problem. Techniques known as "ligation" and "stripping" are hospital procedures done under local or general anesthesia. The results are very gratifying in most instances.

Unfortunately, many people, in an effort to avoid an operation, will be tempted to do almost anything. The result is that valuable time is wasted, and simple varicose veins are converted into complex problems because of the delay.

I recently learned that children can be heroin addicts when they're born. Does this mean that drug addiction is hereditary? I'm petrified because my husband was an addict when he was 20 years old; he has been clean since than. He is now 44. I am 32. We were recently married. — Mrs. C.B.B.

Dear Mrs. B.:

Addiction to heroin is not hereditary. It is in no way related to the genes or the chromosomes of the mother or father. This misconception arises because of the report that some children, shortly after birth, were found dead in their cribs without any logical explanation for this calamity.

It was learned that these children were born heroin addicts because the mothers had been taking heroin during pregnancy. The heroin intoxication was passed on to the unborn children. Some women who are taking heroin are afraid to reveal this to their doctors for fear of legal prosecution. When pregnant women who are addicted tell this to their doctors, it is now possible to withdraw the newborn baby from heroin and save its life.

Since you are not involved with heroin and your husband is now free of this terrible addiction, there should be no concern that any possible pregnancy will be affected.

OUR DREAMS IMPORTANT

EDMONTON (CP) — People have many dreams during the 20 to 30 years of their lives they spend sleeping, but Dr. Donald Kuiken says it is an activity that is not fully understood.

"I don't think anyone is going to be able to tell you exactly what dreams are," said Kuiken, a University of Alberta psychologist interested in dreams and what he calls "esthetic response."

"There is no crystal-clear definition."

But, he said, there is good evidence that dreams are "more than an artifact of sleep," that they play a "fairly important" psychological role.

Kuiken said dreams "involve the way we respond to stressful situations."

In effect, the actions of the day added to the dreams of night are the sum of the whole person.

"The events you're likely to find in your dream are episodes, people, friends from the previous day."

"They're recognizable. But they're put together in a new fashion. I mean, how often do you find yourself playing tennis with your mother at three in the morning?"

Kuiken said dreams occur in a "paradoxical state of sleep." There is a high degree of muscular-skeletal relaxation accompanied by a lot of activity in the brain and nervous system.

Bio-dex

July 26/78 By Ken J. Michaels

HOW TO USE YOUR CHART:

BIO-DEX READOUT:

0-5 Negative Cycle- Put yourself in your adversary's shoes. There are two sides to every story.

6-10 Neutral Cycle- Your tendency to diplomacy drives an opinionated person into a frenzy. Stick to your noncommital guns.

11-15 Positive Cycle- Others who see the glow on your face will take heart and feel better themselves.

The "no-decision" blues can get you at the best and worst of times. Especially on a low Bio-dex, you may find it impossible to get your good ideas working. Stop using delaying tactics; stop talking and start doing. On your low Bio-dex, its just that much harder to get your head in gear, so push yourself doubly hard and get the job done anyway.

THE STORY OF The Go-Get-'Em Gardener

Once upon a time, there was a man who was tired of working in an office. He would gaze out of the window and wish he could be outside in the fresh air.

One day, a not-very-rich but not-very-poor uncle left him some money. The man decided to use it to go into business for himself. Since I like being outside, he thought, I will go after the business of caring for people's gardens. I will weed them, and cut grass: I will plant things and prune things, and make gardens beautiful. He ran a series of ads in the daily papers to tell people what he could do, and what he would charge.

People were glad to pay him to look after their gardens, for he did a very good job. He worked hard and he was happy. Soon, the man found he needed more tools so that he could work fast enough to keep up with all the jobs he was being offered. Soon, too, he found he needed a boy to keep them sharp, and to look after the books.

So he hired a bright young chap (who had a college education but couldn't get a job in his field). The Gardener, enthusiastic about his expanding business, eager to paint signs on his truck, and to advertise so he would get even more work, talked to the clever young man about his business.

The clever young man told him that times were tough, that the international financial picture was grim, that the domestic situation was even worse. "We have been in a period of recession for some time, and business will soon be even slower" he said assuredly.

So, knowing the young man had a good education, and assuming that he therefore knew a great deal about the economic state of the nation, the gardener decided not to paint the sign on his truck, and postponed scheduling the ads the daily newspaper had designed for him, at least 'until times got better'.

The young man was correct, of course. Within a very short time no-one was calling for garden work to be done any more. No lawns to cut. No earth to dig. No trees to prune. "You were quite right" the gardener said to the young man. "We certainly are experiencing a big cut-back in business". And he put his tools away.

DRIVER QUERIED IN BERSTER CASE

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCMP have questioned an American sought in the arrest of suspected West German terrorist Kristina Berster in the U.S. last week but decided he seemed to be innocent of any wrongdoing, a Mountie spokesman said today.

The spokesman said the American, living in Montreal, was involved in driving Miss Berster to the U.S. border from Montreal. Miss Berster has pleaded not guilty to illegally entering the U.S.

The spokesman said the RCMP checked the American's story carefully and "we have every reason to believe his story."

But the force would investigate further.

The American was one of three people stopped with Miss Berster when she attempted to cross the border at Alburg, Vt. July 16. The West German was later charged with using a fraudulent passport in crossing from Canada and is now in an Albany, N.Y. jail.

Miss Berster's three companions were released when they produced valid documents but the FBI and the RCMP sought them again late last week for further questioning. The FBI questioned two over the weekend and later released them.

Miss Berster's lawyer in New York has denied she is a member of the West German Baader-Meinhof terrorists.

In another development, an external affairs spokesman denied reports U.S. authorities have complained to Ottawa about the ease with which Miss Berster entered Canada.

Report Claims Dalila Balking

MONTREAL (CP) — External Affairs Minister Don Jamieson says Algeria is not opposed to allowing Dalila Maschino out of the country to testify before Canadian legal authorities about whether she was kidnapped from Canada.

But in a letter to Claude Morin, Quebec's intergovernmental affairs minister, Jamieson said Algeria maintains that it cannot force the woman to leave the country to testify if she does not want to, as is apparently the case.

In the letter, which was obtained by La Presse, Jamieson relayed to Morin the results of a visit to Algêria by special Canadian envoy Georges Blouin, assistant undersecretary of state, to discuss the case.

Dalila, 26, an Algerian citizen, was allegedly drugged and whisked home on a private jet on the night of April 24-25. Denis Maschino, 26, a Frenchman living and studying here, says she is being held incommunicado by her older brother, Messaoud Zeghar, a wealthy businessman with links to Algerian President Houari Boumedienne.

Crown Lacks Proof: Campbell's Lawyer

MONTREAL (CP) — There is a "total lack of proof" former National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell was involved in any criminal conspiracy in the Sky Shops affair, his lawyer said Monday in Quebec Superior Court.

Harvey Yarosky made this argument in an attempt to quash a Feb. 13 sessions court ruling committing Campbell to trial after a preliminary hearing.

Yarosky and Crown prosecutor Pierre Robert said this would force a delay in the joint trial, originally scheduled for September, of Campbell and Bahamas businessman Gordon Brown.

They are charged with having conspiring with Liberal Senator Louis Giguere and the late Montreal businessman Louis Lapointe to give Giguere a $95,000 benefit from the sale of 5,000 shares in Sky Shops Export Ltd.

The charges allege that the benefit was given in return for Giguere's influence in obtaining a lease extension for the Sky Shops duty-free store at Montreal's Dorval International Airport from the federal transport departmemt.

On June 29, Giguere was acquitted by a Superior Court jury on charges of conspiracy, influence-peddling and actually accepting the gift. Quebec justice authorities have appealed that decision.

The lawyers said the delay in Campbell's trial would also force a delay in proceedings against Brown.

Monday's debate centred on what could be considered as legal proof of criminal conspiracy.

Prosecutor Robert fought the defence motion, arguing the judge's only task at a preliminary hearing is to screen evidence to determine whether it is fit for consideration by a jury. His role was not to decide whether there was conclusive proof of guilt.

"Issues of credibility and reasonable doubt are to be considered at the trial and not at the preliminary hearing," he said.

Judge Trudel was right, Robert added, in according the "benefit of the doubt" to the Crown by considering circumstantial evidence on Campbell's position as a major Sky Shops shareholder, his meetings with alleged co-conspirators and his approval of a plan to sell the 5,000 shares to Giguere.

Superior Court can only revise a committal to trial if it finds there was no proof whatsover.

Yarosky countered, however, that none of the Crown evidence was legal proof. It could only lead to "guesses, conjecture and suspicion" rather than inferences based on "postively proved facts" about Campbell's guilt.

The fact that Campbell had been engaged in transactions involving the transfer of shares to Giguere and the subsequent sale of Sky Shops at a profit did not mean that he had any "criminal goals," Yarosky added.

PICKETS TO HAMPER ROYAL DEDICATION?

SASKATOON (CP) — Queen Elizabeth will not dedicate the new wing of University Hospital here July 31 if striking construction workers are picketing the site, hospital executive director Tony Dagnone said Monday.

Dagnone said he is trying to get assurances that picketing will cease, if only for the day of the Queen's visit.

The construction industry strike in Saskatchewan now is more than two months old.

Al Neuman, business agent for the Construction and General Workers Union, said he will consider Dagnone's request.

Two Kinds of Artichokes

Home gardeners unfamiliar with the so-called Jerusalem artichoke, having planted a few tubers donated by a friend last spring, are bewildered by the five-foot plants now gracing their vegetable plot.

Those who have contacted me were envisioning the Glove Artichoke they had, at some previous date, seen or purchased in the vegetable markets.

The confusion exists because we are trying to relate two plants of different genera, the true Artichoke and a tuberous rooted Sunflower, Helianthus tuberosus.

The descriptive name 'Jerusalem' is a mispronunciation of the Italian common name, Girosole, and someone in the past likened the flavor to the true artichoke. But a two-part article in a back issue of the R.H.S. Journal, covering 22 pages, questions whether the original stock reached England from Italy.

Being a Sunflower its present height of five to six feet is normal and will probably increase to eight feet by the end of summer.

Some gardeners are asking if the plants need staking. I have never found it necessary. Like all sunflowers, their flexible stems are capable of swaying in a wind without damage.

However, some support may be needed in gardens swept by ocean winds. Since only a few tubers are planted, usually six to ten, a stout stake six feet high at each end of the row, and strings along each side of the plants at two-foot intervals should be sufficient.

Providing the tubers were planted in good compost mixed deeply with the garden soil, their only requirement now is sufficient water too maintain the rapid growth.

The compost holds a reserve of moisture at root level; a good soaking with a gently trickling hose at soil level once ever 10 days should suffice. If compost was not added to the soil, more frequent soaking will be needed.

Because we are growing a crop of tubers underground several gardeners have asked when the soil should be banked around the stems. This should not be necessary unless daily dampening of the soil has caused the tubers to form near the surface.

In a properly prepared soil the tubers will form at a level where the soil temperature is correct. Both banking soil and daily watering would seriously affect the soil temperature where the tubers have already formed.

Another question being asked is how soon should the tubers be lifted.

Usually the stems drop their leaves sometimes in October, the time depending on the weather and frosts. The first tubers, enough for one week's supply can then be lifted and stored in the refrigerator vegetable bin.

When the old stems are fairly dried-out they are cut off at ground level and criss-crossed over the planting to reduce frost penetration in a cold spell over winter.

In this climate the tubers store best in the moist soil and the texture and flavor improves as the year comes to an end. A week's supply is lifted when needed.

At New Year's the balance of the crop is lifted, planting stock set aside for early starting in late February, and the rest used as soon as possible before sprouting starts.

Lucky Linda. . .

The Ottawa resident walked away with only a cut knee after her car was demolished early today by a tanker truck (above) carrying 8,000 gallons of gasoline.

They said she was pried free with a crowbar and that she later insisted on going to work.

"There's no way we could convince her to go to hospital," a police spokesman said.

Perkins To Chair Hospital Project

Health Minister Bob McClelland has appointed Sooke director Charles Perkins chairman of the project building committee for the new Helmcken Road hospital.

Also appointed to the committee are John Bell of Vancouver, who played a major role in the Lions Gate Hospital project; lawyer Alan Patterson, chairman of the Victoria General Hospital's board of directors, and Terry Prentice, member of the Royal Jubilee Hospital's board of directors.

Perkins said today the political appointments mean "we have the minister's ear, so to speak."

The appointments were made two weeks ago to augment the former committee of regional officials and professionals.

Bell, Perkins said, has also been appointed by the minister to work on the St. Paul's Hospital project on the Mainland.

Perkins said a large sign will soon be erected on the site at Helmcken for the new Victoria General Hospital.

He said the highways department is being consulted regarding details of necessary alterations on Helmcken Road and an access road.

He said the access road leading onto the hospital site and sewage work will definitely be completed this year.

Perkins said some $800,000 will be spent on the project this year and construction of the hospital should begin next spring.

American Gunner Wins Open Crown

Wells accumulated 566 of a possible 600 points followed by Keith Elder of Wawanee, Man., with 562 and Leo Flor of Willowdale, Ont., with 560.

Standard Life Accepts ManuLife Takeover Bid

MONTREAL (CP) — The Manufacturers Life Insurance Co. of Toronto announced here today it has reached agreement to acquire the Canadian business of Standard Life Assurance Co., a British firm based in Edinburgh.

The agreement calls for the transfer by Standard to ManuLife of sufficient assets to cover Standard's liabilities in Canada and to enable ManuLife to guarantee that for the next five years the bonus or dividend scales for Standard's participating policies will not be less than Standard's 1978 scales.

The assets involved in the transaction are approximately $1.5 billion, ManuLife said in a statement.

Both ManuLife and Standard Life are mutual insurance companies.

David W. A. Donald, general manager and chief auditor of Standard, said the company decided to dispose of its Canadian operations because of increasing difficulties in conducting business in foreign countries.

Standard, whose Canadian branch is located in Montreal, has been established in Canada since 1833, longer than any other life insurance company, Donald said.

He said the original approach was made by ManuLife and discussions began on Feb. 1. But, he added, a decision to sell the Canadian operation was taken long before the offer from ManuLife.

Donald said the Canadian political situation obviously played a role in the decision but the company had decided "not to leave Montreal unless we were driven out with pitchforks."

He mentioned, though, that there was growing difficulty in recruiting specialized staff and there were concerns with provincial language laws.

Standard now has 500 employees in Montreal.

ManuLife president E. Sydney Jackson said that once the merger has been ratified by the federal government six to nine months from now ManuLife expects to maintain the same number of Quebec employees, barring unforeseen circumstances. He said ManuLife wanted to build a broader Canadian base and was interested in taking over Standard's group pension business.

Reporter Facing Prison On Notes

HACKENSACK, N.J. (UPI) — New York Times reporter Myron Farber was found guilty of contempt of court today for refusing to turn over his notes on Dr. Mario Jascalevich, accused of murdering five patients with overdoses of curare.

Farber faces up to a $1,000 fine and six months in jail.

"If I give up my file I will have undermined my professional integrity and diminished the credibility of my colleagues," said Farber.

"And, most important, I will have given notice that the nation's premiere newspaper is no longer available to those men and women who would seek it out — who would respond to it — to talk freely and without fear."

McClelland Turning Sod

Health Minister Bob McClelland will officiate at a sod-turning ceremony for the new 75-bed extension to the Priory extended care hospital 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 2.

The ceremony is open to the public.

There were five bids on the project, the lowest being Farmer Construction Ltd.'s $1,691,610.

New Stamp Date

OTTAWA (CP) — A new 14-cent stamp commemorating the centennial of the Canadian National Exhibition will be issued Aug. 16 and not Aug. 17 as originally announced, the post office said

OPERATING OF SCHOOLS UP 10.4%

Enrolment in B.C. schools decreased by 1.5 per cent for the 1977-78 school year while the number of teachers increased by 1.2 per cent.

A report of school board budgets by the B.C. School Trustees Association also shows a 10.9 per cent increase for total school district estimates.

The gross operating cost per pupil is now $1,825, up 10.4 per cent, the lowest increase in years.

Net operating estimates are up 10.4 per cent and non-operating expenses, mainly for colleges, are up 17.2 per cent.

EXHAUST STANDARDS STAY UNTIL 1985

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada will keep present automobile exhaust standards until at least 1985 instead of following a U.S. move to more stringent controls, Transport Minister Otto Lang and Environment Minister Len Marchand said Monday.

They said in a joint release the decision to keep present standards, in effect since 1975, was heavily influenced by concern about fuel economy.

The ministers said U.S. plans depend on the successful introduction of new pollution control equipment.

"We will await data on the performance of this new system which is being progressively introduced in the U.S. before making any decisions which could result in its widespread use in Canada," said Lang.

Machine-Gun Fire All Night in Beirut

BEIRUT (UPI) — Syrian peace-keeping troops and right-wing Christian forces today exchanged heavy machine-gun fire on the edge of Beirut, delaying plans to send army units to south Lebanon for the first time since the 1975-76 civil war.

A journalist who returned to the city centre after spending the night in suburban Hadath said heavy machine-gun exchanges lasted from midnight to 6 a.m. before dying down to sniper fire.

"The rightists are provoking it," he said. "It's their style of fighting. They can't attack a regular army (the Syrians) but they want to show them that they are ready for any assault. To do that, they shoot every half hour or so — just to show them they're alert."

There were no immediate reports of casualties in the overnight fighting.

President Elias Sarkis and top aides Monday worked on a plan for sending army units to the southern border region near Israel for the first time since the civil war, government sources said and Beirut newspapers said today.

But the sources said the timing of the move would depend on restoring calm in the capital, where the Syrian-dominated Arab peace-keeping force that ended the war is battling the Christian militias for fourth time this year.

Rightist officials were demanding Sarkis station Lebanese police between Syrian and militia positions in the southeast hill suburb of Hadath — the scene of weekend rocket, artillery, mortar and light arms duels.

Beirut newspapers said the southern security plan called for sending small units of the army — about 1,500 men initially — to back a nearly 6,000-man U.N. force.

Rightist officials said that as many as 10 people were killed and some 80 wounded since the fighting broke out in the suburb of Hadath Friday.

The Syrians said three of their soldiers were hit by sniper fire Monday.

The fighting, the worst since Syrian-Christian clashes brought a resignation threat by Sarkis two weeks ago, renewed fears that the president would carry out his threat should the showdown escalate this time.

British Post Office Booming

LONDON (AP) — The British Post Office made a profit of $708 million in the last financial year, Post Office Chairman Sir William Barlow reported Monday.

The profit of nearly $2 million a day was not only a record for the Post Office, but was the largest by a British nationalized industry, including gas, electricity, steel, coal and the railways.

The Post Office, which also runs Britain's telephone and telegraph services, since 1969 has been a public authority and its board of directors is appointed by the secretary of state for industry.

The bulk of the profit in the British Post Office — $627 million — came from telecommunications services. But the postal service also made a profit of $77 million. The remainder of the surplus came from the Post Office's Giro banking service, under which customers can deposit savings and arrange for the payment of bills.

Sir William, anticipating possible criticism of a state-owned industry making a massive profit, said the surplus funds are needed to finance heavy investment in new technology. The Post Office spent $1.7 billion on new equipment last year — more than any other British industry.

Armless Man Crime Poser

NEW YORK (AP) — An armless man whose family says he needs help dressing and eating has been accused of driving the getaway car for two men who allegedly shot a drug dealer to death, police say.

Domingo Osario, 22, who lost his arms in a subway yard accident 11 years ago, is accused of being involved with two others in the July 26, 1976, killing of Alonso Johnson.

She said he has tried to use a hook on the stub of his right arm, but that he was not using one at the time of the killing.

Soviets Smearing Shcharansky Drive

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet press says Avital Shcharansky's campaign on behalf of her imprisoned husband was financed by the Israeli government and managed by "professional anti-Sovieteers."

The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia Monday again repeated official Soviet charges that Mrs. Shcharansky was not properly married to Anatoly Shcharansky.

"It is a story about militant anti-Sovieteers of the type of U.S. Senators (Jacob) Javits (R-N.Y.) and (Daniel) Moynihan (D-N.Y.) as well as (Malcolm) Wallop (R-Wyo.) and (Alan) Cranston (D-Calif.) who have surrounded her with a halo of a martyr and now show her to all sensation-seeking bourgeois cribblers and television reporters," Izvestia said.

"The American press has already published a number of materials showing who stands behind Madam Shtiglitz (Mrs. Shcharansky) and who pulls the strings of this miserable puppet," the Soviet daily said.

"What is surprising is how people in positions of authority and power have failed so far to recognize what she really is. Are they so blinded by the wave of anti-Sovietism which is whipped up by certain circles in the U.S.A.?

JAILHOUSE SET AFIRE

Bodies Located

RENO (AP) — Investigators Monday searched the wreckage of a small Cessna 210 that was discovered Sunday on a mountain northwest of here with six bodies aboard, including four British Columbia residents.

Capt. Glen Vogler of the Washoe County Sheriff's Department said the plane was reported missing in late April on a flight from Bellingham to Phoenix.

Washoe County Coroner Ralph Bailey identified the six persons as: Katherine Tyrer, about 25, from Richmond; her daughters, Barbara, 7, and Judy, 5; Paul Gooding, 33, the pilot, from Phoenix; his brother, William Robert Gooding, 29, of Vancouver; and Robert Gooding, 63, of Phoenix, the men's father.

Bailey said all six were killed on impact.

Canadian Citizenship is required to vote in Federal Elections

The Canada Elections Act of 1970 provides that every man and woman who has attained the age of 18 years and is a Canadian citizen qualifies as an elector and is therefore able to vote in federal by-elections and general elections.

The Act also provided that British subjects who were not Canadian citizens but who qualified as electors at the time of the 1968 general election could continue to vote in federal elections for a period of five years following the coming into effect of the new Canada Elections Act on June 26, 1970.

You do not need to produce proof of Canadian Citizenship either at the time of enumeration or at the polls. However, if challenged at the polls, you may be asked to swear that you are a Canadian citizen before voting.

If you wish to apply for Canadian citizenship or if you have any doubts about your status as a Canadian citizen, please contact:

Strike Breaking Cruise?

NANAIMO (CP) — The Prince George, a steamship formerly owned by Canadian National Railways and now owned by Wong Bros. Enterprises, has been chartered to ITT Rayonier, a pulp and paper firm with operations in Washington State.

"The ship has been moved to Port Angeles on charter in the event that we may need to operate the mill with management personnel in view of the strike which has affected the mill operation," said Rayonier spokesman Jay Fredrickson.

A strike by pulp and paper workers has closed about 20 mills in Washington, Oregon and California.

Fredrickson said the ship may be used as a hostel for management staff.

City Turns Cheek On Bathing Issue

The city of Victoria has decided to turn the other cheek when it comes to nude sunbathing at Prior Lake in Thetis Lake Park.

Parks committee chairman Ald. Robin Blencoe said today that after extensive discussions with city hall staff he's decided not to enforce a bylaw that restricts nude sunbathing.

"Trying to enforce it would create far more problems that the situation out at Prior Lake now does," said Blencoe.

The city's decision to look the other way comes about two weeks after Blencoe warned nude bathers that they'd better get their pants back on. He said Victoria had a bylaw that made their naked pastime illegal.

But Blencoe admitted all along that he didn't want to enforce the bylaw and just wished the nudes and non-nudes could stay out of each other's way.

The Prior situation became an issue after a number of people had complained about seeing nude men walking to their cars parked along Highland Road.

Blencoe said today he thinks that if the sunbathers use a little discretion and have some consideration for those who don't approve of nudism then problems can be avoided.

He said Prior Lake is in a relatively isolated area and it should be easy for people who object to nudity to avoid seeing things they don't want to.

Meanwhile, the whole problem of naked swimmers at Prior Lake was rendered somewhat academic by the closure of Thetis Lake Park due to an extreme fire hazard.

The park was closed last week until further notice because of the hot, dry weather.

STRIKE NEXT WEEK?

Last-Ditch Talks For Air Canada

MONTREAL (UPI) — Air Canada negotiators will meet union representatives today in a last minute effort to avert a threatened rotating strike by the company's machinists next week.

The strike action, which threatens to disrupt the peak tourist season and visitors to the Commonwealth Games, was approved Monday by 83 percent of the 7,200 member of the International Association of Machinists after a nationwide ballot.

Barry Shaw said wages are the key to a settlement in contract talks which have been underway since March.

The IAM have demanded an 18 per cent pay increase over an 18 month period and voted by 91 per cent in favor of rejecting the airline's last contract offer of an annual 6 per cent pay increase for two years.

"Statements have been made recently that Air Canada had a $40 million operating profit last year and its best first quarter ever this year, and the statement was made that it was entirely due to the efforts of employees," Shaw said. "But there doesn't seem to be anything coming back to them."

Though the strike action would not be legal until seven days after the receipt of a conciliation board report which is not expected until next week, Shaw said a work stoppage could start before then.

But David Pember, a spokesman for Air Canada, said the company was hopeful a settlement could be reached.

"We're hopeful this round of talks will lead to a settlement in an amicable environment, but we'll just have to wait and see," Pember said.

The strike would coincide with contract talks for 1,500 pilots, 2,700 flight attendants, and 500 employees in the Winnipeg finance center.

The last work stoppages by Air Canada's machinists were rotation strikes in 1971 and 1973.

"When we've gone through this process in the past, Air Canada was able to operate at 80 per cent efficiency but the protest had the effect it was supposed to."

Shaw said another national vote would held should union officials decide a general strike is necessary.

BUBBLY MARKS DATE OF DEATH

BURNABY (CP) — Last month contractor Robert Steeves read his own obituary in a Vancouver newspaper, giving his date of death as July 24, 1978.

Steeves, 53, still doesn't know if the notice was a joke or a warning.

"I had planned to spend the day in bed, but I had too much work to do and decided to ignore what happened and carry on as usual," Steeves said Monday night while drinking champagne to mark the occasion.

Steeves, who is involved in more than $8 million worth of construction business in the Vancouver area, didn't even vary his routine.

"Of course, the death notice was in the back of my mind, but I tried not to let it worry me.

"I'm a hard-line contractor, and I don't make many friends in this business, but I don't think anyone really intended to kill me. It was probably just a scare from someone who was upset with me."

Steeves said dozens of friends and relatives called his home and business with messages of sympathy, and several people went to the funeral home to see his remains.

"Even now, a month later, a few people are shocked when they see me. They thought I was dead. It's certainly an odd feeling."

NEWS BRIEFS

Body Found

Victoria city police today pulled a body out of the Selkirk Waters near the B.C. Forest Products complex.

A police spokesman said that the body was found at around 11 this morning off the end of David St. and had been sent to the Victoria General Hospital for examination.

At press time neither the identity of the person nor cause of death had been determined.

Message Rejected

CAIRO - Egypt has rejected out of hand a message from Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin on grounds it contained nothing new and was only a rehash of Israel's position, a semi-official Egptian newspaper says. See story on Page 2.

Another Reprieve

Life for Switch

BANGKOK (Reuter) — Thai Prime Minister Kriangsak Chamanand has sentenced a factory owner to life imprisonment without trial for mixing sand and gravel with tapioca for export.

Willing Hands

VANCOUVER (CP) — With the help of a 42-year-old auxiliary engine and the effort of many young hands—some with nail polish—the three-masted barque Eagle Monday, made the 86 nautical miles from Victoria over a glassy sea. She required auxiliary power because of a lack of wind.

General Sacked

SANTIAGO (UPI) — Chile's military government today fired Gen. Gustavo Leigh, the air force commander in chief, as a member of the ruling junta because of a series of critical Leigh statements.

ICBC Facing Competition From Five Private Firms

VANCOUVER (CP) — At least five major private automobile insurance companies say they will sell collision and comprehensive coverage this fall in competition with the Insurance Corporation of British Columbia (ICBC).

The Crown corporation said it is preparing for the competition, made possible when the provincial government said in 1976 that it would allow private firms to underwrite coverage beyond the compulsory $75,000 public liability insurance.

The firms, Royal Insurance Canada, Zurich Insurance Co., Commercial Union Assurance Co. Ltd., Allstate Insurance Co. of Canada and Fireman's Fund Insurance Co. of Canada say they will sell the coverage non-selectively.

This agreement was designed to forestall charges that the private carriers would cover only drivers with good records and leave ICBC with poorer drivers to cover.

Insurance experts say the stipulation also removes much of the rate advantage private insurers would enjoy were they allowed to be selective.

An insurance monopoly was given to ICBC in 1973 when the NDP government set up the public carrier.

Only Royal has since sold insurance in competition with ICBC. The other four decided to do so this spring.

ICBC spokesman Bob Egby said the corporation plans no rate changes. "We think we're in a competitive position already," he said.

Ken Underhill, Zurich's branch manager in Vancouver, said his firm expects to offer physical damage coverage within 30 to 60 days.

"We plan to keep things as simple as we can to keep our costs down," he said. "Who knows how much private enterprise the public will support?"

Zurich, which did about $8 million worth of auto insurance when ICBC pre-empted it, plans at most a modest advertising campaign, preferring to work through independent insurance agents, Underhill said.

John Chutter, branch manager for Commercial Union, said he expects the company will begin offering coverage by Nov. 1. The company did about $5 million worth of business before ICBC took over.

Chutter said Commercial would offer coverage on private autos, and may expand into commercial vehicles, but will not write liability above the first $75,000 written by ICBC. "Liability is difficult to price," he said, "and we prefer to go one step at a time."

Jack Lewis, a spokesman for insurance agents, said the competition "will open up the market."

GETTING READY for a big beer blitz is Associated Commercial Travellers of Victoria representative Stew Irving, who hoisted a brew or two today to toast the opening of his club's beer garden. With 3,000 cases of canned Olympia on hand, and hot weather ahead, the Travellers seem assured of success — if not a stampede. The beer garden on Wharf St. near the AirWest terminal opened at noon and runs until Sunday or the last beer, whichever comes first. Brew is $1.15 a can and all profits go to charity. Moscow Travel Plans Of U.S. Officials Iced

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. state department today slapped a general ban on future visits to the Soviet Union by high-ranking U.S. officials until relations improve between Washington and the Kremlin.

Department spokesman Hodding Carter III said a scheduled trip to the Soviet Union by Lawrence Simons, assistant secretary of housing, had been officially cancelled under terms of the new policy.

The spokesman said all such activities are now under review "and pending the completion of the review, on a case-by-case basis we are deferring all high-level visits." The case-by-case review would presumably leave open the possibility of future trips by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

"We'd hope that as a better atmosphere developed . . . we could allow such exchanges to become more active," Carter said.

The decision to cancel high-level trips does not affect strategic arms negotiations or other disarmament discussions involving the two nations but going on outside the Soviet Union.

Simons' trip was the third high-level American visit cancelled in recent weeks.

The policy decision was reported by State Department officials to have been taken last week, as part of a larger policy review at the White House on possible reprisals for Soviet actions against dissidents and American journalists.

Mediation Slated

Mediator Ken Albertini will meet Wednesday with union and company negotiators in an effort to avert a strike by about 3,000 B.C. supermarket employees.

The members of the Retail Clerks Union (RCU) have voted 60 per cent in favor of walking off the job.

The union has not yet served 72-hour-strike notice.

Union president Rudy Kricken said today everything in the contract is in dispute.

He said it would take too much time to go into any more detail about the issues.

The employees are the third group to vote for strike action against the B.C. Food Industry Labor Relations Council, which represents Safeway, Shop-Easy and Economart outlets.

Both the meatcutters' local of the Canadian Food and Allied Workers and the Bakery and Confectionary Workers International Union voted earlier this month to strike.

The three sectors, representing about 5,000 workers, have been without a contract since March 31.

Tokyo Market Batters Dollar

Times News Services

The U.S. dollar, spurned by money traders and abandoned by Japan's central bank, took another spectacular plunge on the Tokyo foreign exchange market today, and fiscal experts predicted further losses.

The dollar closed the day's trading at 195.50 yen, a sharp drop from Monday's previous record low of 199.10 and nearly five yen below Friday's close.

Meanwhile, the price of gold, at the highest levels in 3½ years, fell slightly.

Pressure on the dollar eased on some European markets, although the currency was still very weak. It fell to another record low in Zurich — 1.7715 Swiss francs, down from Monday's close of 1.77375.

Swiss bankers repeated their view that the Bonn economic summit last week amounted to too many words and not enough action on solving the world's economic crises.

In Tokyo the bank of Japan abandoned efforts to bolster the dollar, which closed at the postwar low of 195.50 yen.

Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda blamed the drop on what he described as the lack of a monetary policy in the U.S. and other foreign countries and to the failure of the U.S. Congress to approve President Carter's energy legislation.

No Flight Passenger Gets $800

MONTREAL (CP) — Air Canada has been ordered to pay $800 to a doctor who bought a ticket from the airline for a non-existent flight.

Dr. Amine Kanaan bought a ticket for a flight from Montreal to Val d'Ore. He was assured there would be a connecting flight with Fecteau Air Service to Matagami, where he was to provide medical services.

When the Air Canada flight reached Val d'Or, about 430 kilometres northwest of here, Kanaan discovered there was no flight to Matagami and had to spend the day there while waiting for a return flight to Montreal.

Provincial court Judge Robert Turgeon said it was grossly negligent of Air Canada to sell a ticket for a non-existent flight.

Dr. Kanaan and his lawyers had originally claimed a total of $2,925 for lost revenues and costs.

'Rollback Attempt' Charge by BCGEU

The B.C. government has been accused of attempting to roll back the wages of 2,000 of its employees by changing their classifications.

In a newsletter to members of local 1201 of the B.C. Government Employees Union, local chairman Ron Richings says the proposal to create the new category of office assistant to replace the clerk, clerk-steno, typist and similar groups at levels one and two "threatens to become a full-scale storm."

"The office assistant series appears to be our employer's attempt to roll back wages won at the bargaining table by manipulating the classification process," Richings says.

"There are some aspects which are not yet clear but the more we learn about this series, the worse it looks."

A government spokesman said the proposal is an attempt to "rationalize the salary range" for 15 classifications which are separated by a maximum of $15 to $20.

John Mochrie, director of personnel policy for the Government Employee Relations Bureau, said in an interview this would involve dividing the junior and entry level jobs into two new categories — office assistants one and two.

"No present employees will have their salary reduced," he said. "If anything, in the conversion they will be going up instead of down."

He said the starting salaries for new employees in these categories would be lower, in keeping with market conditions for these jobs.

But the maximum for each category would be higher, he said, because "we're taking the long range and trying to get some reasonable intervals between each level."

"There was some concern that we're down-grading a bunch of jobs which is not true. We're not down-grading jobs at all — we're changing salary structure.

"We are not looking at changes in salary as much as a rationalization of salary range in the interval steps between the minimum and the maximum."

He said the proposal was presented to the BCGEU last August.

Marg Arthur, administrative assistant to the union's secretary general, refused comment "because the matter is under discussion with the employer."

Forests Potential Infernos, 10,000 Workers Now Idled

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than 10,000 workers in B.C. logging industry have now been laid off as hot, dry weather continues to make forests in the province potential infernos, a Council of Forest Industries official said Monday.

"It's not a disaster yet, but if it stays dry for some time longer it could be," said Mike Painter, the council's forestry vice-president. He said an estimated 20,000 persons are directly involved in logging in B.C.

"Most camps are down now. That includes Prince Rupert, even though that is one of the dampest areas," Painter said.

The long-range weather forecast was for continued high temperatures and low rainfall in most parts of the province where 150 forest fires now are burning — of which 92 began this past weekend.

Forecasters say conditions will not change for about 30 days. The threat of lightning strikes in that time could make this summer the worst fire season in 20 years, they say.

The general manager of a province-wide forest companies' association said all 97 of the group's members have shut their operations.

"Even the night fogs on the west coast of Vancouver Island are not what they used to be. Usually the fog makes the forest wet enough so we can get in an early-morning shift," said Don Mackenzie.

A spokesman for MacMillan Bloedel Ltd., B.C.'s largest forest company, said only two of the company's 17 divisions were operating Monday.

Tom Williams said about 2,780 regular employees and 670 contract workers have been laid off for the duration of the heat wave.

In the Upper Fraser Valley, east of here, three forest companies have laid off about 200 workers, a spokesman for one of them said.

Bill Johnston of Canadian Forest Products' Harrison operation estimated 10 per cent of logging operations in the area have not closed down. He said at least one inch of rain followed by cloudy weather is needed before logging can resume.

John Sturgeon, spokesman for B.C. Forest Products, said Monday that about 1,000 of the firm's employees have been laid off.

"Practically every one of our operations is down or is about to go down," he said.

In Victoria, Arnold Ginnever of the B.C. Forest Service said the situation is steadily deteriorating and is especially bad in the Prince Rupert area where five major fires were burning.

The Prince Rupert forest service said a 7,000-acre fire in the extreme northwest corner of B.C. near Atlin had stopped spreading Monday.

Forester Glen Moore said two other major blazes were contained and another three new fires were under control.

New Begin Plan Scorned

Times News Services

CAIRO — Egypt has refused to accept a message from Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin because it contained no new proposals for Middle East peace talks, the semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram said today.

The news report followed statements by Egyptian officials that talks between leaders of the two countries could not be resumed until Israel altered its policy.

Al-Ahram said the message to President Anwar Sadat, which was received Sunday night, was rejected because it contained nothing but a repetition of Israel's position.

Begin announced after a Sunday cabinet meeting that he would send Sadat a proposal for further meetings.

Sadat summoned his National Security Council for a meeting Wednesday to discuss the latest developments and to prepare for the forthcoming visit by U.S. State Secretary Cyrus Vance, the newspaper said.

"Israel's intransigent position made it necessary to convene the council," it said.

Meanwhile in Jerusalem, during a raucus and occasionally ear-splitting debate in the parliament, Begin's government Monday withstood by a two-to-one margin a resolution of no confidence in Israel's peace policy.

The Labor alignment shelved, for the time being, a no-confidence vote in Begin's administration. Instead, it offered a five-point indictment of Israel's foreign policy that Begin's Likud coalition defeated by 64 to 32 votes.

The resolution declared that Begin's cabinet is conducting negotiations in a way that is certain to result in a deadlock with Israel's Arab adversaries, and that peace in the Middle East will never be advanced without Israel's readiness to accept territorial compromise in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip.

Begin was elected last year on a promise to retain the West Bank as Israel's "eternal" right, and his peace proposal, while offering Egypt the return of virtually all of the Sinai desert, rejects the concept of withdrawal from the West Bank and Gaza.

The Knesset (parliament) floor erupted into a cacophony of heckling and shouted insults as Knesset members repeatedly interrupted the prime minister in the course of his rambling, 50-minute speech in defence of Israel's foreign policy. The debate lasted seven hours.

From time to time Begin engaged individual Knesset members in heated arguments, and at one point he complained, "I can't finish a sentence. It is not fair. But never mind, I will speak. I have all my phrases."

Weddings Down, Births Up

OTTAWA (CP) — There were fewer marriages but more births in Canada during 1976 than a year earlier, Statistics Canada reports.

The number of marriages solemnized in 1976 totalled 193,343, a 2.2-per-cent decline from the previous year. Every province except Prince Edward Island and Quebec had fewer marriages. The rate was up in Prince Edward Island and unchanged from 1975 in Quebec.

The federal agency also said that the number of births to Canadian residents in 1976 totalled 359,987, a slight two-tenths of one per cent increase from 1975.

On a province-by-province basis, the number of births was up in four provinces—led by Saskatchewan with 4.2-per-cent more births—and down in six.

Most of British Columbia will remain warm and dry as a ridge of high pressure maintains its hold. Some low cloud and fog is present over the ocean and it will at times drift onshore along the outer coast. The low cloud will tend to depress temperatures at some coastal locations, but elsewhere the mercury will reach into the upper twenties with some readings in the mid-thirties expected in the southern interior

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — After a brief decline, the stock market was again fractionally higher in active mid-afternoon trading.

Among industrials, Pennington's rose 1⅜ to $14, Travelways 1⅛ to $12½, Trimac A ⅝ to $19⅝, Canadian Occidental ½ to $23¾ and Leon's Furniture ½ to $14.

Husky Oil dropped ¾ to $41½, Reader's Digest ½ to $12, Loeb ⅜ to $6⅛, Bell ⅛ to $57⅞ and Alberta Gas Trunk A ¼ to $15½.

In mines, Dome was up one to $94, Placer ⅝ to $23⅝ and Ego ½ to $7½. Sigma fell 1⅛ to $38 and Campbell Red Lake ½ to $42½.

Among oils, Canadian Reserve climbed 1¼ to $13, Total Pete ½ to $12⅝ and United Canso ½ to $10⅝. Siebens slipped ¼ to $33⅞ and Numac ¼ to $34½.

Trading halts were called shortly after the opening in shares of Canada Tungsten Mining Corp. Ltd., which last traded at $16⅜, pending an expected announcement, and in Silverwood Industries Ltd., which last traded at $10⅛.

Silverwood, which remained at $10⅛ after trading in its shares resumed at 2 p.m., said its management is discussing with the Silverwood family the possibility of acquiring controlling interest in the company.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was little changed in a session dominated by heavy activity in airline issues.

Five of the 10 most active NYSE issues were airline issues, which opened strong and then ran into some scattered selling by traders seeing to cash in on the group's sharp rise in the past several months.

American Airlines rose ⅜ to $14¾; TWA was up 1⅝ to $24; Pan Am rose ⅛ to $7⅝; Braniff was unchanged at $15⅛, and Eastern slipped ⅛ to $13⅞.

The air transport companies have been enjoying heavy traffic recently, and second-quarter earnings reports from the industry have come in wellahead of earlier projections by analysts.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were mixed in moderate afternoon trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange. Volume at 2:30 p.m. EDT was 223,200 shares, compared with 441,800 shares traded up to the same time Monday. FCA International was up 10 cents at $2.95, Unigesco A 25 cents at $3.25 and Dofasco A ⅛ at $28. Massey-Ferguson was off ⅛ at $11⅞, Shell Canada ⅜ at $13⅞ and Bell Canada ¼ at $57¾.

London

LONDON (Reuter) — The stock market was firm near the close of moderate trading today. The Financial Times index was up 1.3 at 485.2 about an hour before the close. Analysts attributed the firmer trend to investor hopes that the government's dividend bill will be defeated in Parliament. Government bonds were ⅛ higher in medium and longer maturities while short-dated issues were 1-16 easier. Canadian issues were mixed.

Business Briefs

Burlington

Burlington Industries Inc, a leading manufacturer of textiles, said its third-quarter profit dipped to $20.3 million (72 cents a share) from $25.5 million (90 cents a share) a year ago. The New York-based company said its sales for the period ended July 1 eased to $614.4 million from $621.9 million. For the six-month period, the company profit fell to $51.6 million ($1.83 a share) from $69.2 million ($2.44 a share). Sales, however, rose to $1.81 billion from $1.77 billion.

St. Regis Paper

St. Regis Paper Co. said its second quarter profit rose 38.3 per cent to $39.9 million, or $1.25 a share, from $28.9 million, or 91 cents a share during the same year-ago period.

The New York-based forest-based products company said its revenues for the period increased to $609.8 million from $518.7 million a year ago.

For the six months, St. Regis showed an 11.4 per cent rise in its profit to $55.4 million, or $1.73 dollars a share, from $49.8 million, or $1.57 a share.

Eli Lilly

Eli Lilly and Co., Indianapolis, a leader in the pharmaceutical field, posted a profit of $70.0 million for the second quarter, up from last year's $55.2 million on sales of $444.5 million compared with $375 million.

Six-month net rose to $149 million from $119.4 million, equivalent to $2.11 a share compared with $1.69 a share. Sales were $927.0 million, up from $780.4 million.

Detroit Edison

Detroit Edison Co. reports quarterly earnings of more than double those during the same period last year. A financial statement for the quarter ended June 30 put Edison's earnings on common stok at $43.4 million, or 73 cents a share. During the same period last year, Edison earned $20.1 million, or 37 cents a share, on the stock. Edison officials said the increase in earnings was due in part to increased power sales. Edison is currently awaiting word from the state public service commission on a request for a $123 million rate increase. Company officials said the increase, needed to make up for the effects of inflation on its income, could be decided within the next few weeks.

Cominco

Cominco Ltd. reports earnings of $26,100,000, or $1.37 a share, for the first six months of 1978, compared with $37,800,000, or $2.11 a share, in the same period last year. Revenue was $463,200,000, compared with $411,200,000. "The continuing weakness in the world zinc market contributed significantly to the decrease in earnings," said M. N. Anderson, president and chief operating officer. Fertilizer sales volume increased, however. Potash sales and prices also improved, and there were growing signs of a turnaround in the zinc market, he said. "World inventories are decreasing, zinc consumption shows some improvement, and prices are strengthening," said Anderson. "Demand for lead is good," he added.

New Social Welfare Era?

By LEONARD SHIFRIN

OTTAWA — Three years ago, when the provinces were in a race to see which could provide the most generous supplements for its senior citizens, Ontario changed its levels twice in a matter of months to avoid being leapfrogged by Alberta and British Columbia.

Although inflation has subsequently eroded the value of all those provincial supplements by 25 per cent, no one has moved to increase them since.

Three years ago Saskatchewan was proudly pioneering the country's first income-tested family allowance supplement, paying up to $40 per child each month to the province's working poor.

Today that supplement still stands at $40, inflation having not only eroded its value, but cut in half the number of families with incomes low enough to receive it.

While government's contribution to inflation-fighting — holding the line on social expenditures — doesn't appear to have had much effect on the inflation rate, it has certainly had an impact on those who are dependent on social programs.

The recent spectacle of police scuffling at the Ontario legislature with angry demonstrators protesting in wheelchairs and on crutches against Workmen's Compensation rates that hadn't been increased since 1975, testifies eloquently to that impact.

VANDER ZALM . . . rearguard fight

Has the pendulum now swung as far as it is going to go?

There is some evidence that argues yes and some that says no.

The Ontario government's hurried announcement of compensation rate increases in the wake of the injured workers' demonstration certainly suggests that some sort of message has gotten through.

Likewise, the confession to the Manitoba legislature by Conservative Welfare Minister Bud Sherman that he has found no evidence of the welfare abuse his party condemned so vociferously in its opposition days indicates that the welfare-bashing era may be over in that province.

On the other hand, it clearly isn't over in British Columbia, where Human Resources Minister Bill Vander Zalm talks about shipping welfare recipients out of Vancouver (to internment camps in the interior, perhaps?) and cutting off those who refuse to be carted away.

* * *

Whatever the pendulum's future course, these past three years have left their mark on the supporters of social programs, and the scars of battles fought and lost were much in evidence at the recent Canadian Conference on Social Development.

In the decade that I have been attending these conferences (they are held every second year), I have come to expect a maddening lack of realism from them.

But not this time.

Where resolutions on income security in previous years have been of the "Utopia now" variety, this year's statement began by noting that "current economic and fiscal conditions discourage major new expenditures aimed at reducing income inequality."

Achieving that goal, the statement said, would therefore require "restructuring social programs and tax provisions now in place" — even though that meant carving up some very sacred cows.

What, for example, is the great virtue of retaining universality in family allowances when, combined with the children's deduction in the Income Tax Act, it results in total benefits that are 60 per cent higher for a family with $25,000 income than for one with only $7,000?

* * *

Provided the benefits from such tax expenditure provisions are included in the process, even the staunchest supporters of universality were willing to see the social benefit pie reapportioned on a selective basis.

The remarkable thing about that is not the choice that was made — reducing income inequalities rather than preserving the principle of universality — but that the need to make such a choice was recognized.

If so, then the next few years could see the emergence of a major accommodation between the two sides, with dispassionate pragmatism replacing the shrill clash of ideologies on social security issues.

I know optimism hasn't been the order of the day lately, but possibly — just possibly — there may be some warrant for a bit of it.

Politics at the Chess Board

By DAVID SPANIER
Times of London

How fascinating that the struggle of Soviet dissidents to achieve freedom as individual citizens should extend to the quintessential Soviet game of chess.

The challenger in the world chess championship match, which began last week in the resort of Baguio City in the Philippines, is a grandmaster dissident — Victor Korchnoi.

By contrast, the holder, Anatoly Karpov, is, in the good sense of the word, a conformist. Ever since his talents for chess were revealed as a youngster he has been cared for and coached to become the superstar he is today. He represents the successful end product which Soviet society seeks to produce in conferring so many advantages on its sportsmen.

Korchnoi, no less talented and until his defection two years ago almost as celebrated a figure in Soviet chess, is the rebel. As he made clear in his recently published account of his chess career, his resentment at petty restrictions, at the KGB presence lurking at foreign tournaments, at the constant feeling of being under supervision from chess authorities, grew so intense he decided to leave for good.

This was quite a different kind of decision from that of Soviet Jews, who seek to emigrate to Israel, because as a chess player and former Soviet champion Korchnoi enjoyed all the privileges Soviet life can offer. Admittedly, he has what would be described in the West as an artistic temperament, of the kind that makes creative people difficult to deal with, so it might have been hard for him to settle down in any country. In the Soviet Union the strain was too much.

* * *

The question now is whether Korchnoi can keep his strong feelings under control for the extended duration of a world championship match. The winner will be the first to score six victories, which, allowing for draws and other holdups, means the match may last for two months or more.

Enormous presitge attaches to the outcome. It is no longer simply a matter of being the best chess player in the world, which in Soviet eyes is a signal honor indeed. The match is bound to be seen in Moscow as a struggle between the established Soviet way of sport and the dissident who has dared to answer back and reject the glittering prizes. For Korchnoi's name now is hardly to be uttered aloud in Soviet chess.

It must be emphasized that Karpov, for his part, seems an extremely likeable as well as greatly gifted young man and has showed in his powerful play over successive tournaments that he is a worthy champion. Moreover, he has the advantage at 27 of being 20 years younger than his challenger.

A whole battery of advisers and analysts will be available to back him up in a match. Korchnoi will have the benefit of two English grandmasters, Keene and Stean.

Although the chess experts rank Karpov as the favorite to win, the outcome is open. If Korchnoi can avoid the kind of over-excited and almost pure paranoiac reactions he suffered in the final qualifying match against his compatriot Boris Spassky — when he claimed that secret "rays" were being directed at him from the auditorium and then blundered away his queen — he could well win.

Karpov, with the full weight of Soviet sport upon his young shoulders, will need all his undoubted mastery to withstand the attack.

Bored Japan Wives Turn to Drugs

By MARK MURRAY

TOKYO — Police have issued a nationwide warning that Japan is experiencing a second post-war explosion in drug addiction encouraged by Mafia-style gangs.

The biggest increase in addiction has been among bored housewives and school students, particularly girls.

The use of narcotics and stimulant drugs had been in decline since the early 1950s when the nation finally beat the menace of Philopon, a pep pill that was widely used during the period of harsh post-war austerity.

Drug-related arrests began to surge again in 1975. Last year 14,471 people were arrested for violations of the drug control law and almost 70 kilograms of various stimulants were seized by customs officers and police. The arrest figure was 35 per cent up on 1976 and drug seizure doubled. Another big jump is predicted this year.

Nearly all the drugs are imported, 90 per cent of them produced in clandestine factories set up with Japanese gangster capital in South Korea.

Marijuana arrests in 1977 reached a record 1,096 (a 14.2 per cent increase) but there is now almost no interest in LSD and "hard" drugs, such as heroin. The bulk of the trade is in the so-called "uppers and downers" pills, peddled mainly through bars and coffee shops.

The National Police Agency says: "Stimulant drugs are now the biggest source of income for the big gangs." One 11-man group arrested recently in Kochi, southern Japan, had made $500,000 from drug sales in the small town in the previous three months.

Economically hard-pressed small business operators, bus, taxi and truck drivers are the steadiest customers for stimulants, but police are most concerned about the surge in use among housewives and schoolgirls.

Last year, 237 housewives were arrested, against 167 in 1976. One expert explained: "They're bored at home. The housework doesn't take so long, and all they have to do is watch television."

Schoolchildren represented 5.6 per cent of those arrested. Double the figure of the previous year. The expert said: "It's a way of escaping the harsh pressures of our education system and bringing a little imagined glamor into their lives, as well as an act of rebellion against a sterile society."

A national education campaign, harsher penalties for trafficking — several unprecedented 10-year jail terms have been handed out recently — and a crackdown on the gangs are among the steps being adopted by police to meet the threat.

London Observer

Cow'rin, Tim'rous Beasties

russell baker

This is no time to be a mouse. Scarcely a day goes by without another newspaper report that some poor mouse has been press-ganged into a laboratory and subjected to deadly experiments.

Last week there was the story of the mouse who had been stuffed with well-done hamburger until he developed cancer. If it isn't hamburger a mouse is being stuffed with, it's saccharine, red-dye No. 2, pork treated with nitrites, cigarette smoke. You name it and some scientist will try it out on a mouse.

Not long ago a scientist planted coins in mice and, after getting the usual results, announced that money causes cancer. He was reprimanded by the medical profession for lack of seriousness, which was not startling. The medical profession's interest in upholding the good reputation of money is comparable to the tobacco industry's stake in maintaining the harmlessness of cigarettes.

So many mice are having so many afflictions imposed on them in the laboratory that it's hard to find a mouse these days who isn't in dreadful physical condition. There is a mouse in the office here, for example, who has a cauliflower ear.

This results from an experiment conducted by a research team to test a theory that the telephone leads to high blood pressure. This particular mouse was shanghaied on Eighth Avenue and taken to a laboratory in which he was required to keep a telephone receiver pressed to his ear 18 hours a day.

After six weeks his ear looked like the ear of an old boxer mouse who had stayed on in the ring 10 years after he should have hung up the gloves.

The scientists' conclusion that the telephone causes cauliflower ear hasn't been published yet. It is being held back for release some dull week when there is no grimmer news from the laboratories to keep public anxiety at desperate heights.

A household mouse of whom we are rather fond disappeared last winter and turned up the other day after a long absence, looking 10 years older. The bags under her eyes suggested she had been held by scientists and injected with three fifths of bourbon daily to test a theory that alcohol leads to bloodshot eyes.

This was incorrect, as it turned out. When she arrived among the scientific researchers she became the subject of a violent dispute. One group wanted to inject her with tennis-ball fuzz to test whether tennis players run an inordinate risk of cancer. The other wanted to make her jog 16 miles a day to test whether joggers are less likely than strolling pedestrians to be run down by motorists with New Jersey licence plates.

During the squabbling, a third group of scientists snatched her for an experiment involving R.N.: The Memoirs of Richard Nixon. They were testing a theory that the book may cause glazed eyeballs, stertorous breathing and, eventually, irreversible coma.

After three weeks during which the Nixon memoirs were read to her 16 hours a day, the mouse became lachrymose and developed an intense hostility toward everyone involved in the former president's downfall. By then, however, the scientists who had been reading to her had each entered irreversible coma, which made her easy prey for another group of researchers who wanted to test the theory that, at $5 a pound, the book was just as economical a buy as beef.

During the experiment she was fed three and a half pounds of Nixon memoirs, both raw and cooked. After two weeks of the diet, she developed an acute case of soporific prose, which so maddened the scientists that they uncaged her and let her run free around the laboratory while throwing copies of the book at her.

It was like trying to swat a fly with the 16-pound shot. Next month the research team will publish its findings: R.N.: The Memoirs of Richard Nixon is no good for killing mice.

It is good to have the poor creature back, but she disdains the $1.39 cheese we put out for her nightly. Hooked on the quality stuff, I suppose.

Ill Health Linked to Building Materials

More Insulation, Less Ventilation a Potential Hazard: Expert

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

Got a headache? Your eyes smart? Periodically have a sore throat, bouts of nausea or dizziness?

According to studies in the United States, toxic gases emanating from urea-formaldehyde products are capable of causing such symptoms.

The ramifications are vast. Urea-formaldehyde is used in foam insulations and is a common bonding agent for plywoods and particleboards. Virtually every home in Canada includes some materials containing the substance.

While the degree of danger isn't known, Peter Breysse, an industrial hygienist with the University of Washington in Seattle, says the problem is potentially serious, particularly for persons living in mobile homes which are more tightly constructed than conventional dwellings, use more plywood and are not so readily ventilated.

Breysse said he's examined 330 residences, the bulk of them mobile homes, over the past three years after homeowners complained of periodic lapses of ill health.

In each case he found traces of formaldehyde vapors in the living space of the homes. The concentrations ranged from .05 to 2.5 parts per million, with an average of .06. The maximum exposure recommended by the U.S. National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health is 2 parts per million, with half that amount considered safe for homes.

He said more than 80 per cent of the people complained of irritation to their eyes and throat. Some also had headaches, nausea and dizziness, and a few reported temporary loss of memory, drowsiness and even difficulty breathing. The symptoms disappeared when the people left their homes.

Bill White, head of the federal consumer services product safety branch in Vancouver, said the toxicity of formaldehyde has long been recognized.

But he doubts there is anything unduly toxic about urea-formaldehyde products as such.

He said he's received no complaints in B.C., but added that may be because people who develop symptoms of formaldehyde poisoning probably wouldn't suspect the cause.

Breysse, who has been studying the problems associated with formaldehyde emissions for more than 17 years, said the vapor emanates from urea-formaldehyde building materials as a natural process. Most evaporates during production and storage, but the little that's left continues to break down and escape even after five or six years.

"There's no solution as far as I can tell, except ventilation."

The energy conservation movement isn't helping matters, he said.

On one hand people are being told to make their homes more airtight to cut heat loss. The result — less ventilation.

And on the other they are being advised to improve the insulation in their homes. The result — more and more people turning to foam products, regarded as one of the best insulations on the market. Some foam products contain urea-formaldehyde.

"By trying to solve one problem, we may be creating another indoors," he said.

White said his branch in Ottawa is aware of a problems of fumes being emitted by unreacted formaldehyde in foam insulations. That, he said, happens when the applicator prepares an improper mix, normally done at the building site. But the government has set standards and tests that applicators are required to follow to ensure the mix is correct. Unfortunately, he added, there is no legislation making the tests mandatory.

One local applicator said he dropped the product a year ago after about 25 installations, not for health reasons but because the equipment was too expensive and the mixing process unreliable.

Breysse feels agencies such as B.C. Hydro and Washington Natural Gas should not promote urea-formaldehyde foam insulations until more is known about the possible side effects.

In B.C. the product has been slower in gaining acceptance.

"We aren't promoting it," a Hydro spokesman said. "We tell people if they want to use it they use it at their own risk. We acknowledge it's a good insulator but warn people they may have problems, particularly with insulation shrinkage.

But, he added, "If this stuff is bad, then it should be taken up by the governments and banned."

The implications are enormous. There are more than 18,000 mobile homes in B.C. Formaldehyde is found in thousands of products, from auto-seats to drapery to permanent-pressed fabrics to subflooring in houses.

CONCRETE HITS GIRL

Pedestrian Deborah Beal, 17, suffered a gashed leg when hit by a flying barrel of wet concrete near Swan Lake Monday evening.

Police said a truck driven by Roderick Gordon Henson, 3903 Saanich Road, was proceeding on Saanich Road near Taine when the barrel fell off, striking the girl as she walked to a friend's home from her residence at 959 Woodhall.

Beer Smugglers Each Fined $200

Three Chemainus men who smuggled more than 140 cases of beer from the United States to Vancouver Island were each fined $200 in provincial court Monday.

Robert Beadle, 26, Ronald Samoleski, 26, and Edward Samoleski, 22, all pleaded guilty to a charge of smuggling under the Canada Customs Act and Crown counsel Brian Smith entered a stay of proceedings on a charge of possession of illegally imported goods.

Court was told that the three were apprehended at a road block at Island View and Pat Bay Highway July 14 following a 10-hour surveillance at Island View Beach by RCMP and Central Saanich police.

Smith said 122 cases of beer, purchased in the San Juan Islands, were confiscated from Beadle's truck. The beer had been shuttled from Roche Harbor to D'Arcy Island on the Canadian side before coming over to Island View Beach in two loads aboard Beadle's 12-foot fibreglass boat.

Smith said another 19½ cases were recovered a few days later. The beer had a total value of $680.50, he said.

Beadle's truck, boat and trailer were confiscated, and Smith said it will cost him $700 in penalties and duty to recover his property.

Defence lawyer William McElmoyle told the court the beer was intended for a salmon barbecue in Crofton and that the operation was not carried out for profit.

LONGER TRAIN READY FRIDAY?

The E&N Dayliner's new 90-passenger Budd car for the Victoria-to-Courtenay run will arrive in Victoria Wednesday and is expected to be ready for the 8:15 a.m. run Friday.

The car was promised by CP Rail last weekend after the popularity of the ride increased and people were left behind.

The run was scheduled for abandonment Dec. 13, but committees to save the service sprang up, fares were lowered and politicians entered the battle.

With the additional 90 seats, the Dayliner will be able to carry 161 passengers.

Sidney Vetoes Building Delay

Sidney council Monday night voted down a proposal to delay development for six months until the community plan could be revised.

The motion by Ald. Peter Grant, seconded by Ald. Ross Martin, was rejected 3-1.

Grant said council should not issue any further subdivision permits or land-use contracts until the community plan has been revised.

He said Sidney is entering an era of massive development.

Opponents said pressure to expand is so great the community could not afford to hold up projects.

A development proposal by Island View Marina Ltd. will be resubmitted to council Monday.

A condominium proposal will also go before council next Monday. It is by Ker Priestman and Associates Ltd. of behalf of Picadilly Apts. for rezoning and a land-use contract to build 100 condominium units on 3.34 acres, about 30 units per acre.

Bogus 20s Circulating

Counterfeit U.S. $20 bills are circulating in Greater Victoria, part of $40,000 worth of fake currency police believe was earmarked since mid-month for passing in B.C.

Sgt. Ken Horsman of Victoria city police fraud section said the bills had shown up at hotels, bars and department stores in this area, but not in as large number as on the Lower Mainland where at least 20 of the worthless 20s have been turned in.

A flood of counterfeits was dumped into B.C. and Alberta, police say, coinciding with the Calgary Stampede and Edmonton Klondike days, and in time for the upcoming Pacific National Exhibition and Commonwealth Games.

In Edmonton, $18,000 in counterfeit cash was recovered in a weekend raid that netted a ring of eight men and three women. Burnaby RCMP have charged a Vancouver woman, Veronica Laroque, 31, with possessing and uttering counterfeit money.

The bills are described as new-looking but washed out - a paler green than a genuine $20 bill - and with important differences in the type and engraving.

Horsman recommends storekeepers and others likely to receive the bills keep a genuine specimen on hand for comparison, making sure it is from the same Federal Reserve Bank shown on the face.

The counterfeits are purported to be drawn on the San Francisco Federal Reserve and some lack the FRB face number that should appear in the upper right corner.

Horsman said clerks should look for the differences between genuine and suspected bills, rather than for similarities.

On a genuine bill the printing should be sharp and clear; the paper should be bluish with red and blue fibres; it should be possible to feel the numerals by passing a finger over them; the fine screen of lines surrounding the face portrait should be clean.

The seized bills bear only seven serial numbers and those found here are of the B-F series: B22658323F, B71721175F, B1721175B, B85982758F, L36326444D, L45157026B, and L82309080D.

Those found on the mainland bear a front plate number E94 and back plate number 242. The Victoria bills passed in the last few days show a front plate number D142 and back 286. Three weeks ago a phoney bill showed here with the plate numbers C102 and 230.

CITY PUPILS DOING WELL

The average elementary school pupil in Greater Victoria is doing at least as well as his counterpart of the early 1960s, according to a study done by University of Victoria education professor Dr. Walter Muir.

Muir says that "relatively modest changes in curriculum and instruction could result in substantial gains in learning."

The study of pupils in Grades 3, 5 and 7 was conducted over three years.

TOTAL BAN ON FIRES EXPECTED TONIGHT

A total ban on campfires in southern Vancouver Island was expected to go into effect at midnight tonight as a month-long heat wave continues with only slightly lower temperatures forecast by week's end.

A high of 27 degrees was anticipated today, 24 near the waterfront, falling to about 12 overnight, said forecaster Norman Dressler.

B.C. Forest Service reported no new fires in the island district but with the hazard remaining high most regional parks have been closed, including wooded parts of the University of Victoria campus.

Meanwhile, industrial haze from local mills and across Juan de Fuca Strait has been noticeable in the last few days, coinciding with early-morning temperature inversions.

Dressler said inversions are normal with clear skies and light winds, dissipating with surface heating during the day and reforming overnight.

Bans were announced by North Saanich and Sidney while Central Saanich continues to allow incinerator fires, at least for the time being.

On Monday Saanich announced a ban on all fires because of the continuing heatwave.

The Oak Bay fire department said an incinerator ban will come into effect by the weekend. Oak Bay also announced a number of municipal parks have been closed, including Uplands, Anderson Hill and Walbran.

Esquimalt is still allowing incinerator burning but a fire department official said that "this may be the last week."

The Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain also has been closed to the public because of the hazard. The observatory, however, will be open to the public from 9 p.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday.

Mill Bay Shelter for Quebec Cats

And they have a 23-year-old receptionist to thank for it.

One of the passengers on the plane was so impressed with what Elizabeth was doing she gave $10 towards the animals' care.

Doris said she handed over the money to the shelter, together with another $70 raised by Elizabeth and friends in Montreal.

She said the sisters at the shelter told her they don't normally accept animals from so far away, but relented in this case because "it was a life-or-death thing."

Victoria received its first thank-you note for the Capt. Cook festival immediately after the fireworks display at the Inner Habor Sunday night.

The all-girl crew of the Adventuress, Seattle, had been applauding each starburst and bang and when it was over one girl shouted "all together now" and in unison the girls chanted "thank you, Victoria."

Victoria glass artist Jerry Eversole has been invited to participate in a Toronto master glass workshop in the last two weeks in August.

Sponsored by the Artists in Stained Glass, an Ontario organization, and partly funded by the British Government, the workshop will be attended by 16 of Canada's top glass artists.

Lawrence Lee, head of the Stained Glass Department of the Royal College of Art, London, will be the instructor.

The workshop will concentrate on design approaches to large commissions and kiln fired glass and techniques.

The unifying theme will be a theoretical design for the forty eight windows-to be constructed for the senate Clerestory in Ottawa.

A common complaint of many citizen groups, teachers and researchers involved in environmental matters is that they don't know how and where they can find detailed sources of information on the environment.

The federal department of environment in Ottawa has finally come to their rescue. It has just published a book — a guide telling them how to get information and current literature on the subject.

It also provides a brief listing of national, provincial, territorial and regional citizen groups active in Canada, plus summaries of the work of key federal, provincial and international agencies on the environment.

A heavy demand for books is expected. Copies can be obtained by writing to Inquiry Centre, Information Services Directorate Fisheries and Environment Canada, Ottawa, Ont. K1A OH3.
